FIRE DESTROYS BEAUTIFUL HOME

Residence of Mrs. Eva Edwards On Franklin Street Entirely Destroyed Yesterday

Originating from defective electric wiring, presumably, fire yesterday morning entirely destroyed the pretty cottage of Mrs. Eva Edwards at 201 Franklin street and did considerable damage to the home of L. Geisberg, which is an adjoining house.

Mrs. Edwards, together with a guest, Miss Susie McGill, discovered the fire about 5:30 o'clock, both of the ladies suffered considerably from the smoke before they could escape from the house. They awakened the family of John A. McGill, close by, and Mrs. McGill telephoned the alarm in to the fire station. The call was answered promptly and the fire apparatus was on the scene before the fire had gained considerable headway, but owing to the fact that no water could be thrown from the hose the Edwards house was completely destroyed and Mr. Geisberg's home had a close call.

The water pressure was so low when the fire company reached the scene of the conflagration, according to Mr. McGill and others who live nearby, that the firemen were forced to pour water out of the hose into water buckets and cool scuttles and throw it up to the roof. According to the statement of spectators the firemen could not get the water to the roof of the burning building.

Discussing the matter with an Intelligence reporter yesterday, Chief Jackson said that he did not care to make any statement about the fire, except that he could not get any water. He said that after he telephoned to the sub-station of the power company and informed them of the fire that he got all the water he needed but before that time he was powerless and had to watch the building burn.

Mr. McGill said that the fire department reached the scene in plenty of time to extinguish the flames and save the building had it been possible to get water and says that as it was the members of the fire department deserved great credit for having been able to save Mr. Geisberg's dwelling. Mr. Geisberg also says that had it not been for the faithful efforts of the fire department his home would have been completely destroyed.

Mrs. Edwards was insured for approximately $4,200 in the Citizens Insurance Company and a rumor was going the rounds yesterday to the effect that this company would institute suit against the company for having failed to furnish sufficient pressure. However, members of the Citizens Insurance Company said last night that they authorized no such statement.

H. A. Orr, of the Southern Public Utilities Company, said yesterday that just as soon as word reached the pressure was applied, but according to his statement the telephone wires were in bad shape as a result of the weather and that it was impossible to get a call through for many hours for something after the blaze was discovered. He says that it was through no fault of his company. That clearly his company can not be blamed for the fact that the telephones were not working.

One feature of the case of special note is that this is the second time Mrs. Edwards has lost her home by fire, her house in the Mountain Creek section of the county having been destroyed about 12 years ago.

Four Week Course in Agriculture

Clemson College, February 13.—Nineteen men were enrolled in the farmers' short course which has just closed at Clemson College, and the college authorities consider that this year's course has been one of the most successful since this work was established. It is better known as the Four Weeks course and began this year on an unprecedented scale.

Those men who stayed the week to the end of the course appeared to be highly pleased at having come and well satisfied with what they had been able to learn in the short space of time given to the work.

The men who took the short course were practical farmers, most of whom had not had earlier opportunities for learning scientific agricultural methods. The aid of the college was to give them an broad and thorough knowledge of the elements of agriculture as could be given in four weeks.

The course contained work in agronomy, including plant growth, soils, fertilizers, tillage, implements and farm crops; work in animal industry, including breeds of animals, breeding, feeding, care of animals and stock judging; and some work in horticulture, dairying, veterinary science and entomology.

This course is given at Clemson College early each year. The enrollment is steadily increasing in size and there are other evidences that interest in it is growing among the farmers of the state. The course is open to all practical farmers who want to take it. It is desired to impress farmers in all sections of the state with the large opportunities which these four weeks of work hold for them in crops that as many as possible may receive the benefit.

Much care is taken in the instruction of the men who take short courses. This course possesses advantages for the practical farmer, which are likely to mean a very real increase in his income and which will besides enable him to apply himself to more advanced scientific study with an understanding of fundamentals.

ANDERSON FARMERS SHOULD HEAR PLAN

Greenville Hears That Demand For Division of Tenth Circuit is Political Move

Why can't the Piedmont section of South Carolina and Greenville and Anderson counties in particular, grow tobacco of good quality as Virginia and the Piedmont section of North Carolina? This is a question which will be discussed at a big farmers meeting which has been called to be held on the 21st of this month, in the Chamber of Commerce rooms at Greenville to discuss the proposition of growing tobacco in large quantities in that county.

The meeting is being held under the auspices of the department of agriculture of the Chamber of Commerce and it is expected every farmer who is in any way interested in the proposition, he present. Mr. W. E. Lee, of Timmonsville, a prominent tobacco grower of that section, and proprietor of the Banner Warehouse, of that city, is expected here on that date to talk the farmers about tobacco growing. It is the hope of those who have promoted the idea to undertake the growing of tobacco in this section of the state. No reply has yet been received to this inquiry but it is expected that the department will give all assistance in its power to the idea.

