SUFFS MARCH IN WASHINGTON

GREAT PARADE OF WOMEN ASK FOR RIGHTS OF THE BALLOT

SING AS THEY GO

Many Prominent Women From All Parts of the Nation Take Part in Program

Washington, May 9.—With banners flying, ten bands playing and the women singing a marching song, several thousand suffragists from various sections of the country today paraded along Pennsylvania avenue from Lafayette Square to the Capitol. There 531 of them, representing every state in the Union, and assigned one to each Senator and Representative, presented to the members of Congress petitions asking the passage of the Bristow-Mondell resolution calling for a federal Constitutional amendment enfranchising women.

Immense crowds viewed the procession along the route. When the Capitol was reached the bands were massed on the plaza before the East front where they played the "March of the Women" composed by Dr. Ethel Smyth of England, accompanying a chorus of 1,000 women, wearing robes of white, with green stoles and fillets of green on their heads.

The parade followed a mass meeting in a downtown theater presided over by Mrs. William Kent, wife of Representative Kent of California, and at which stirring address were made by Miss Caroline Lexow, field secretary of the Woman's Political Union of New York; Mrs. Donald Hooker, of Baltimore, and Miss Lucy Burns, of Brooklyn, vice chair-man of the Congressional Union for Woman Suffrage, under the auspices of which the demonstration was held. Among those occupying boxes at the meeting were Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, of New York, Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, of Wilmington, Del., daughter of President Cleveland's secretary of state; Miss Julia Lathrop, chief of the Federal Children's Bureau; Mrs Harriet Stanton Blatch, of New York, daughter of the late Elizabeth Cady Stanton, one of the pioneer leaders in the suffrage movement; The Equal Franchise Society of Philadelphia; Mrs. Antoinette Funk, of Chicago, and the Pennsylvania Men's League for Suffrage. A number of young women, many of them prominent in society, were also there.

There were many novel features in the parade and the marching women were cheered loudly by the throngs that lined Pennsylvania avenue all the way from Lafayette Square, opposite the White House to the Capitol. First and foremost was borne aloft a banner, the tallest while bearing the inscription: "We demand the passage of the Bristow-Mondell resolution." Then came the first section, the pageant division, typifying Spring, Youth and Hope, which had been arranged under the direction of Mrs. Elliphalet Andrews, a well-known artist. Thousands of garlands of flowers were carried by the young women and children, the shades of the blossoms having been selected with an eye to harmonizing with the Union's colors, purple, white and gold.

In this division also marched the chorus of 1,000 led by Mrs. Apolline M. Blair, president of the Rubinstein Club of this city.

Attractive as was this part of the parade, it did not evoke any more enthusiasm or interest from the onlookers than the cavalry section which came next and was commanded by Mrs. Juliet Barrett Rublee, of Washington, who also was the mounted grand marshal of the procession.

In advance of the cavalry contingent were seven color bearers on horseback each, carrying a purple, white and gold flag. At their head rode Miss Elsie Hill, daughter of former Representative Hill of Connecticut. Among the prominent cavalrymen were Miss Denver S. Church, wife of another California representative, Miss Mary Morgan, of Washington, niece of Gifford Pinchot, former chief forester, and Miss Alberta Hill, formerly of Auburndale, now of New York and Miss Elizabeth Keats, daughter of Representative Kent.

Mrs. George Odell was chairman of the post marshals of the political division, which was sent to this and which was subdivided into various sections. The sections that appealed the most interest were those of the writers, artists and the actresses. The former was organized by Marie Manning, Coach of Washington and among those who trudged along with her were Mrs. Zona Gale, of Wisconsin; Martin, Mrs. Adelaide Fullerton Banks, Miss Elizabeth Jordan, Miss Ida Tarbell, Miss Ida Husted Harper, Miss Rheta Childe Dorrin, Marguerite Stanelling Gerry of New York; Alice Duer Miller and Roberta Bradshaw. Among the actresses Hattie Williams, Annie Russell and Mrs. Mary Kealey Chapman were conspicuous.

