GALA TIME FOR THE LOCAL TEAM

Anderson Boys Got Revenge Yesterday for Defeats They Have Experienced On Trip

They do say that "it's a long time with no turning" and the Anderson High school baseball team is convinced that such is the case. Stinging with two defeats from the Bethel team of Spartanburg and the Central High school of Greenville, the Anderson boys fell upon Furman Fitting school yesterday and "mopped up" with the Baptists boys. The local team won by a score of 6 to 2. The Anderson boys had the opposing pitcher at their mercy and they succeeded in teaching him for 14 hits during the progress of the nine innings. From the start Anderson had everything their own way and Furman was beaten after the first three innings of the game. Hunter pitched fine ball for Anderson, letting Furman down with four hits. The poor fielding of the Furman boys also contributed to their defeat while the fielding game of the Anderson team was splendid, only one error being chalked up against them.

The following summary tells how the game went:

Anderson.....6 14 4
Furman.....2 4 4

Batteries: Furman, Burts and Thekston. Anderson, Hunter and Burris.

EFFECTS OF COCAINE

Deputy Man Went Frantic in the Atlanta Police Court.

Atlanta, May 16.—W. J. Myers, a local druggist, went crazy, apparently from the effects of cocaine, in the police court yesterday, and struggled madly with three or four officers, in an effort to get possession of a small bottle of cocaine which was offered in evidence.

Myers was arrested on the charge of vagrancy, a technical one, lodged in order that he might be imprisoned and an effort made to cure him of the habit.

After remaining in a cell for a day, when he was taken into the courtroom the sight of the bottle of cocaine seemed to drive him frantic. He struggled with three or four officers, and after he had been overpowered, he begged and pleaded "Please let me have it. Please give it to me," he called to the policemen.

The court officers all the way from the courtroom to his cell.

BURNS MAY GET OFF

Atlanta Journal Says He Has Not Been Convicted.

Atlanta, May 16.—The Atlanta Journal in its news column today predicts that Detective William A. Burns, a lieutenant, Dan Lehon, will be acquitted of the charge of contempt which has been lodged against them in connection with their activities in the Frank case.

The answer of Burns and Lehon included a statement that they were advised by attorneys Rosser and Arhole, defenders of Frank, that there was no impropriety or illegality in their conduct in sending the witness Annie Maud Carter out of the city, and out of the jurisdiction of the court. This is the act that was the alleged contempt.

The Journal says that the answer they have filed, apparently under the law would serve to purge them of contempt, if there was a prima facie case in fact against them.

PREACHER IN TROUBLE

Evangelist Visited Bethelton of His Church as to Discretion.

Atlanta, May 16.—The Presbyterian church has put the ban of excommunication upon a former Georgia minister, the Rev. Lloyd B. Field, as the result of a charge that the minister, charged the violation of a wife from her husband, an Atlanta man, and afterward married the woman himself after she had obtained a divorce which the Presbyterian church does not recognize.

Mr. Field, who is now in Arkansas, has given notice of his intention to appeal the action of the church to the Arkansas Presbytery.

ATLANTA GREEN U. P. O. S.

Atlanta, May 16.—Following hard upon the conclusion of the 25th convention, the biggest in the history of the world, comes the announcement that Atlanta is going to make an effort to get the 1916 national convention of the city.

The city of Denver, where the 25th convention in 1914 has already pledged its support to help Atlanta get the 25th convention. The 1915 convention has been practically a success as a result of the national convention of the city.

The national convention of the city is second in size only to the 25th, and it is Atlanta should win it would mean almost as many visitors to Atlanta as during the week just closed.

On account of the distinct success of Moncton Hotel's thrilling emotional drama, "Panties" at the Booth Theatre, and a series of other plays, the city is expected to have a large attendance at the New York engagement of this play for an indefinite period.

The "Panties" at the Booth Theatre, which opened on Wednesday night last, are proceeding admirably on to all financial expectations still beyond the range of reasonable conjecture.

Edmond Bridges, singing of "All dressed in and No Place to Go," is one of the numerous songs hits in the "Panties" and now playing at the Booth Theatre. Bridges is considered to be one of the finest comedians in the American stage.

Only one week more remains in winter in the city, and the "Panties" are expected to have a very successful season.

Big names have been named for the production of the first performance and there is no doubt in the minds of some opinionists in the theatre of some opinion.

