Pitcher Calls Reports to Gulls.
Arrival of Pitcher Nick Cullom and shortstop Dohard the Mobile baseball team started work today with fourteen men. Manager Briscoe Lord expects the three missing members, Catcher Charles Schmitt, Outfielder Jimmie Clark and Infielder Al O'Dell, within time for them to get into practice for the exhibition games with Detroit Saturday and Sunday.

Needs to Match Johnson and Smith.
Promoter Jim Corroth of San Francisco, who is spending a little time in the East, hopes to be able to match Gunboat Smith and Jack Johnson for a fight next September at Juana, near Los Angeles. Corroth must figure that Smith will defeat Sam Langford if they meet in London in a couple of months. Johnson is being besieged by all the white hopes for bouts and it is now thought that after he had defended the heavyweight championship for 2 or 3 fights he will have received enough beatings to want to give the belt to the next man that challenges him, free of charge.

The "angel art" of boxing will be indulged in not a little this year as all the large cities are staging fights and promoters of the champion class have their hands full accepting and arranging for bouts. Atlanta has taken on the boxing arena as did the sons of Greece take to the arena of the Gladiators. But Atlanta will take to boxing if given a chance.

Hans Wagner at Home at Dawson Springs.
Hans Wagner is perfectly at home with the people of Dawson Springs, his home town. He is a very popular man with the older people and then spend hours gossiping as though he had lived all his life in that neighborhood. He spends several hours each day in strolling around over the fields and swapping yarns with natives. He appears to like the simplicity and honest enthusiasm and hospitality shown by these good old country folks. Hans shares the well dressed mob that hangs about the hotels, preferring the simple folks of the fields who know nothing about the Federals and what they have done to the other associations.

What is There to Federal Talk?
All this talk of the Federal League managers looking toward the winning of the pennant and a world series is a fair matter. One wonders about the interest of the owners of the clubs. The league, as announced, but we must never forget a character of the foundation of things.

BETTER DYING.
The Country Church and the Farmers' College.
The deacon told me of it. He said the professor from Clemson Agricultural College came on a Saturday to a union meeting of Baptist churches and made an address on "How Clemson Will Help to Support Your Preachers Better."
"I thought he was going to talk business," said the deacon. "But he said that Clemson College had done so with supporting our preachers that he advised us how better trained preachers live in better homes, are more prosperous and demand better churches and preachers, and to that end would support the preachers more liberally. It was plain enough when he showed us.
"Agricultural colleges once had an aim to do better farming. It is now better living on the farm and this includes better farming. In the religious quickening for rural welfare."
"I am glad to hear that," said the deacon. "We are coming to see that there is development in this country in all directions and an effect of it is better living in the country."
"The approach of the Christian religion," said the deacon, "is such as to travel the road of the special service to those who are in the country. We are not to have our eyes turned to the city and those who would hunt out new and strange devices for saving the world. We have no prejudice against cities, but we have no prejudice against the country. We must build on God with all wisdom."

THE THORNWELL ORPHANAGE.
This institution located in Clinton, S. C., is for the education of governing orphan children and, for none other, and only for those who are unable to pay their own expenses. It cares the institution from year to year, the expenses of a child, which sum is provided by the generous Christian public. The young people are not legally bound to the institution and are received as into any other school, the Orphanage being a home for them to distribute them to families. There are in the orphanage of about 20 to the college, there being at present fifteen such cottages. The training is literary, technical, domestic and moral. No child is received under six years of age and as soon as received is at once entered into school in which they continue for four years, graduating at about 22 years of age. The courses are thorough ones. In the mechanical departments, the training includes printing, carpentering, farming, machine work, steam laundry work and all the modern trades. There are now 300 pupils, requiring $22,000 a year to meet expenses. It is wonderful how by the goodness of God and good men and women, all this is provided. Over a thousand young people have been educated in this school and have been every part of it. Rev. Dr. Wm. F. Jacobs is the president and has been for many years. The report of the board of trustees is that the school is in the best of health and that the children are quickly fitted. Only meritorious applicants are received.

ced, show that while the major leagues have escaped fairly well, the International League and American League have been thoroughly combed by the invaders. Reports from the Federal training camps which will be well under way in the next ten days, will all be watched with interest.

Name Rumor is Still Easy with Ownership.
Name rumor is still busy with the ownership of the Chicago Cubs and the latest reports are to the effect that the Windy City players may come into the possession of a New York millionaire, whose name has been prominently connected with the Tammany graft investigations recently. The poor Cubs seem to have a hard time in finding a new owner. "I would certainly be awful if they would fall to a president before it comes time to plaster the first fine on poor old Heine Zimmerman," Brother Charles Tarts at last accounts claims a majority of the stock in the Chicago club.

Uncle Sam to Home Says Johnnie Bull.
At present John Bull is chasing Uncle Sam up the Atlantic and down the Pacific for allowing the globe trotters of his country to plant the baseball seed so deep in the hearts of the sports loving people of old Britain. Johnnie says that not only the crowned heads have the baseball fever, but even the butlers insist on serving the meals a la carte sprinkled with "pep" and "ginger." The stable men take the horses out each morning for a limbering up and are later to do all the latest slides. It is wondered if they have the Tammany graft still in yet, which is one of the sides accidentally discovered by one of the stars of the Greenwood club on St. Patrick's Day. It would be an effort, wasted if the secretary of State, W. J. Bryan would mass a ball team and take it for a tour through Mexico. While the boys were not playing, W. J. B. could be enlarging his vocabulary in Mexican slang and in that way, with the latest quips of the baseball world, intermingled, he might persuade the Generals to organize a baseball league and fight out their differences in that way, not making it necessary to kill more than one each day, as one umpire would do, for all the excitement needed by these quiet people of the hills.

What is the Matter with the Cotton Crop?
The cotton crop in the South is generally expected to be a good one, but we must never forget a character of the foundation of things. In the great rural changes which are taking place one of the most hopeful things is the increasing influence and prestige of agricultural colleges and their mission. In town a man makes his living at his business; his home and life may have little connection with his business. On the farm one makes his life. His home and his means of living are part of a whole and of himself. In the quickened interest that has come to Southern Baptists concerning the development of 19,000 country churches, 16,000 of which meet but once a month, it was inevitable that should reach the point where we would take an interest in the economic welfare and social betterment of country communities. Our point of approach is the strengthening of the local churches of Christ and this will ever be our great and special business, but we will also encourage in every available way better living conditions for the church has this mission in a community as well as a mission to save individual souls and lives.
