Reunion Notes

Two veterans met upon the street yesterday and one enquired of the other: "Say comrade, ain't your name Bill Smith?" When Smith answered in the affirmative the other grabbed his hand and shook it warmly, ejac-ulating, "I ain't seen you in forty years and the last time I saw you you were running like Hell."

M. A. Cobb of Belton, route 2, was among the veterans in the city yes-terday, for the reunion. Mr. Cobb served troughout the war and the last member of his company to be ums-tered out at Greensboro, North Caro-lina. He has the further distinction of being a reader of The Intelligencer since 1865.

W. T. McGill, once of this county but now of Walhalls, was among the veterans in the city yesterday. He served three terms as county commis-sioner in this county and was pension commissioner for a long number of years. During the war he was a member of Company L, Orr's Rifles and served with honor.

Clem McClellan of near Concord was among the visitors in the city yesterday for the reunion and he brought to The Intelligencer office an old knife, said to have been a weapon during the War, Between the States. The knife has been in the possesion of Mrs.G. C. McClellan for a number of years and she prizes it very highly. It is on exhibition in the windows of the intelligencer office.

Everybody Was Well Pleased,
Anderson People, when they first began to plan for the reunion, thought that they might be able to please a majority of the visitors coming here for the two days but none of them hoped to please every visitor. Howevr, this has been the case or at least it would seem so, since not one sin-gle complaint has been heard from any source All the veterans were de lighted with the reception accorded them and they believe Anderson is one of the best towns in the state.

Raising Money

For Baseball. Subscriptions were received yesterday from a number of Anderson's business men for the organization of a baseball team here to take a berth in the proposed Interurban League and while the sum total raised yesterday was a little less than $100, still those who have the work in charge say that many are yet to be seen and they be-leve that at least $500 can be secured within the next day or two toward organizing a team here. The other towns are ready and willing to do their share and it is up to Anderson.