AUTO DROPPED INTO THE RIVER

Ferry Broke and Threw Machine Into Swirling Waters of the Savannah River

While crossing the Savannah river from the Georgia to the South Carolina side yesterday, F. M. Cleckley of Aniston, Ala., and R. E. Leigh of Raleigh N. C., came very near losing their lives. The ferry had made the trip across the river and landed against the bank, and as the machine was midway from the ferry to bank, the ferry chain broke and the rear of the machine was precipitated into the river. The axles of the car were badly bent and numerous other repairs will be necessary.

When seen last night and asked for a statement of the affair, Mr. Cleckley said that he knew the chain was breaking and just had presence of mind enough, when he realized that fact, to give his engine all the gas he could get. This caused the car to jump two feet at least and this probably saved the two occupants of the machine from being drowned. The front end of the car lodged on the bank while the rest sank beneath the swiftly running water. Assistance was summoned, and the car gotten out, and Mr. Cleckley succeeded in running it into this city.

It was placed in a local garage last night and is now being repaired at the expense of the ferry people.

The accident occurred at Brown's Ferry, owned and operated by A. N. Alford.

The tourists were en route from Athens, Ga., to Raleigh, N. C., and left the Georgia city at 2:15 yesterday. The accident occurred about 4:30 in the afternoon.

SOCIETY

GENERAL UTILITY SHOWER

A most delightful social affair tendered Mrs. William Laughlin, was the "general utility shower" which Mrs. D. J. Martin entertained with Wednesday morning at her home on Green Hill street. The guests were received on the front porch and were invited into the living room where everything was beautifully decorated with sweet peas and roses. Here in a most appropriate way Mrs. J. L. Pastore presented the honoree with the numerous gifts from the guests. Among those present was a cat, the gift of Mrs. Albert Means. She feels that no home is complete without this ornament. Assisting Mrs. Martin in entertaining the guests were Mrs. Albert Means, Mrs. J. O. Whitte, Mrs. Frank Grayson, Mrs. Fred Tribble, Mrs. Richard Laughlin, Mrs. Raymond Frostwell and Miss Louise Ligon.

A tempting two-course luncheon was served, the guests, seventy-five of Mrs. Martin's friends, enjoyed the delightful party.

DINE FRATELLI

St. Eugene Walker was hostess to the members of the Dile Chapter on Wednesday afternoon at her home on South Main street.

Mr. Julius Rogers made quite an interesting talk and the following musical numbers were enjoyed:

Solo—Mrs. Chas. Greene.
Duet—Mrs. C. B. Harris and Mrs. Chas. Spearman.
Solo—Miss Stannan.
Solo—Mrs. Frank Watkins.
Mrs. Watkins served her guests a delicious sweet course.

LANE AFTERNOON

Tuesday was early afternoon at Foxe Hill club and some miles of players enjoyed a number of interesting rubber. Light refreshments were served.

LITTLE MISS TOWNSEND

Little Miss Sar Townsend entertained a dozen of her playmates on Tuesday afternoon at her home on East Benson street.

Many delightful games were played after which the "party" was served.

BRIDE-TO-BE

The following invitation has been received in Atlanta: Miss Brock is pleasantly located here where she has visited at the home of Miss Alberts Brock.

Mrs. F. M. Pierce Brock requests the assurance of your company at the marriage of her daughter Marie to Mr. V. Stan DeFor Melan on Wednesday evening, June third, at six o'clock at home, Lafayette, Alabama.

REMARKS

They say that this man failed. Ah, well! Perhaps the dear God saw the wisdom of his heart. That, thwarted by stern circumstances, a pawn within the careless hand of madcap chance.

Still held in deep's grasp. And with a coarse that never quailed. Men always steadfast in some high ideal.

Al, foolish world. To keep within the small true knowledge of the soul. And stretchway to pursue it for life's sake.

Though wealth and love and fame were placed upon the road. Was not to fall. Pauline Carmichael. Home in the Atlantic's Magazine.

Generals Almost a Year

Washington, May 16.—Widest authority in the publication of affairs within the war in 1914, some say, has been conferred upon Colonel George B. Franchot by President Wilson. In an executive order today the governor of the Panama Canal is empowered to grant pardons and commutations of sentences, to have and regulate and to commute sentences and grant clemency.

AN HONORABLE BURGLAR

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1914, by Associated Literary Press.

Mr. Glenshaw should have taken the 9 o'clock suburban train to his suburban cottage, but he missed it. He should have taken the train an hour later, but a business matter detained him. The last train down was at 9 o'clock. He was waiting for it when he encountered a neighbor, who said: "If I were you I'd run up and take a look through the house. Three of them on your block have been robbed within a week."