Other troops included college women, farmers, waitresses, saleswomen, laundresses, women [illegible] graphers, social workers, seamstresses, artists, physicians, dentists, nurses. Lucy Burns, organizer for Mrs. Harvey W. Wiley of Washington, wife of the noted pure food expert.

An interesting feature was a large delegation of women voters from the ten states where members of the fair sex are allowed to cast the ballot. Walking at the head of this contingent was Dr. Cora Smith King, of Seattle, Washington, treasurer to the national council of women voters.

Marching up the rear of the parade were hundreds of women under the banners of separate state.

The words of the song, "The March of the Women" which was sung by the marchers and which had been heard in this country only once before are:

"Shout, shout, sing with your song,
Sing with the wind, for the dawn is breaking.
March, march, swing you throng,
Lo, blows our banner! And hope is awaking.
Sing with the stars, dreams gone their glory,
Lo, they call, and glad, to their word.
Louder and louder it swells
Thunder and freedom, the voice of the Lord.

"Long, long—we in the past
Forged [illegible] from the lights of heaven;
Strong, strong—stand we at last,
Fearless in faith and with sight now-given.
Strength with its beauty, Life with its duty,
Hear the voice, oh hear and obey;
These, these—beckon us on;
Open your eyes to the blaze of day.

"Comrades—ye who have dared
First in the battle to strive and sorrow;
Scorned, spurned—nought have ye cared,
Raising your eyes to a wider morrow.
Wave thus are weary, days that are dreary,
Toil and pain by faith ye have borne;
Hail, hail, victors we stand
Wearing the wreath that the brave have worn.

"Life, strife—these two are one,
Naught can we win but by faith and daring.
On, on—that ye have done,
But for the work of today preparing.
Firm in reliance, laugh at defiance,
(Laugh in hope for sure is the end)
March, march—many as one,
Shoulder to shoulder and friend to friend."

"CLEAN UP DAY" FOR THE COUNTRY HOME

Farrell's Week of Preparedness is Fully as Great as That of the City Dweller.

Clemson College, May 9.—Many cities in South Carolina have been conducting clean-up days recently and another dozen or more will probably be added to the number before the end of May. The preparedness of this way of doing things is the result of clean-up work in the rural communities. Yet in the opinion of the county agent of Greenville county there is much as in the city and perhaps more, since the city has a regular department which gives the attentions wholly to maintaining sanitary conditions, while in the country every farmer has to be his own judge of sanitary conditions.

Farmers are busy at this season of the year with work which cannot be postponed. The housing, cleaning and even to feed attention to the farm wife and the children, much good can be accomplished and, perhaps, Doctor's bills averted. Good common sense, aided by a few necessary tools, is the principal thing required for the work.

The fly and the mosquito are the principle pests to be fought. As the manure has to be hauled to the farm it is easy to haul it to the fields and spread it as a fertilizer. Then the farmer has to start in cleaning up the farm. If a team can rid the place of manure and trash he has gone a long way toward establishing sanitary conditions.

For the fly traps and spray pumps are the best and surest weapons. Full information on this subject can be obtained from Prof. A. C. Conrad's bulletin, "Controlling Flies," which can be had upon request. Any county demonstration agent in the state will be glad to demonstrate the use of the fly trap.

The mosquito offers a larger problem. It is impossible to drain all the swamps [illegible] the farm and to keep the premises free of the cans and other receptacles in which water can stand and serve as breeding places. But keeping a plate free of still standing pools of water and other possible breeding places will do much to keep down mosquitoes and therefore malaria which can be caused only by the mosquito.

The first step in fighting [illegible] mosquito is to screen all doors and windows. The extension division of Clemson college will furnish information about a cheap system of screening.

Disease seldom attacks people who live on clean premises.

For the second time within a year, Mary Matoskofsky of Bayonne, N. J., aged eleven, fell three stories while walking in her sleep and sustained only a slight injury to her right foot.
