PAROLED MAN IS AGAIN ARRESTED

Arch Kay Yesterday Sentenced To 20 Days on Gang, After Once Being Released From Jail

A case of unusual interest was tried before Magistrate Broadwell yesterday, the interest being due to the fact that the defendant, after having tried to commit suicide in jail by hanging himself, was paroled by the governor.

Arch Kay, a young white man was arraigned before the Magistrate for a misdemeanor. Some very interesting testimony was introduced, among this being the family Bible, by which Kay attempted to establish the fact that he was only 21 years of age. It was found that he was 22. After beginning the case the defendant decided to plead guilty and he was sentenced to 20 days on the county chain-gang.

Kay once served sometime in the Anderson jail for vagrancy and during this time he tore a sheet from his bunk into strips and attempted to hang himself. When Sheriff Ashley arrived, the boy was unconscious and almost dead. After he had revived, part of his sentence had only three months he was paroled by the governor. Today he will go back to the gang.

CANDIDATES SPOKE UNDER DIFFICULTIES

GOOD NATURED CROWD IS GIVEN TO BADINAGE

SOME NEW IDEAS

Dr. Ashmore Made a Stirring Appeal to Voters For a Clean Election

There was quite a noisy, but good natured crowd of about 200 voters and a lot of visitors at the old school house in Ward 6 last night to hear the speeches of the candidates for mayor and aldermen. It was worth the salary of a year as mayor to try to make a speech under the circumstances, considering the weather and all the other things. Only two of the candidates for mayor received anything like attention, Messrs. Payne and Ashmore. The crowd was hungry to hear something from "Bob" Carter, the redoubtable candidate for reelection in Ward 6, and until he spoke, as he was the last on the program, the crowd was restless.

The order of speaking in the court house was reversed. Jas. M. Payne, candidate for mayor came first. He seemed to have a large following in the crowd and was well received. He said he would be the mayor of all the people and no respecter of persons. He was in favor of abolishing the office of recorder and would try the cases himself, and would give a fair deal to all who came before him.

He would give Ward 6 a square deal on the matter of street improvements. Would Stop Waste. He favored abolishing one of the clerks in the city hall and devolving the duties upon one man and he would see that the man did the work and gave the city his whole time and would not have outside interests to take all of his time.

He recalled the fact that he had been county treasurer for 13 years and he had done all that he could for the mill people. Even the Treasurer Copes of Orangeburg had been murdered and the legislature passed an act that county treasurers would take their own risk in going out from the county seat to collect taxes, he, Mr. Payne, as county treasurer, had always gone to the mill villages at his own expense to save the mill people trouble and to prevent them from being delinquent in paying their taxes.

Mr. Payne spoke of the campaign lies that are being circulated, and said that they did not bother him, and he hoped that none of his friends would use any kind of campaigning of that kind. He concluded by asking who knows the financial condition of the city today. He declared that if elected mayor, he would give his attention to running the city in a business-like manner and he knew that when money was scarce the credit of the city would always be good and he could get it.

Mr. Godfrey and the Rev. Hill. Mr. J. H. Godfrey, the next speaker, again denounced as lies some campaign stories started on him. He declared that the preposterousness of the lie that he had to leave Cheraw had been brought out, when he had heard the rest of it. He had just learned that the man who started the lie had said that it was because Mr. Godfrey had stolen a sawmill. He said his respects to the matter. But there were some in the audience who seemed to be very much amused and all through Mr. Godfrey's speech interrupted him and Chairman Sullivan repeatedly called for order. To the credit of the people of Ward 6 it should be said that most of the interruptions come from persons who do not reside there.

Mr. Godfrey stated that he is under a $10,000 bond and that he has a letter from the bonding company stating that they had been very rigid in the examination of his books and had found everything in splendid condition. He stated that he would not be able to pay the $33 street tax. The streets, he said, belong to the mill company, and not to the city, but he would endeavor to get the mill to deed the streets to the city and he would then have them in good condition. He declared that Ward 6 pays 1-7 of the taxes of the city, but does not get the benefit proportionately. He promised new lights, new hydrants and a variety of other things. He defended the present city recorder as a good police judge, and as a Confederate soldier, and a good one.

He spoke of the financial condition of the city in answer to questions. The bonded debt is $170,000 and the floating debt is about $15,000 with more than $2,000 in bank. He would favor dividing the time for the paying of taxes so that the laboring people could pay half in March and half in November. He said March is a hard month for laboring people to raise money. Where the "Issue" Originated. He denied with warmth a campaign rumor that he had been brought in as the candidate of the Southern Public Utilities company. He admitted that he was the one who had made all the trouble for this company in getting its contract from the city, as he has been around with a committee of council to inspect conditions in cities in North and South Carolina, and he had been on the committee of the board of directors of the city council. He stated that he had worked up the sentiment against the company and had brought about the suit which is now in the courts to settle the franchise and contract matter, and therefore it would be impossible for him to be the one who is the candidate of that company. This concluded Mr. Godfrey's speech, which was interrupted through out by questions and answers about the saw mill, etc., which he good naturedly ignored. Mr. Godfrey stated that there are some who wish the office of recorder abolished. If this could be done and the work devolved upon him he would see to one thing, there would be no partially shown. If a boy from Ward 6 came up town and happened to get a little full he would not be harsh with him in recorder's court, for the same thing when done by other boys is often not brought before the police at all, but the boy is some in a hack. He favored taking the sanitary dues off the mill people who are also taxed for sewerage that they don't get.

