The Weather.

Washington, June 25.—Forecast: South Carolina: Local thundershowers Friday; Saturday generally fair continued warm.

The Sunny South. You bet it is. Thunder and lightning every where but not a drop of rain.

Well, Anderson has started out to break up another league.

Candidates are now in order—for umpire for league games here.

The London suits would surely enjoy a South Carolina campaign.

There are several colleges on the Anderson club, splendid young fellows.

Ty Cobb would feel a little bit put out if some jury would hand him a wallop.

The State Bankers' association has done itself proud to elect Lee Holliman secretary again.

Young Harrington Godfrey is getting the glad hand from the press gang over the state.

Greatest objection to hot weather is that newspapers have to keep on being made just the same.

President Wilson hits the golf ball too hard for comfort of some of the styles in Washington.

We would rather be almost anybody else than Chairman John Gary Evans. He has the mean job.

In Mississippi they cure a prisoner on a hunger strike—by letting the striker have his way and die.

We like that suggestion of John T. West for the legislature, but it is almost too good to be true.

We trust that the Anderson fire ladders will go down to Greenwood next year and mop up all the prizes in the tournament.

President Wilson will not visit this state on July 4th. He was to speak at Cheraw, but his office work will not permit him to leave.

There was great excitement in Greenville yesterday over the tennis matches. No wonder the ball game crowd was so slender.

The third congressional district campaign will be pulled off in watermelon season. We suppose that "pie" will also be on the menu.

We wish Prof. Clinckescal would advertise Anderson a little bit and tell the folks that the first office he ever held was school commissioner of this county.

The Southern Express company cut the rates on things it couldn't get to handle. That reminds us of the campaign harangues of some politicians. They obscure the big things with bugaboo issues.

It is rumored that Mr. R. A. Cooper, for personal reasons, may retire from the race for governor. His recent benevolence has brought him many consoling messages from his many friends. He was about the best qualified man in the race to be governor of a state, but he is handicapped in the campaign.

Anderson suffers a distinct loss in the removal of Dr. Lee Sanders, who is not only a surgeon without a superior in the state, but was working out some plans for the betterment of the health of the colored people, and the health of a community depends upon the health of every individual.

THE BEST KIND OF HAY

From Mr. S. R. Rittenberg, agricultural publicist of Clemson college. The Intelligencer has received a much appreciated letter endorsing the appeal of this paper for the farmers to produce and the consumers to buy oats and vetch hay. Mr. Rittenberg's letter contains some suggestions and as we know of no better way to present them, we give his letter in full: "Your editorial, 'The Best Kind of Hay,' which appeared in yesterday's issue, has my hearty endorsement. The Extension Division of Clemson College is doing everything it can to induce farmers to raise their hay at home and there is no doubt that oats and vetch hay or clover hay is very much better suited for our country than is timothy.

"This spring for the first time in many years some of the counties of the state produced considerable surpluses of the oats and vetch hay, due in a very large measure to the work of the county demonstration agents in encouraging the industry.

"The oats and vetch mixture serves the double purpose of protecting the land most effectively during the winter months when nitrogen that became available during the warm spells would otherwise have been lost and when the physical condition of the land would have been impaired. It would be a good plan to direct the attention of your readers to some of these things, especially as within two or three months the season for planting clover and vetch will be at hand.

"Incidentally, why not call attention editorially to the advice given by Long in the letter printed in The Intelligencer yesterday, in which he cautioned farmers against the advance in the price of vetch and clover seed and urged them to buy their supply of these seed at once.

"Returning to the hay question, of course the demonstration work urges that legume crops used as winter cover crops be turned under in the spring that the soil may get full benefit from these crops. However, where cutting such crops for hay will mean a very material saving in the cost of feed for the farm animals, the policy of the demonstration work is not to force the practice of turning under upon the farm in question.

"The principal thing is that he plant these leguminous crops. They are our royal soil builders and soil building is at present South Carolina's agricultural need."

AS TO TRAIN AUDITORS

The Intelligencer has received the following to which it gives due publicity, especially since we have had quite a scolding from Col. Bob Hunt, the chief auditor of the Southern Railway: "Washington, D. C., June 25.—Statements to the effect that Southern Railway Company purposes to discontinue with ticket collectors on its passenger trains entirely without foundation declared Comptroller A. H. Plant today.

"Recently published reports alleging that this company intends to abandon its system of ticket collectors on its passenger trains are incorrect," says Mr. Plant. "While collectors have been taken, for the present, from some of the trains on which traffic does not justify their retention, collectors are to be continued on the important trains on the main lines, and no further."

As The Intelligencer was one of the first to publish this news, in fact perhaps the very first, we wish to clear our skirts by saying that we received the information from as many as three train auditors who had been laid off and from as many as two conductors on trains from which the auditors had been taken, and their statement was that as many as 80 train auditors had been laid off. What percentage of the whole that is we do not know.

That is the information we received, and Mr. Platt admits that some have been laid off, so there appears after all to have been some "foundation" for the article appearing in this paper. Incidentally we have been threatened with a visit from Col. Bob Hunt during the meeting of the state press association. That is heaping coals of fire, all right, and we will always be glad to find a Southern railway official in captivity in these wilds.

Nothing of stronger significance has happened here in recent months than the announcement of Mr. John A. McGill that he is going into the wholesale business. Just a little over a year ago he entered the retail business. We wish him much success in his new venture. He made good as a farmer and now as a merchant.

