THE NEED OF TODAY

IS AN AWAKENED YOUNG MANHOOD

Address By T. C. Haddon of Hodges At the Commencement At Clemson College

One of the interesting addresses at the commencement exercises of Clemson College was made by T. C. Haddon of Hodges, who for the last two summers has been connected with the Peoples' Bank of Anderson. He will work in the bank again this summer. Mr. Haddon's subject was "An Awakened Youth the Need of Today."

Mr. Haddon's address, which received much favorable comment is as follows: "The day of long, tedious, drowsy oratory has given way to a day of concise speech; public speaking seems to have passed from the sphere of entertainment to that of instruction. This is an age of rapid progress; it is a time when the young man has much to learn and some to unlearn."

The needs of this day are very special and very urgent. Among the foremost of these are the needs of the young man and his greatest need is that of an awakened self. The student of today is brought up in a new atmosphere and fed on new principles. He should open his eyes with wonder at the meaning, the value and the results of education. And we must give up the old idea that our liberal education of today deals with the dead past, buried peoples and exploded philosophies, for most of what we get in our schools and colleges is awake with life and capable of application to modern uses.

May we, as young men, awaken to this fact before too many of our college days are over; and come to realize that education is the developing of the mind, not the body, not even the spirit, but may we realize that it is the developing of all these forces, together with accuracy in observation of quickness and certainty in seizing upon the main points of a subject, and discrimination in dividing the most important in that great mass of facts. More than that, education develops a sense of duty and honor. All praise for the young man is due who early awakens to the meaning and the value of an education; and all honor to the colleges for they prepare us in the most useful manner for the practical purposes of life.

The young man must awaken to the use and responsibilities of leisure. The increase of wealth in our country and the multiplication of leisure hours has produced a corresponding increase in the number of young men who, fortunately or unfortunately, are the heirs of large estates. Remember, money in itself is worthless and receives value only through its purchasing power while we have time and our own lives at our command; yet we let days and years slip by unprofitably and the opportunities are used for nothing but self and personal gratification with no result but evil to ourselves and others.

The first thing for the youth of leisure to do, who really wants to count in his day and generation, is to acquire the habit of real work. Work and think, therefore, for when the habit is once attained one will soon find that for which he is best fitted. There are none so discontented as the idle and the older they become the more bitter and unhappy they become. We have no holidays and no one of the joy and charm that comes from working before and after them.

It shall not endeavor to speak of any particular work for the youth of leisure, but the opportunities are many and large and the demand for intelligent work is vast and yet growing. But there is another great awakening that may pass over us as young men. It is a awakening to the meaning and the goal of success; it is a realization that there exists great and sure keys to success, and that these must be found before we will have the strength to say to ourselves, "This is what I should and therefore, it is what I shall do." To strike the keynote that successful man struck once when a boy asked him, "What is the secret to success?" replied, "My boy, there is no secret to it, it is just the old dig!" And that is exactly the message that we should learn. We must dig, and dig in the right place, for there will be nothing more simple so long as we do not give it the wrong direction. What we do well, we succeed in. A good definition of success is the accomplishment of the thing that we set out to do.

Now success is for any one of us in this audience in proportion to our capabilities and as we are willing to pay the price. The price is hard work and personal sacrifices. Recently when the great inventor, Mr. Edison, was asked the meaning of success, he replied, "Two per cent is genius and the rest is hard work." And again he was asked to explain the application of this. He said, "No it is the application of the different young men of today may realize that success depends upon working while others sit idle by and doing his will while others do not. It is the one that works harder than others. Now we can do as we please, but if we choose to dream and glide while we are young and in college, we will have to work doubly hard in the years when we are working and thinking while the dreamers and idlers dream. We must realize that this life is a series of efforts and that honest effort succeeds better than success."

When a young man is studying to become successful he must look for it. It is already successful in his mind. Two essential keys; namely, a good character and a good education. The first is the foundation, the second is the superstructure. For the sake of the sake of the real world of the young man of today, it is that he is to content to be

NEAR DEATH BY SMOTHERING

But Husband, With Aid of Cardui, Effects Her Deliverance.

Draper, N. C.—Mrs. Helen Dalton, of this place, says: "I suffered for years, with pains in my left side, and would often almost smother to death. Medicine pitched me up for awhile, but then I would get worse again. Finally, my husband decided he wanted me to try Cardui, the woman's tonic, so he bought me a bottle and began using it. It did me more good than all the medicines I had taken."

"I have induced many of my friends to try Cardui, and they all say they have been benefited by its use. To be sure, I have been, and never will be, a medicine to compare with Cardui, believe it is a good medicine for all womanly troubles. For over 50 years, Cardui has been relieving woman's sufferings and building weak women up to health and strength. If you are a woman, give it a fair trial. It should surely help you, as it has a million others."

the common and the average rather than the best. There are too many automatic machines in the forms of young men. I especially speak of the ones in business. He goes to the office at 9, takes an hour for lunch at 12, and puts on the clock strikes. He is the same yesterday and today and does everything that he is told to do.

