

A Few Minutes for Your Eyes.

EVERY INTELLIGENT PERSON KNOWS that the eyes are the most valuable asset. LET ME TELL YOU that headaches, dizziness, pain in the back of your head is the cause of neglected eyes. You might know that to neglect your eyes too long is dangerous, paralysis of the optic nerves might result, and then what? Why a million dollars could not restore your eyesight, because there is no remedy for paralyzed optic nerves.

WHY SUFFER? When you can get your eyes examined and glasses fitted that will relieve that that strain of your eyes, and as soon as the strain will be removed headaches and all other eye trouble will not be known to you.

COME TO ME with your troubled eyes, I can make them strong with my scientifically fitted glasses at a price far below you have to pay elsewhere.

AFTER MY EXAMINATION, if your eyes need the attention of an oculist I will so advise.

I WILL POSITIVELY not furnish glasses unless they are absolutely suited to your eyes.

IT WILL COST YOU NOTHING to investigate my claims, a few minutes of your time will tell the tale.

MY REFERENCE, hundreds of satisfied customers.

POULTRY NOTES

One of the hardest things to control in poultry raising is lice. Even chicks hatched by the average hen are well stocked with them from the very start. They must be fought early and often.

One should be sure that the male at the head of the flock is pure bred. Uniformity of products means increased profits if the products are properly marketed.

A half grown runner fowl, pulled down the neck, broiled and buttered, is mostly tender and of splendid flavor. When prepared in this way they are equal to any pheasant.

Good shade variety of finely cooked meats constantly with the season and protection from heavy rains are the essentials of success with the summer chicks.

Roasting fowl bring fancy prices when shipped direct to the family trade by parcel post. The most salable weight between three and five pounds when dressed.

One cannot have something for nothing. The only way to breed fancy fowls is to select right and then by careful selection add a systematic method of live breeding to establish a strain which will, in half of the offspring at least, produce the good qualities of the parents and give a few chicks that will be better than either parent.

The Campine fowl is without doubt a very old and ancient breed. It has its origin in the island of Campine in the district of Belgium. It is claimed that the breed was in existence during the time of Julius Caesar's world tour and that he took a number of these fowls to Rome with him.

The true test of the value of any fowl is the percentage of meat that it will yield and not in the mere weight. The ideal bird then must be small and fine in bone, trimly built with frame suitable for carrying a large amount of meat.

Great honor is due to the men and women who have contributed assistance toward the work of producing the present day varieties of beautiful domestic fowls which give us such pleasure to give so much comfort, happiness and also profit to the future generations.

Climatic conditions should be considered. In the North and East, one must have more substantial construction than in the South. Much real damage is being done by state matters articles which do not make clear the fact that they are intended for the northern breeders. For instance, the beginner in Carolina would suffer loss and disappointment if he should adopt the plans used in Iowa or Nebraska.

The demand for the products of the poultryman is increasing rapidly, and until the tide of the population turns back from the cities and villages in the country, it should continue to increase in ever increasing proportions.

The Mediterranean of the egg breeders are: Leghorns, Minorcas, Spanish, the Andalusians and Anconas. The American of several purposes breeds are: Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Game, Old English Game, Game, Dominiques and Java.

The single comb white leghorn was originated in Augusta, Ga., by Dr. Robert Newhall. They have never been crossed, so they are comparatively unknown. Here is a fine strain for a breeder to put to the test.

St. Louis, Missouri, Chicago, N. Y. The selection of the 100 men to try Charles Becker, for the murder of Herman Rosenthal, was a very interesting story. Of all 60 taken down were examined but when adjournment was taken until tomorrow.

Chicago, May 7.—The Chicago Record-Herald has a Chicago, later than the one reported by James Keeler, general manager of the Chicago Record. The transfer of the papers was announced shortly after George Wheeler Hanna had bought the Inter-Ocean for $20,000 in a receivers' sale.

FREIGHT RATES MEETING MAY 14

A. V. Snell Points Out Importance of Attending the Columbia Meeting

A. V. Snell, chairman of one of the committees connected with the movement for better freight rates in this State, has sent to The Intelligencer the following statement of facts with reference to the meeting to be held in Columbia on the 14th.

Memorandum of Facts. The South Carolina public faces a most serious situation with respect to its freight rates, and no hearing before the railroad commission in Columbia on the 14th inst. will undoubtedly furnish the future policy of the State towards the railroads.

The State of North Carolina has in the past, waged a continuous and successful campaign against the railroads for a more equitable adjustment of freight rates from the West, and in addition by a recent act passed by the legislature of North Carolina, called into a special session to consider the North Carolina rates, a resolution of about 25 per cent. in the intra-State rates in North Carolina was ordered. This order has been suspended temporarily, pending an investigation by a special commission, appointed by the legislature, to give the railroads a chance to show cause why that scale should not be made effective, or to what extent the reduction made therein should be modified.

The rates in North Carolina from the West are now between 70 and 80 per cent of the rates to points in South Carolina, and in the distances via the Southern lines are less as a whole to points in South Carolina, than to points in North Carolina. The State of North Carolina at present has a scale of rates in operation over the trunk lines, that is about 80 per cent of the intra-State rates in South Carolina, and if the rates passed by the legislature of North Carolina go into effect, these rates will be 70 per cent of the rates within the State of South Carolina.

