

Telephone to Glazier

"I WISH you would get a glazier to come up and set that pane of glass the children broke yesterday. The house is as cold as a barn," said the suburban housewife, as her husband was about to go to business.

"Haven't time this morning," replied her husband. "Just look in the Telephone Directory—you'll find several there. Give the order to the one who says he will send a man right up."

It's the man with the telephone who gets the hurry orders every time.

Georgia Men To Try Plan of Having Automobile Truck Carry Public and Freight

Two Georgia men have struck on a happy idea both for Townville and for Anderson, and they will shortly put this plan into execution. In short the plan is to put on a hack service to be operated between Anderson and Townville and to make the trip daily. A large automobile truck, with a big carrying capacity, has been purchased for this purpose by R. C. Whitworth and J. E. Carnes, both of Lavonia, Ga., and these gentlemen believe that they will make some money out of the venture, helping both Anderson and Townville at the same time.

Heretofore the people of Townville have been having all their freight shipped to other stations, along the main line of the Southern railway, but with the truck in service in Anderson they will most assuredly choose the latter method.

ELECTRIC STORM DESTROYS HOUSE

Smith School House Struck By Lightning and Burned With All Contents

The Smith school house, located about one mile from Sandy Springs, was totally destroyed by fire with all its contents yesterday during an electrical storm of considerable violence that visited the Sandy Springs section. The building was practically new, having been completed only last summer, and was one of the best equipped rural schools in this section. The storm, that broke at about 2 o'clock yesterday was one of the worst witnessed in some time in the Sandy Springs section, and brought a much needed rain to the farmers of the county. It is not known what insurance was carried on the destroyed building.

NEXT CONFERENCE AT HONEAPATH CHURCH

THAT PLACE WAS SELECTED YESTERDAY

MUCH BUSINESS

District Convention of the Methodist Church Was Concluded Here Last Night

The second day of the district conference of the Methodist church for this district came to a close at Bethel Methodist church last night. The conference was one of the best ever held in this city and every delegate in attendance expressed himself as enjoying the occasion.

It was expected Wednesday that the meeting would come to a close yesterday and this proved to be true. The most important action of the body, taken at yesterday's convention, was the selection of the next meeting place, and this resulted in choosing Honea Path for the meeting to be held in 1915.

After discussing various matters of importance and hearing several splendid addresses yesterday, the presiding elder announced the appointment of several important committees. Next the body heard a few able addresses and then the conference came to an end.

Before departing for their homes last night, the delegates said that they had never enjoyed a more pleasant meeting than was the one held with the Anderson church.

RENT COLLECTION FOR ANDERSON LIBRARY

NEW SYSTEM WILL SHORTLY BE INSTITUTED

WILL RENT BOOKS

Same System To Be Followed In Anderson As Is Now Practiced By Other Foremost Cities

The trustees of the library at their recent meeting decided to establish a rent collection department. This collection consists of some of the latest and best fiction and any registered member of the library may draw books from this collection by paying the nominal sum of two cents per day for each book taken out. No book, however, can be kept out more than a week without an additional charge of two cents per day which is the usual fine for books kept over time.

This collection has been established by many of the libraries over the country and has proved very popular with the reading public. The librarian here is in receipt of a letter from the librarian of the Carnegie library of Atlanta in which she says: "The experiment was an immediate success and many words of approval have been heard from the users of the library. From the nucleus of 161 volumes bought in June for $147.50 the collection grew until on December 31, 1909 volumes had been added, bought at a cost of $585.54. These volumes circulated 11,273 times and the rent amounted to $585.54. The object of this collection is not to raise money for the library but to supplement the fiction in the library at a nominal cost to the readers and if it proves popular here as it has in other libraries, other books will be added from time to time. The books have been catalogued and will be ready for circulation Friday morning.

Following are the rules adopted by the association, a copy of which will be pasted in each of the books of the collection:

Rules governing rent collection of books: This book belongs to the rent collection of the Anderson Public library. The rental for each book shall be two (2) cents per day and any registered member of the library may draw books from this collection upon paying this amount to the librarian. The rental must be paid when the book is returned or the borrower's card will be held until all charges have been paid and no books can be drawn from this department of the library until all rent and damages have been paid. Books cannot be drawn from the rent collection for a longer period than one (1) week without the usual fee of two (2) cents per day. No book can be transferred unless it is presented at the desk and the transfer made by the librarian.

FORD OPTIMISTIC ABOUT BUSINESS

In Conversation With President Said Business Was Getting Better Every Day

(By Associated Press.) Washington, July 9.—Optimistic views of business conditions were presented to President Wilson today by Henry Ford, the Detroit manufacturer, during an hour's conference at the White House. Mr. Ford told the president he saw no evidences of any sort of business depression, psychological or otherwise, and said that in his opinion business was getting better all the time.