Mr. Glenshaw decided to go. He would see that the house was all right and then go to a hotel for the night. He walked up the steps as carelessly as if the house had been open. He unlocked the door and lighted the hall gas, and the first thing he saw was an open window. The best way to get into a house is through the window. He went to the window and looked out. He was not a bad or rough looking man. He had lately been clean shaven, and a fashionable hat helped him to look like a gentleman. If he had been taken by surprise he didn't betray the fact. There was a half smile on his face as he looked steadily at Mr. Glenshaw, and his lips were soft and pleasant as he finally said: "Let's sit down, please. We will have a cigarette, and I hope to find you a reasonable, sensible man. I'm going to lay this wretched side and side with you in even terms. You don't look like a man who'd do anything foolish."

"Look here, now," began Mr. Glenshaw, with a note of anger in his voice. "I don't quite understand this thing. You are as cool as if you were really a robber, or is it some joke put up by some of the fellows at the club?"

"I am cool," replied the man. "My nerves are a part of my profession. I am by profession a burglar. As to the joke—no. Mr. Glenshaw, this is straight goods."

"You—you know my name?"

"Why not? Let me ask you about that safe. Was it warranted burglar proof?"

"No."

"That's better. The combination was set on two numbers. I had it open in ten minutes. It is useless to add that I was disappointed in the contents."

"I can't make out this burglar business," replied Mr. Glenshaw, with a troubled look on his face. "You are here to rob me, is that it?"

"I'm here to rob you, I ought to be hunting for a policeman. Do you suppose I'm going to tamely submit to be plundered? Why, hang it, I ought to go for you sometime!"

"There is a situation here," replied the burglar. "It is one for argument instead of force. I'm willing to meet you halfway, and you could get anything fairer than that. I have a lot of things packed up when you walk in on me. It seems to me that an honorable compromise is the best way out of it for both of us."

"Why?"

"Well, suppose we say $200 for the plunder. You save at least $200 and I am decently paid for three hours work."

"I haven't got that much cash."

"I shouldn't object to the cash, but you can draw me a check for the amount and credit to my signature."

"You are not afraid I'll have a defective at the bank to-day?"

"Not in the least. You wouldn't have any thing set out for me, would you? You look upon me as an honorable man. I see a check book here on the desk, and perhaps we'd better close the deal."

Mr. Glenshaw sat down and wrote the check. The burglar then wrote the name of "Henry Saunders" across the back of it, and Mr. Glenshaw certified to the correctness of the signature.

"Perfectly safe and correct," said the burglar as he looked at the paper, and it will be paid on sight. It is an honorable deal, honestly consummated, and I am ready to go. Just a word, however, a sort of brotherly word. Don't expect me to come back here. They can't find any sort of trace or catch. Better deal squarely with me. Will you accompany me to the front door? I always prefer to go and go that way when possible."

"I don't know that burglars were gentlemen," stammered Mr. Glenshaw as he rose from his chair.

"Now, well, all burglars are gentlemen, the city, though there is no good reason for it. I have met hundreds of burglars who were gentlemen. There is a gentle burglar, and the 'A' burglar does nothing to disgrace himself. If I were a common thief or robber I should leave by the back window."

Mr. Glenshaw followed him down the hall to the door and stood with him on the steps for a moment before saying:

"Well, you are not such a bad lot, are you?"

"Thank you," replied the burglar with a bow and smile, and the compliment is returned. Two men so honest and honest as can be seen in the world to their mutual advantage."

"I can't really say that I hope we shall meet again," stammered Mr. Glenshaw.

"No, of course not, and I can't say I'll call around occasionally, and we can talk over some of our business. I'll be sure to write you when I see you. Good night, Henry Saunders."

"Good night, Henry Saunders," replied Mr. Glenshaw as he saw the burglar go down the steps and disappear.

TY COBB STEEL CLIPPING

His League Stars Force to Front All Along.

Chicago, May 16.—"Ty" Cobb's steady advance to the front among the American league hitters was the feature of the race for hitting honors this week. The latest records show him in eighth place with an average of .310, an increase of eight points and an advance of five places since last week. Two weeks ago he ranked 20th with an average of .260.

Joe Jackson of Cleveland leads the hitters with .405. Then comes Crawford, Boston, with .380, and Leever, Cleveland .355.

Bryce of Philadelphia leads the National league with .423. Daubert, Brooklyn, .317 and Carraway, St. Louis, .260 follow.