The retiring of E. P. Vandiver from the "F & M" bank was not a surprise. It does not remove him from business activity. He has been a power in the bank and in the city, and he will not slow up in his activities, but will specialize. He is a useful citizen.

MR. RICHARDS' PENCHANT

We do not know what J. H. G. Richards said at Florence to get the crowd to geying him, but he is personally a very clever kind of man and should be measured in the race for governor on his own individuality. It appears that some are trying to shove him to the front on certain affiliations, while others who have been longer and more affiliated are being put aside.

Some people are opposed to him because he came out for Governor Bleuse. He cannot be blamed for that. Mr. Richards always had a pleasant feeling for the man in the governor's office and Governor Heyward gave him several nice appointments, and Governor Ansel appointed him to his present place on the railroad commission. Mr. Richards ran for governor once before and got less than 10,000 votes, even with the support of Ben Tillman and the Columbia State.

IS A MORAL MAN

Some of the accounts of the campaign meeting sent out from Florence state that Mr. W. C. Irby declared "That the people ought to have good liquor." No doubt Mr. Irby did say that, but that one quotation does not give an adequate idea of his speech for it puts him in the position of advocating liquor when we feel sure that Mr. Irby is a "tee-totaler" himself and that he despises whiskey. What he meant no doubt, was that if the people are to have liquor, then they should have good, pure whiskey and not this manufactured and colored spirits.

The people may size up Mr. Irby for themselves when he comes around, and may determine whether or not he is of a gubernatorial size mentally and politically speaking, but one thing they will find, he is personally and socially above reproach.

Clemson college seems to be getting in the work. Farmers over the state are taking interest in better ways of farming as told by the Clemson publicists.

NO LIGHTING BONDS

Why Winston-Salem Voters Defeated This Item at Polls. (From Winston-Salem Journal)

The item proposing $250,000 of bonds for the establishment of a municipal lighting or heating plant or both here was made known to the public like a clap of thunder from a blue sky. When the lengthy resolution calling for the bond election was read before the board of aldermen for its first reading it was learned by citizens for the first time that the board was contemplating a thing of that kind.

Soon after Mr. Z. V. Taylor appeared before the board and in the name of fairness and justice to his company asked that the bonds be not voted as his company had only recently come to this city and had not been given a reasonable length of time in which to make all the improvements desired. He declared that the voting of the bond would cripple the securities of the local public service company.

The matter was widely discussed but it was notable that it was not until a day or so before the registration books closed that the people really began to take active interest in the matter. However, when they did begin talking about it, the subject was thoroughly discussed, some of the most prominent citizens desiring to take part in the discussion.

For a time it seemed as though the bonds would be voted by the citizens but following statements to the effect that the Southern Public Utilities Company is to make reductions in the rate and improve the service in many ways, it was pointed out that it would be very unwise for the city to vote the bonds if it is able to secure the things desired without it. From all indications, these things will be secured at the earliest possible date.

Only one ward in the city voted for the municipal lighting bonds. In the third ward there was a small majority computed against the registration for the issuance of the lighting bonds. In the other wards, the vote for the bonds for establishing the plant was comparatively small.

Mr. Z. V. Taylor, president of the Southern Public Utilities Company, made the following statement in regard to the result of the election over the long distance "phone last night: "The people of Winston-Salem have done what I thought they would do. I have always deemed them broad-minded and level-headed and fair and I wish to assure the citizens of the Twin-City that the Southern Public Utilities Company will always be glad to do everything possible to aid in the upbuilding of the city."

CONVICTS IN GEORGIA

Are Worked in the Open Air and They Thrive on It. Atlanta, Ga., June 25.—Highway experts from several states are down to Georgia this week to inspect the roads built by convict labor, and they were all enthusiastic over the results and the system. Replying to recent criticism by Governor Hooper, of Tennessee, one of the experts said: "It is far better to work convicts out in the open air and keep them well, at the same time building good roads for the farmers and other persons than to keep them inside a penitentiary with free labor."

CRITICISE NEWLANDS' BILL

Objection Raised That Trade Measure Not Sufficiently. Washington, June 25.—With the opening today of debate on the Newlands trade commission bill, the fight began to put the administration anti-trust program through the Senate.

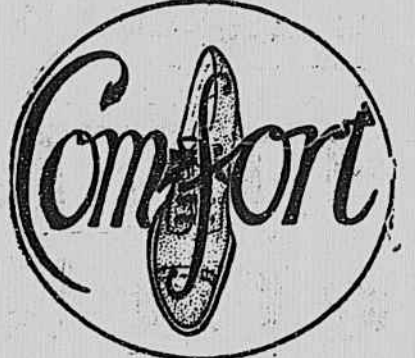

On motion of Senator Newlands the trade commission measure was made the unfinished business, with an agreement that its consideration should not interfere with appropriation bills.

Senator Cummins introduced five amendments to the bill proposing to add prohibitions against interlocking directorates and holding companies, with the trade commission responsibility for their enforcement.

Today's debate centered about the section of the bill making "unfair competition" illegal, and authorizing the proposed commission to prevent prices amounting to "unfair competition" from being made.

Senator McCumber said the section would force the commission to prescribe a "standard of business morals" and to enforce the standard. Senators Borah and Reed questioned the constitutionality of the provision.

Senator Newlands defended it, asserting that the term "unfair competition" had a generally recognized meaning.