"The only trouble is," Mr. Ford said, "that some people seem pessimistic. If every one would only cheer up and attend to their business this calamity talk would stop immediately."

The president and Mr. Ford discussed the trust bills in a general way, as well as the business session. Officials close to the president said he was greatly encouraged by his talk with Mr. Ford.

TROOPS WILL GO TO ENCAMPMENT

May Go Unarmed as Citizens and Arms Shipped As Baggage or Express

(By Associated Press.) Washington, July 9.—The refusal of Governor Bleasie to permit North Carolina and Georgia militia troops to pass through South Carolina en route to the military encampment at Augusta, has not been the basis of representations to the war department and in the opinion of officials will not be.

Although the state troops will go to the encampment on invitation of the war department, they have no federal status and officials said today the department had no authority to order their transportation through South Carolina.

It was pointed out that the militia of one state may not enter another state armed except on permission from the governor, but the suggestion was offered that the order of the South Carolina governor might be circumvented by the militiamen traveling through the state as individual passengers, unarmed. If this plan were resorted to, the troopers arms could be sent by express or as baggage.

WERE CHARMED WITH ANDERSON

had surely opened his eyes. He had heard much of Anderson and wished to see something of the same little city which is now being so much talked of in the state. He paid a fine compliment to Dr. Jas. P. Kinard, the new president, and declared his belief that Anderson college has a great future.

R. S. Ligon, chairman of the local board of trustees, referred to his experience as a "printer's devil," or apprentice in a printing office, and grew quite eloquent in telling of the need for educational institutions of high standards. He urged that every state college and every other college be frank in the statements in their catalogue, and declared with earnestness that Anderson college would always try to live up to its declarations in its catalogue. He spoke of the power of the press to aid in the advancement of the cause of education.

Jas. L. Sims of Arangeburg, United States marshal for this state and treasurer of the press association, declared his firm conviction that this state needs a compulsory attendance law to require the parents to give their children a chance. He declared with feeling that 40,000 white children in this state are kept out of the schools by the action of their parents. Mr. Sims expressed his admiration for Anderson college and for the city of Anderson.

Senator Nells Christensen Nells Christensen, senator from Beaufort and editor of the Gazette stated that he had been profoundly impressed with the declarations of Mr. Ligon. Mr. Christensen has been a member of the legislative committee to visit the state college and he stated that Anderson college surely has a splendid opportunity, and he was proud that South Carolina has men of the vision and patriotism that has been shown by the trustees and founders of this institution.

Col. W. J. Talbert of Edgefield, who had been invited to come along with the party, was called upon for some jokes, as he is a well known raconteur. He told a few to illustrate how much delighted he is with Anderson and Anderson college.

A splendid talk was made by Jas. L. Mims of Edgefield, one of the sterling men of the state. He stated that he had never been so much impressed with the greatness of South Carolina as he had been by the Piedmont and Northern railway. He wishes to see it continued to Edgefield so that the girls from down that way may come to Anderson college. It is only 29 miles from Edgefield to Ninety-Six, and yet in coming to Anderson he would have to ride half a day in a circuitous route to get even as far as Ninety-Six. He was deeply in earnest over the proposition of extending the line. Mr. Mims complimented Anderson college most warmly, and stated his belief in the future of the institution because it has as its head a man of such splendid character and of such unusual qualifications as his former teacher at the Citadel, the new president, Dr. Jas. P. Kinard.

All of these speeches were impromptu and were given in response to requests from the acting president of the association. There were other good speakers among the citizens and among the "press gang," but about this time the rain ceased and it was decided to try to take a little automobile ride over the city in the remaining intervening time, and the informal exercises were brought to a happy close close by a few words from Miss Juanita Wylie of Lancaster, editor of the News, who stated that Anderson is "Her Town," and then she bade "good bye" for the members of the association.

During the ride around the city, which was much enjoyed, the visitors found the Electric City quite up to all the good things that they had heard of it. The association returned to the special train and at Belton separated into two parties, some returning to Chick Springs and the others going on to their homes via Columbia. The visitors were much impressed with the fact that the splendid women of Anderson would leave their homes in the middle of the day to see that the city's visitors were given every attention, and that the business men would leave their stores and offices with such graciousness to show the visitors around over the city. They left declaring that they were glad to have come in contact with the Anderson spirit.

Reliable Remedies

For every ache and pain is a reliable remedy. You can cure the difficulty if you only act in time and act with wisdom. A lazy, torpid, sluggish liver is, without a doubt, responsible for more aches and pains than any other thing; for to it we trace constipation, biliousness, indigestion, headache, etc.
