Complete Visits Of Inspection.

P. N. Scott of Edgefield, A. F. Conrad of Clemson College and J. W. Rothrock, United States farm demonstrator for Anderson county, have completed an official visit to all five of the schools in this county operating a demonstration plot in connection with the school. The agricultural men began with the Long Branch school, going from there to the West Pelzer school, then to Three and Twenty, next to Denver and winding up in their trip at Lebanon. Mr. Rothrock said that their visit found all the schools in good condition and that Mr. Lott and Prof. Conrad were both most favorably impressed. He said that the people seemed to be receiving inspiration from the work being done by the schools and were learning better how to get results from agricultural labor.

Legislator Here For the Week-End.

Representative J. A. Hall, a member of the Anderson county delegation in the general assembly, spent the week-end in the city. Mr. Hall talked very interestingly of what has been done by this year's session of the solons. He said that the lower house had passed much constructive legislation but that a great deal of this was yet to be acted on by the Senate and that he feared for the passage of some of the measures through the Senate. He talked interestingly with the pension board on certain legislation that had been attempted for the benefit of the Confederate veterans and regretted that some of it did not pass. Mr. Hall is a candidate for the Senate in the next election and commands a large following in Anderson county, as is shown by the handsome vote he received for the house.

These improvements will add much to the appearance of the building.

First President Honored Yesterday.

Yesterday was generally observed in Anderson as a holiday, celebrating the birthday of George Washington, the "Father of our country." No celebrations or demonstrations took place within the city, although some of the country schools held celebrations and rendered programs.

His territory will consist of parts of both the Carolinas, although he will continue to make his home in Anderson. He left yesterday for Lynchburg to familiarize himself with his new line and to prepare for taking to the road.

Anderson county farmers and the members of the Anderson County Live Stock Association will today hear an address by J. T. Watt of Clemson College, which will be the chief feature of the regular monthly meeting of the association.

The meeting today takes place in the Anderson Chamber of Commerce and it is expected that the attendance will be large, as it always is. Some questions of vital importance to come up for discussion and it is expected that some interesting experiences will be related by those who are present.

No program has been arranged for today by the local Chamber, but Secretary Whaley said last night that today's meeting would prove all as interesting in every way as have been all the meetings of the past.

The Strongest Fence

Science proves that the strongest fence, because constructed throughout on scientific lines, is

ELLWOOD FENCE SIMPLE-SCIENTIFIC-STRONG

THAT IS ALL THERE IS TO ELLWOOD FENCE

Heavy steel cables lapped about and held together by steel wire, forming uniform meshes. Simple, isn't it? No chance for weakness in any part; uniformly strong. The reason for the superiority of Ellwood Fence are not hard to find. This company owns and operates its own iron mines and furnaces; its own wire mills and six large fence factories—either one of the six being larger than any other fence factory in the world. These facts should be convincing.