May we realize young men, may we awaken to the fact that it is the extra service in business that counts, not giving what is given us, but many times more, doing the work thorough regardless of how long it takes. But we, as young men, may be thoroughly educated, we may know the meaning and the value of it, we may take full advantage of our opportunities, we may even know what material success is and have the keys to that, yet we may lack the manly qualities that a young man can possess without a knowledge that there is a great Supreme Being, a Creator, a Ruler, and without a true belief in Him, we will be hindered and crippled in all that we undertake.

"The dawn of a new day is already approaching for the young man is awakening to a sense of neglected ideals and the neglected duties, to a knowledge that he must know things before he undertakes to settle them, and to a consciousness that as the character of the young man is cast along correct lines in his future years shall the standing of our communities be judged. For a young man to study self control, self police, temperance is not alone to do what is best for him, but is to align himself with the tendencies of other men. Let us heed the words of Gladstone: "Be thorough in all you do, and remember that ignorance is often indistinguishable from wickedness. Be by the book, and let the exercises of your strength today will give you more strength than tomorrow. Work onward and work upward and may the blessings of the Most High soothe our cares, clear visions and crown our labors with reward."

DEPRESSED SPIRITS

Everyone Has It Within His Power to be Happy

A celebrated French physician has said that a man's liver is the barometer of his disposition. Every man and every woman knows that the cheerful smile is a big factor in one's success. Every one should know that the disposition is the cause of ninety per cent of the ailments ever worked upon by the physician. The liver is the source of the blood, the blood is the source of the vitality, the vitality is the source of the energy, the energy is the source of the power, the power is the source of the success. But the inactive liver gives rise to a condition known as depression, dull eye and even listlessness. Heed your warning and you will find happiness to yourself and content to those you associate. Contentment is to do. Modern day science has found a better way to relieve the liver and it is called LIVER-AXID which is a pure vegetable remedy of the highest quality. It is the only remedy that will cure the liver and the blood, and it is the only remedy that will cure the depression of the liver. L. L. Patton, S. C.

The Heart of the City Is Warm For the Visitors Who Come Tomorrow

The Elks of South Carolina are coming to Anderson tomorrow and Thursday a half thousand strong. From the fastnesses of the Jovial creature in all parts of the State there come such numbers to indicate that the herd will have bells on. Anderson will be waiting with a welcome as big as the heart of the city, and that's hardly big enough for the young man in the city, it may be ready with the glad hand, according to indications. One of the loudest notes in the State-wide rumble of the huge herd of the commonwealth has arisen in Columbia, which generously stepped aside in the last State convention with the invitation and added in language that invited one toward Anderson for the meeting of this week. The Columbia State among other things yesterday had the following to say about who to come and how to Anderson from that city: "At the conclusion of a final dress rehearsal and parade this afternoon the boys of Columbia lodge, No. 1190, P. O. E. Elks, will be ready to leave for Anderson tomorrow night to attend the State convention of Elks. The drum corps will be seen on Main street for the first time this afternoon. Under the leadership of A. J. Carlin, star soloist of Sousa's band, J. W. Comstock, bugle sergeant, A. J. Ray, drum major, and G. J. Lynch, drum major, the drum corps has been hard at work for weeks preparing for its first appearance at the State convention. Plans were completed Saturday for the movement of the Columbia delegation to Anderson. A special train will leave the union station, via the Southern Railway, after midnight tonight, with the 22 or more Columbia representatives, including the drum corps, and the members of the Columbia State Elks lodge. The drum corps will be headed by Carlin, Ray, Lynch, and Comstock. The train will leave Columbia at 11:30 p. m. and arrive in Anderson at 7:30 a. m. tomorrow morning. The special train will consist of a baggage car, day coach, and two Pullman cars. Anderson will be crowded with visitors for the annual convention and Columbia Elks state Elks lodge will have the honor of carrying the Columbia delegation to Anderson. The Columbia Elks lodge will have the honor of carrying the Columbia delegation to Anderson. The Columbia Elks lodge will have the honor of carrying the Columbia delegation to Anderson."

THE ELKS SERVICE

All Over Country Patriotic Citizens Paid Homage to Birthday of the Grand Old "Rag"

The United States flag was 137 years old Sunday, and interesting celebrations were held in various parts of the country in honor of the anniversary. Flags were displayed here by many patriotic citizens, and today special exercises were held in many of the schools. It was on June 14th, 1777 that the continental congress passed a resolution "That the flag of the thirteen United States be thirteen stripes, alternate red and blue; that the union be thirteen stars, white in a blue field." Flag of a wide variety of designs had been borne by the colonial troops prior to that time declared free, that the special flag was chosen. The first display of the stars and stripes at a military post was at Fort Mifflin of the site of the present city of Philadelphia, N. Y., early in August, 1777. It was the original intention to add both a star and a stripe for each new