It is the belief of those who are promoting the movement that this section of the state can grow just as good tobacco and in just as large quantities as the Piedmont belt in North Carolina and Virginia.

Mr. David B. Traxler of Greenville, who has taken an active interest in the movement has written to the United States department of agriculture, asking for the co-operation of their tobacco experts in the movement which is to be started to grow tobacco in this section of the state.

RUMOR IS HURTING NEW CIRCUIT BILL

Greenville Planters Are to Consider the Question of Raising Tobacco for Market Anderson people yesterday heard that the rumor is afloat throughout this section of the state to the effect that the demand for a division of the Tenth Judicial Circuit is nothing but a political move and that such a division is not at all necessary. The report which is being spread says that it is merely an agitation for the purpose of helping politicians into the line and that the demand for the new circuit is merely to create the two additional offices of judge and solicitor. Anderson people and Greenville people who are acquainted with the lamentable congested condition of the courts of this district recognize on its face the preposterousness of this and do not believe that the rumor will hurt the chances of the new circuit in the General Assembly.

The following is what the Greenville News of yesterday had to say about the report: "Demand for the division of the 10th judicial circuit, including the counties of Greenville, Anderson, Pickens and Oconee counties, grows greater each day and the general belief now is that the measure will become a law. The bill has already passed the senate and has been favorably reported by the judiciary committee of the house. The governor is said to be in favor of the measure, and it is believed he will gladly sign it."

RUMOR IS HURTING NEW CIRCUIT BILL

Greenville Planters Are to Consider the Question of Raising Tobacco for Market

Anderson people yesterday heard that the rumor is afloat throughout this section of the state to the effect that the demand for a division of the Tenth Judicial Circuit is nothing but a political move and that such a division is not at all necessary. The report which is being spread says that it is merely an agitation for the purpose of helping politicians into the line and that the demand for the new circuit is merely to create the two additional offices of judge and solicitor. Anderson people and Greenville people who are acquainted with the lamentable congested condition of the courts of this district recognize on its face the preposterousness of this and do not believe that the rumor will hurt the chances of the new circuit in the General Assembly.

The following is what the Greenville News of yesterday had to say about the report: "Demand for the division of the 10th judicial circuit, including the counties of Greenville, Anderson, Pickens and Oconee counties, grows greater each day and the general belief now is that the measure will become a law. The bill has already passed the senate and has been favorably reported by the judiciary committee of the house. The governor is said to be in favor of the measure, and it is believed he will gladly sign it."

"It has been rumored at the capital city that the house will oppose the measure on the ground that it is purely a political move on the part of certain parties in this district but as a division of the circuit would create but two new offices, a solicitor for the Anderson circuit, and a judge for the Greenville circuit, it is not believed that the rumor will influence members of the house. There has been but little talk in this city of a candidate for the judgeship of the proposed new circuit. In fact, every report that candidates were making plans to enter into the new offices have been denied. A report comes from Wall-halla that a certain attorney of that town will ask the governor to consider him as an applicant for the position of solicitor of the Anderson circuit in the event the bill for a division is passed."

"The demand of residents of this district for a division of the 10th judicial circuit is, I believe, great enough to warrant the passage of the bill," said Attorney J. J. McSwain, yesterday afternoon when asked what he thought of the situation. "It is certainly needed, he continued, and for this reason I believe the house will act favorably upon the matter. Former members of the legislature, though seen at least to understand why this circuit has such an enormous amount of criminal business."

"Sheriff Ashley of Anderson county, who was a visitor in the city yesterday, said the people of Anderson were much pleased with the idea of dividing the circuit. He said small circuits would mean much to Greenville and Anderson counties, where the court dockets are so congested each term that it is impossible to even clear the jails, not to mention the cases of offenders awaiting trial on bond."

"A person arrested for operating a 'blind tiger' today, if released on bond, would probably get a hearing of his case in five years from now," said a county official recently. He said the trial of an offender out on bond was almost unknown in this county. This was given purely as an illustration of the need of the division of the circuit."

WORST DAY OF THE WINTER

All Elements Took a Part in Making Yesterday the Worst Of The Winter It seemed that all the elements tried to take a hand yesterday in making the day the worst of the winter for Anderson. Rain, sleet and snow fell at intervals and throughout the day biting cold was experienced. The bad weather began in the early part of the night Thursday and continued throughout yesterday. First the rain began falling, which shortly changed to sleet, and then snow took a hand.

The streets of the city were yesterday as slick as glass and many a dignified gentleman and business lady tumbled in the snow when they attempted to cross the street or to step to a neighbor's door.

A number of the Anderson merchants refused to send out their delivery wagons yesterday on account of injuring their horses, and instead the packages were delivered for the most part by carrier.

Only one accident of a serious nature occurred during the day, so far as is known, that being the one met with by Mrs. Stephens.