Attention was called to the fact that at the court house Thursday night when Mr. Godfrey was asked where he stood on the "blue laws" he declared that he hasn't much patience with them and that he had seen them fall in Columbia and other cities, and that a circuit judge had declared unconstitutional the "blue laws" in Greenville.

Mr. Elmore Under Difficulties. The next speaker, Mr. E. E. Elmore, was not well received and after making a game effort to present himself properly to the people of Ward 6 he practically gave it up as a hard job. All through his efforts to speak there were numerous queries about the "blue laws" and the "where can I get a dope on Sunday," etc. Mr. Elmore stated that he had been a friend of Ward 6 in council for the last two years and had done everything that he could to assist Alderman Carter in getting improvements for the ward, and at times had suffered uncomplainingly the criticisms of the other ward for so doing. But he thought that Ward 6 deserved something. He was proud of his record in council. He declared that it was he who had made the fight against the Public Utilities contract in council, and that he had done so for the motive of service to the people. He had tried to get the best contract he could for the people and had succeeded in doing more than some of the others who now talk a great deal. But now that the issue has been fought out, he is willing to let the court decide the validity of the contract. He had done the best he could for what he conceived to be the interests of the people and he would always do so.

A Capital Speech. The last speaker of the candidates for mayor was Dr. Frank W. Ashmore, who soon gained the attention of the crowd and held it, making a capital speech on a high plane and concluding with a splendid appeal to the patriotism of the people of that ward. He spoke of the fact that he had been reared in the country, had worked his way up from the duties and chores of a boy on the farm to a place as locomotive engineer, had studied medicine and for 20 years had been a practitioner. He had cast his lot with the mill people of Enoree and afterwards had moved to Newry and finally had come to Anderson more than 12 years ago. He had practiced among the people of Ward 6 and he was not of the kind that came among them every two years asking for their votes, but he had been their physician and had come to their call on many occasions. He came back at those who advocated taking off the sanitary dues, for he explained that if this were to be done, the negroes, who pay more than their share, would get out of the tax entirely and the white people would have their property tax increased just that much to help keep up the health of the community, for the money had to be raised. The mill people would not be bettered anyway by the removal of the sanitary dues, for the mill people would have to keep up the sanitary service and would collect the dues just the same.

He declared in answer to one of his opponents that he had something else than mayor to occupy his time, that he would give enough of his time to the city to make a good mayor and the people are looking for busy men these days, for the men who have nothing to do are not the progressive men. He admits the white way, but repeated his objection that the money might have been better spent in a better way for the benefit of the city. He does not conceive of the prevalence of the recorder's court to be the criminal court and he would if elected mayor offer to do the work himself, and while he would administer the law to protect the people and to preserve order, yet he would not let the people of one section of the city be treated differently from the others.

He Has No Dictator. With a great deal of significance behind him he said he declared that he has no cap to be elected mayor, but he is running on his own and his ambition to serve. He has no organization or clique behind him but is running as an individual and on his record as a citizen. Dr. Ashmore concluded with a spirited defense of the people of Ward 6. He declared that he had often heard that the people of this ward could be led around by a whiskey bottle stuck to their noses or by the offer of a quarter, and some had boasted that they carried this ward in their vest pocket, but he wished to repudiate this. There might be some who would spoil the reputation of the entire community, but the people are just as good as any of the others.

He denounced scathingly any person who would offer the use of money by liquor to get votes and declared that if he should be elected mayor and a man should come before him for a bribe, another who had tried to influence his vote with the use of liquor, he, as mayor, would pronounce the man before him not guilty. This awoke a responsive chord among the thinking people in the crowd and when Dr. Ashmore concluded a few moments later he was cheered lustily.

The last speakers were the candidates for aldermen from this ward. There were but two, Marshall Fennell, who spoke but briefly, making a good natured statement of his candidacy, and Robert Carter, who made a very earnest review of his work for his ward for the last two years, and outlined some things he had planned for the next two years. In enumerating the lights and hydrants he had added to his ward, he spoke of the hydrants

BREAK OVER RULES DISCUSS SUFFRAGE

National Federation of Women's Clubs Finds a Smooth Way To Inject Politics

Chicago, June 12.—The General Federation of Women's Clubs tomorrow, for the first time, is expected to face the question of woman's suffrage for adoption or rejection.

There is little opposition to the adoption of a resolution approving the principles of equal suffrage, but the battle will come when an effort is made to have the federation make the fight to o. k. the ballot for women as part of the federation's propaganda. The subject hitherto has died in committee because the federation's constitution prohibits consideration of religion and politics.

In the numerous conferences of this convention, however the great strides made by suffragists in recent years were recognized and it was agreed that enlightenment on the subject might come properly under the heading of education.

