Items of Interest and Personal Mention Caught Over the Wires On the Streets of Anderson.

Mr. Laser Left Last Night.
Newman Laser, supreme steward of the Fraternal Union of America and here in the interest of that order, left Anderson last night after having been in the city for several days waging a membership campaign for Security Lodge No. 241. Mr. Laser said last night that he was well pleased with what had been done here and that a total of a dozen new members were added here. He said that he was more than favorably impressed with "My Town" and that he considered it one of the most business-like and bustling cities in the south.

Mrs. Kotel Is Now Recovering.
Mrs. Anthony Kotel of Hartwell, Ga., who recently underwent an operation at the Anderson county Hospital, is now practically recovered. This will be good news to Mrs. Kotel's many friends in Anderson as she has been quite ill for a long time.

Living Model Showed Suits.
Although the weather was not springlike a number of Anderson women and men attended the opening at Mrs. Beulah Graves Boyd's store yesterday afternoon and last night. Miss Phoney, who is the model for coats made by Mrs. Swartz of New York, wore several unusually attractive suits. One of fox glove color made of crepe material, another in a shade with the new style color. Other suits were made in navy blue, recede, checked and tango. Two of the most attractive suits were the Turkish suits of violet color and an exquisite wedding gown. With every suit Miss Phoney wore a spring hat furnished by Mrs. Boyd. Mr. Peck who is special agent for the Swartz suits made quite an interesting little talk before the demonstration began, and urged the Anderson people to shop at home. Miss Phoney will be at Mrs. Boyd's again today from 3 to 5 and 8 to 10.

Many Amusing Things Happened here during the convention, as was to be expected. It is reported that a delegate arrived ahead of schedule time and unheralded went to his host's home at a rather late hour, thinking that he was expected, and on reaching the home was surprised to find the place in darkness. Not abashed at this absence of light in "The Electric City," he rang the bell and his host aroused from a deep sleep to ascertain where his guest had come from. The visitor announced, "Well, I am your delegate." The half-conscious host, not realizing the portent of his words, exclaimed "The h— you are."

Another case came to the attention of an intelligence man, but this time the joke was on the delegate. Upon alighting from the interurban he went into one of the nearby drug stores to ascertain where his host resided. Fortunately (it is the little son of the household was there making a purchase. The delegate pleaded that luck was in his favor, proceeded to possess the package to take it home for the boy. The little fellow looking closely at his newly found friend asked, "Have you ever had bumps?" No, my young friend, has anyone at your home mumps?" "Yes sir, my little brother," said the boy. "Well, I am gone," exclaimed the departing guest.

D. C. HOLLAND, Anderson, S. C.

SUNDAY SERVICES
Dr. Frazer will preach at Midway Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The services will be preceded by the Sabbath school at 3 o'clock. All will be cordially welcomed.

Chief Lee On "Blue Laws."
Chief Lee of the Anderson police force, talking to a reporter for The Intelligencer yesterday, said that there seemed to be some misunderstanding about some of the businesses to be affected by the recent Sunday ordinance which city council has enacted. Mr. Lee said that his instructions relative to the Sunday law applied to drug stores and fruit stands and no more and that he had not been notified by city council to molest newsboys, bootblacks, or livery stables and that unless he received further orders from the mayor he would not do so next Sunday. It had been announced that even the newsboys would be prohibited from selling papers on the streets and that the shoe-shine negroes must go out of business.

Great Was The Fall Thereof.
A negro named Bill Knox was severely paraded up Main street yesterday morning, regardless of the slippery pavement, loaded down with a great basket of fine china. Unfortunately for Bill, his feet ascended higher than his head and down went Bill dishes and all. He struggled to his feet and recovered possibly half of the dishes unbroken and set out on his way again. Hardly five steps had been taken when again he met his fortune face to face and again fell China fall. This time there was three indiv. jall butter plates left and these Bill scoured, going on his way a sadder, but wiser man.

Greenwood Delegation To Convention.
Among the Greenwood people who have been in Anderson attending the State Sunday School convention were Mrs. Allen Williams, Miss Louise Fleming, Rev. J. E. Green, Mrs. Law Blake.

Notes of the Convention
Three members of the Quattlebaum family, were, by a happy coincidence, delegates to the Sunday school convention. They were Paul Quattlebaum, of Horry county, M. J. Quattlebaum, of Aiken, and Cadet H. H. Quattlebaum of Clemson College.

Morning Session S. S. Association

(By G. P. Watson.)
The third day's session of the Sunday school convention dawned with an accompaniment of sleet, yet a goodly number of delegates reached the church in time for the opening exercises. Mr. F. F. Whilden, a contracted layman, conducted the devotional service.

Mr. D. W. Sims of Georgia, opened the morning program with a strong address on "Teaching Those We Reach." Between the iron ore and the nail there are a factory and many skilled workers. Knowledge is necessary to effect the transformation from ore to nail.

So, between appointment as a teacher and effective work as a teacher there must be the training which insures success. No school can reach the highest degree of success unless the teachers are trained for their work. Get your denominational teacher-training book and study that book, your Bible, and your pupil; and you will be of some service as a teacher. Study to show thyself a workman that needeth not to be ashamed.

Dr. Williamson gave the final study of the Philippian epistle; an inspection of three great characters: Timothy, Epaphroditus and Paul.

Timothy proved his love for Paul by going to Rome to see him, and that meant to share his imprisonment. Epaphroditus was only an ordinary man, but he was willing to risk his life in order that he might carry to Paul the offering which the church at Philippi had made up for him. They did not know that their offering was going to buy this love letter from the aged apostle—a letter which has been a blessing to the churches everywhere ever since it was written.

Read Paul's tribute to Epaphroditus and you will see his reward for the risk he took.

And that tribute is the highest evidence of Paul's greatness. Some men when they begin to rise in the world, cannot see anybody below them. Read Paul's description of himself in the third chapter and see the man's estimate of himself as a Jew and then see how self was dethroned by his declaration: "I count all things but loss, that I may win Christ."

Williamson's visit, and his spiritual expositions of this epistle have been a great blessing and uplift for everyone who has heard him.

Mr. Durham gave a demonstration of plans "How to Reach the 500,000 people on the Outside." The plan is known as "Home Visitation." It is a great undertaking, and it is better salvation of the whole class. The roll of the counties was called, and brief reports were heard from each county represented in the convention, and the counties which have gained banners during the past year were presented with them.

There are ten banner counties and two front line counties. The and chief distinction belongs to Union and Colleton.
