

THE GRAVE OF J. C. CALHOUN

The Great Statesman is Buried in Charleston—The Monolith On the Citadel Square—A City of Monuments

Charleston is not only a city of memories but a city of monuments as well. Old Fort Sumter and Fort Moultrie are monuments to the valor of Carolinians...

this convention to the people of South Carolina and other able people in support of constitutional liberty."

One of the first things to attract the attention of the visitor to Charleston is the monument on Marion square, erected by the people of the state in memory of John C. Calhoun.

Nearly every body who has visited Charleston has seen the monument to the Earl of Chatham, William Pitt, the elder. It was erected by the State of South Carolina just prior to the Revolutionary war.

John C. Calhoun Born March 18, 1782 Died March 31, 1850 The inscription on the north face reads: Erected by the State of South Carolina A. D. 1854

The inscription on the north side reads: The monument was erected by the women of South Carolina in honor of John Caldwell Calhoun...

NEWS FOR PEELEZ Police, May 11.—Sitting by the fire on the 11th of May, indeed we are regular winter time weather and strawberries at the same time...

When Arthur (later Earl) De Russell was in Ireland, he and his father ordered that his name should never again be mentioned by any of the family.

Police, May 11.—Sitting by the fire on the 11th of May, indeed we are regular winter time weather and strawberries at the same time...

There is in man a faculty for development that the lower animals do not possess. An illustration of this diversity between men and animals occurred during the eighteenth century in the case of a young Irishman who emigrated to America.

The Claimant

He Had Recourse to a Brute For a Witness

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

There is in man a faculty for development that the lower animals do not possess. An illustration of this diversity between men and animals occurred during the eighteenth century in the case of a young Irishman who emigrated to America.

van was well fortified before Arthur heard of the great changes that had occurred since he left home. The occasion of his hearing of it at all was that the case became known to a Dublin attorney, O'Rourke, who knew the Strongfords, especially Herbert, and through a desire for gain, as well as a sense of justice, concluded to find Arthur, if alive, and notify him that his father's name was about to pass to another. He too, sent an agent to America in the matter of the Strongford title and estate.

BEN B. BLECKLEY Phone 671

O. M. HEARD Phone 127

Announcement!

The New Undertaking Parlors of Bleckley and Heard Will Open May 12th.

Mr. Heard has just returned from New York where he has been for some time, taking a graduate course in Scientific Embalming and Disinfecting.

BLECKLEY and HEARD Undertaking Parlors SOUTH CAROLINA. PHONE 263.

ABBEVILLE NEWS

Abbeville, May 11.—The U. D. C. are giving a series of delightful entertainments at the homes of the different members.

We Have Buggies

coming in almost every day the latest shipment being a car of latest equipment.

J. S. FOWLER

Grain Cradles

COUNTS SEVEN FINGER CRADLES—the lightest, strongest and best Cradles on the market.

Sullivan Hardware Company

Anderson, C. Greenville, S. C. Dillon, S. C.

COLUMBUS—Come in and let us show them. They are 1914 Models.