As a matter of fact the State of South Carolina, practices greater net revenue on traffic within the state than does North Carolina and because of the higher rates imposed from the West, the rates within the State of South Carolina should be less than in North Carolina, if there be any difference at all.

Under such conditions as are transpiring in North Carolina, it is a matter of the most supreme importance to South Carolina that it bring about an adjustment of rates within this state in a way to keep pace with the movement made in North Carolina, so that the advantages which the State of North Carolina has in freight rates, both in an outward and will not be further increased to the disadvantage of South Carolina.

The carrier's recently increased a number of rates within the State of South Carolina, which was claimed was done under the authority they had to apply the maximum rate prescribed by the South Carolina Railroad Commission in 1912, which was revised by the Commission in 1913, which caused a numerous increase in its rates for the longer hauls.

The rates from points in North Carolina to points in South Carolina are, in great many instances, lower than the rates prescribed by the South Carolina Railroad Commission, and when the carriers advanced the rates in January, 1914, it increased the disadvantage of the South Carolina cities.

Too much interest by South Carolina cannot be displayed in the "case" now before the South Carolina Railroad Commission, which is to be heard on the 14th inst. in Columbia.

On Tuesday afternoon, April 5th, Dr. and Mrs. J. P. Vines entertained at dinner in honor of the faculty and the trustees of Anderson College. A delightful menu of eight courses had been prepared and was much enjoyed by all.

The table was beautifully decorated with sweet peas and ferns. The place cards were very artistically gotten up, and in addition to the names, each had a few clever lines which were read aloud at the table, thus affording much amusement to all. In every respect it was a most enjoyable evening, and the charming hospitality of the home will long be remembered by all the guests.

Miss Lucile Boyette, who is a member of the graduating class of Anderson College, entertained her classmates at her beautiful country home on Thursday evening. The guests were Miss Jones, sponsor of the class; Miss Knight, Miss, Alk. and Miss, and George. A very delightful evening was enjoyed by all.

On Friday evening, May 8th at 8:30 o'clock Miss Jeannette Aiken will give a musical program in music and will be assisted by Miss Thelma Aiken. The program is extended to all. The following members will be present: Mrs. Boyette, Sonata Op. 79, Allegro-Andante-Finale, Barre, Et Apple Sade, Lenore Henry, Scherzino, Weber, 11 Vets. Quintino, Cowan, The Mission of a Rose, Pearl Massie, Minnie, Lebanon, Valente, Lebanon, Caro, Mrs. Williams, Mendelssohn, Concert from Fichte, at Columbia, O. C.

AN IT IS IN MEXICO

Most of the Country Remains Under Rule of Huerta. Hartford Courant. The Republic of Mexico consists of 27 States and one Federal district and three territories with a total area of 765,000 square miles and a population (1910) of 15,663,297. Two of these Mexican States, Sonora and Chihuahua, are under the control of the rebel forces led by Villa, the man who forced an entire net of court-martial proceedings in order to carry out the law to our government in regard to the murder of William S. Houston, a British subject. This same man, Huerta, also holds a good part of the State of Sinaloa, a part of the State of Coahuila and has detached bands working in the States of Nuevo Leon and Tamaulipas. These practical matters in Mexico may therefore be fairly measured by ascribing to them full control in the two States of Sonora, Chihuahua. These two States have an area of 27,874 square miles, leaving 10,661 square miles under the authority of Gen. Huerta and a population of 1,369,961, leaving a population of 15,701,946 who acknowledge the rule of the Huerta government.

Let us assume that the Huerta is a man who had down to the hills a state of Mexico and all the other robber bands who steal for their living in various parts of Southern Mexico, are equal in number to the old 704,000 and that we find that the Mexican population of Gen. Huerta number only 2,063,297 as against a full 15,000,000 of industrious and law-abiding people who recognize the constitutional authority.

This is the substantial state of facts which President Wilson glossed over in his address to Congress with the definite remark that only part of the country is under his (Huerta's) control. We admit that responsible citizenship at which the world is looking with eager eyes should have a more accurate—not to say intelligent—conception than that.

In the light of these figures which we have roughly assembled, and which do invite anybody that distrusts them to verify for himself in the light of all current reports from Mexico—President Wilson's condensed view that it is not so complicated and we should be fighting only Jim, Huerta and those who adhere to him and give him their support, is a wholly different color from that which he gave in Mr. Clarendon, who was Huerta's master hand at definiteness once upon the line between military operations and what the man in the street can see; and in the same way President Wilson undertakes to make it appear to be possible for the United States to carry on some sort of disciplinary measures by armed force against Huerta without in any manner disturbing or molesting the American people.

Five days and a bath each day was the sentence meted out to Myrtle Lewis in New York, whose wife charged him with disorderly conduct and Magistrate Dodd added the bath when he noted the prisoner's untidy appearance.

Before Keweenaw, Ill., went to a result of the local election recently, one person purchased sixty cases of beer, which he figured will last him for two years, provided he continues only one bottle daily.

Five thousand persons in Anderson were invited to the annual picnic day there, marching in a parade which was seven weeks long. The celebration was said to be the first of its kind in the United States.

A Rochester woman frightened by pictures of the Mexican bandits and fearing they would capture the city, withdrew her savings from the bank whereupon they were stolen.
