EXPERT KNOWLEDGE OF EXPRESS CHARGES

ANDERSON SHIPPERS FEEL NEED OF CHANGE

THE RATE IS UNJUST

South Carolina Towns Claim That Proposed Rates of Company Should Be Studied

Anderson men are taking a keen interest in the discussion now going on relative to changes in the express rates. The principal people to be affected in this section of course will be the soda water and ice distributors, although a few other firms and concerns will be affected. A comprehensive article from the Columbia State of yesterday sums up the situation in this manner:

"A lack of expert knowledge with regard to the express rate situation in South Carolina seems to exist. It is said by those who are investigating for the merchants, manufacturers and shippers generally that they, and therefore their customers, are unprotected against unreasonable increases in express rates. The investigators say that the railroad commissioners admit having no expert knowledge on the subject.

"It was said yesterday that at the rehearing which the railroad commission has granted for Wednesday morning facts and figures will be presented that will show an unreasonable increase in the proposed rates that have been ordered into effect July 1. The shippers say that if the proposed rates prevail it will mean that the consumer is to pay, and pay dearly. "Georgia, it is said has better express rates than South Carolina, even at the present time. The rates on fish, for example, are said to be 40 per cent lower today in Georgia.

"The whole situation as to the proposed increased rates on express weighing 50 pounds or more arises, it is said, from the fact that the express company wants to put into effect, with some modifications, an intrastate matter the rates which have been approved for interstate matter by the interstate commerce commission. The railroad commission of Georgia has ordered into effect the rates the express companies proposed, but with modifications.

"In many instances the express rates on vegetables, fruits and soda water in Georgia, are to be constructed on a basis of 60 per cent of the first class express rates. In South Carolina the proposed rates on the same commodities, it is said are to be constructed on a basis of 65 per cent of the first class rates.

"At the office of the Terry Packing company it was said yesterday that the following are some of the proposed changes in rates on fish out of Columbia:

	Present	Proposed.
Ashepool	$1.75	$1.58
Anderson	1.00	1.58
Barnwell	.90	1.14