It is a further rule that the resolutions shall deal only with those subjects which have been discussed on the floor. For this reason Mrs. Helen Boswell, of New York, referred in the briefest possible manner to the subject at the educational conference today. Although she scarcely more than mentioned its existence it was sufficient to form the entering wedge.

It is believed the resolutions committee tomorrow will report in favor of the principle of equal suffrage. This, it is said, will bring the fight to the floor. Delegates today held three sessions. Tonight there was an address by Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, of New York, president of the International Women's Suffrage Alliance.

POLLOCK GIVES HIS PLATFORM

Says That He Would Get Out of the Race If Some Other Would Enter

Cheraw, June 12.—W. P. Pollock candidate for the United States senate, has given out the following open letter to the people of the State regarding his candidacy.

The time approaches near when entries will close for candidates for State and national offices. Many able and patriotic men have announced their candidacy for governor and for other State offices, but so far only two men have announced their candidacy for the United States senate—Sen. E. D. Smith and Gov. C. L. Blesse.

I know of no law of the land nor rule of the party that give to a senator the right to succeed himself, but on the contrary the constitution of the United States limits the term to six years, and the expiration of that term a senator's commission goes back to the people whence it came to be by them bestowed where they will.

I know of no law of the land nor rule of the party that gives to a governor the right to succeed to a seat in the United States senate at the expiration of a gubernatorial term, but on the contrary a governor who uses his office to build up for himself a political machine with which to elect himself to some other office shows that he is utterly selfish, and he violates the spirit if not the letter of the constitution.

There is a widespread demand throughout South Carolina for a broader field from which to choose a United States senator, because the wisest conclusions are reached only after the fullest discussion—the best representatives of the people are found only when the people have a full field from which to select.

I have been urged by many unselfish, patriotic men from every section of South Carolina who have only the best interests of the State and her people at heart to enter the race for the United States senate this year, but I have hesitated to do so before lest my entrance into the race might keep some other man who might be more acceptable to the people from announcing his candidacy. But the time for doubting and waiting has passed. South Carolina needs the services of her sons. She deserves better abroad than she has been receiving at home. She gave me birth and sustenance, and whatever I am I owe it to her and I gladly place myself at her disposal.

I therefore announce myself a candidate for the United States senate in the approaching democratic primary, and in doing so I do not wish any good, patriotic man who is willing to place his services on the altar of his State to stay out of the race on my account, but I shall welcome into the campaign any good man who feels that he can render a patriotic service to his people.

I am not a candidate of any clique or caucus. I have entered into no combination with any man or set of men. I have nothing to give and nothing to promise except faithful service to my country and my people. I am not begging for something for myself, but I am exercising the right that every democrat in South Carolina has who is 30 years old—the right to offer his services to his State in the United States senate. It is for people to accept or reject those services, and whether they accept me or whether they reject me I hope the people will see in the campaign that they have the opportunity to vote for a man and not for a mere self-seeking politician and scophant, and that by my efforts, something has been added to the welfare of South Carolina and the happiness of her people. I therefore, invite all good men in South Carolina to join me in a campaign for decency and honor and law and order, and against corruption and dishonor and disorder and lawlessness. I appeal to the conscience of the people of South Carolina to elect to the senate and to every other office within their gift the best man who shall offer, and by the verdict of the people I shall be willing to abide. W. P. Pollock. SCOUTS TO RUN. Letter to be Carried from Charlotte to Rock Hill. Fort Mill, June 12.—C. W. Blakey, secretary of the Rock Hill Y. M. C. A. is in Fort Mill today making preliminary arrangements for a relay foot race from Charlotte, N. C., to Rock Hill on July 4th, in which the Boy Scouts of Charlotte, Rock Hill and Fort Mill will be required to carry a letter by relays of one-quarter mile each from the mayor of Charlotte to the mayor of Rock Hill. The distance to be covered is about 37 miles, hence about 108 boys will be required to make the run. Assistant Scoutmaster F. Murray Mack is heartily in favor of the project and will doubtless take care of the Fort Mill end of the project without trouble. ARRESTED AS BLACKMAILER. Negro In Jail Charged With Threatening Railroad (By Associated Press) New York, June 12.—Henry Joseph Burton, the West Indian negro, who is declared to have threatened to blow up a Cunard Line ocean steamship if he was not paid $10,000, also menaced the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad by writing he would wreck a passenger train if his demands of a blackmailing character were not complied with. This statement was made late today by detectives who have been investigating the prisoner's activities. Arrested under the name of Henry Westcott, in a New Jersey town last night, when armed posses dropped a decoy package from a train. Burton is a prisoner tonight in jail in Hackensack, N. J., awaiting extradition to New York. Meanwhile, his picture

The threat to wreck a passenger train on the New Haven was in the same handwriting, according to the Chardard Line. From the New Haven road was demanded $35,000. Papers Burton carried showed he had been granted a patent for a dynamo motor. The letter to the Cunard Line stated that a novelty-constructed dynamite bomb that could be sent in a package would be the weapon of destruction. The letter declared that fifteen men of the crew of the new Aquitania, the largest British vessel afloat, were in the conspiracy, but the police, believe, they said, that Burton had no confederates.
