CORSET Demonstration

What do you consider the right corset for yourself? We judge that you want a corset perfect in style—one that will bring out your best lines and repress the poor ones—one that will give you every style advantage, but at the same time gives you every COMFORT POSSIBILITY. The does the work. No corset is constructed on more stylish lines. No other corset has so many exclusive points of merit—so few freaks or fads, so many points of COMFORT. Madame Kline will show you the LA CAMILLE corset. She will explain its advantages. You yourself will be the judge and jury. Do you want a stylish corset which does not heat you—a corset which allows a circulation of air in the back—a corset which eliminates pressure on the nerves and blood vessels of the spine and still preserves the rigidity which a corset must have?

Do you want a corset which gives you the uncorseted effect but which affords ample protection, with full comfort?

Then let Madame Kline show you this most wonderful of all corsets—not a freak—not a fad—but a wonderful front lace corset with the Ventilo back, modeled to fit YOUR figure and bring out every best line.

Long Trip To Win A Wager.
Six dogs and two wolves drawing a small buggy along the streets of Anderson created some little surprise Sunday morning when the sight was seen for the first time. The queer sortment belongs to a man giving his name as William Brown, who claims that Alaska is his home. He says that he is making a 25,000 trip, going from Alaska over the United States, visiting every capital and returning to Alaska in six years. If he makes the trip within the stipulated time he will win a wager of $25,000. He says that he left Alaska on May 5, 1912 and that he expects to be back there within three or four months, making the trip in less time than was named in the wager.

BELLES OF DIXIE VIE AT REUNION

Brilliant Fetes Planned For Jacksonville Meeting

May 6, 7 and 8 To Be Memorable Dates in Florida's Metropolis—Large Crowd Assured the Reunion City.

Jacksonville, Fla.—Southern social circles are again taking an interest in the great social, military and sentimental annual meeting that brings together a crowd of from 25,000 to 150,000 people to do honor to the ex-Confederate soldier—the reunion of the survivors of the Confederate armies.

The reunion is to be held this year at Jacksonville, Fla., May 6, 7, 8 inclusive. It is the first time that the ex-Confederates have selected Florida as the reunion state, and uncommon interest attaches to the meeting here and throughout the South. Owing to the comparatively early date of the reunion, the divisions, brigades and camps made their appointments of sponsors and maids early, and these ladies compose the social side of the reunion. They are known as the official ladies of the meeting, entertained as such, and courted by the entire social fabric of the South.

The Sons of Confederate Veterans, following in the footsteps of their fathers, maintain organizations in every Southern state, and hold their reunions on the same dates. They appoint sponsors and maids of honor. The two organizations, closely allied, therefore, send to each Confederate reunion several hundred official ladies, selected from the best families of the South, that stand high in the social scale in their communities.

Mapping out the social program, therefore, for a Confederate reunion is a task that demands the best of talent in the entertainment lines. There must be dinners, receptions, balls, trips to points of interest around the reunion cities and anything else in the line of social entertainment the committee may devise. The growing event of the week in society, however, is the annual ball for maids and sponsors. If the reunion is held in a city where a hall large enough to accommodate several hundred dancing couples at once can not be secured, a dancing pavilion is constructed for the occasion. This pavilion consists of a large canvas tent, well floored and lighted; it is also supplied with comfortable seats on the grandstand order, where several thousand spectators may witness the ball. If a reader has not seen one of these annual balls at a Confederate reunion he has but limited idea of its size and brilliancy. Nothing to equal it in splendor can be seen in the United States, unless it be the inauguration ball at the national capital, now falling into social desuetude. If the inauguration ball is put out of the contest, the annual ball of the Confederate reunion, at which the maids and sponsors hold sway, is the greatest social function of the United States.

The social side of the Jacksonville reunion will be participated in by representatives of all Southern States, the border states and a few western commonwealths. There are sixteen state divisions of the United Confederate Veterans' Association, as follows: South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Louisiana, Tennessee, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Georgia, Kentucky, Texas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Arkansas. Each state sends large delegations of young women to the reunion, selected with regard to their social standing at home. In addition to the state delegations, the commander-in-chief has his own official ladies, chosen from the South at large. There are three departments, known as the Army of Northern Virginia, the Army of Tennessee department and Trans-Mississippi department. Each department appoints maids and sponsors and sends them to all reunions. The scope of country covered by these many organizations has about half the population of the United States; hence, the interest in a Confederate reunion is always widespread. Society circles in all of this territory are interested in the Jacksonville reunion, and the event will bring here one of the largest crowds of young people ever assembled in the South. Florida appeals to the young, because of its flowers and its wonders—its poetry, its songs and its attractive history. Rivers and ocean, gulf and bays have interest all their own. The palm and the pine, live oak and holly, and a hundred clear forest trees that abound throughout the state are nowhere else on the continent, invest Florida with an interest as wide as the nation. Greater interest attaches to the Jacksonville reunion than to any recent meeting of the Confederates, and preparations are being made to entertain a large crowd of people in May.

The population of Jacksonville is about 25,000. The assessed value of the city in 1913 was $1,000,000, showing an increase of more than 400 per cent for the period. The municipal tax levy is 11.5 mills, one of the lowest in the country.

Jacksonville's bank clearings for 1913 were $168,422,534. Aggregate bank deposits approximately $220,000,000. Number of banking institutions, 14.

BOOSTERS WILL START OUT NEXT THURSDAY

TO ADVERTISE COMING OF THE CHAUTAUQUA

CARS ARE NEEDED

Anderson Automobile Owners Are Requested to Lend Use Of Their Machines

It is planned to leave Anderson next Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock on an automobile "booster" excursion to go from Anderson to several nearby towns advertising the coming of the Redpath Chautauqua to Anderson April 28 to May 4. It is hoped that at least 25 automobiles can be secured for the trip and it is already an assumed fact that passengers for all these can be secured.

Representatives of the Chamber of Commerce called on the various automobile owners of the city yesterday in an effort to get up the required number of cars but said last night that no great success had been scored in this undertaking. It seems that almost every Anderson man thinks the other man ought to go and that he should be relieved.

Porter A. Whaley, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce said last night that he was very anxious to make the trip and wanted to get it arranged for Thursday if possible.

It is planned to have all the automobiles gather at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday morning at 8 o'clock spend thirty minutes in decorating the cars with flags and bunting advertising the chautauque, getting the chautauque literature together and then leaving Anderson at 8:30. While the route has not been definitely decided upon it is understood that the party will probably visit Belton, Honra Path, Donalds and one or two other towns, returning to Anderson in about six hours after the start is made.

If this trip is made it will mean a wind to the chautauque in an advertising way. It will almost mean a turning of the scale into a financial success, whereas there has been considerable doubt about this. If Anderson people have that "booster" spirit of which they have always boasted they will lend their efforts toward making this trade excursion a success.

If as many as 15 cars are secured the trip will be made. If that number cannot be secured the undertaking will be given up, according to a statement made by Mr. Whaley yesterday.
