Where Rival Fleets Have Gathered and England's New Dreadnoughts Versus Those of the Triple Alliance.

COMPARISON OF 1913-14 BATTLESHIPS OF GREAT BRITAIN WITH THOSE OF TRIPLE ALLIANCE

A German squadron cruising off Langeland, in the Great Belt of Denmark, is stopping all vessels to investigate their nationality and the destination of their cargoes, and German torpedo boats are in the Kattegat. British warships also have been sighted in Danish waters. A big Russian squadron was seen off the island of Bornholm, in the Baltic. The British fleet is led by the Iron Duke, a super-Dreadnought of 25,000 tons displacement. She carries ten 13 1/2-inch guns, twelve 6-inch guns and others of smaller caliber.

Manning Gain Strength

All Sections of the State Coming to Realization of the Fact That Sumter Man is the Most Widely Popular and Strongest of the Candidates for Governor.

(Political Advertisement)

Sumter Item. The people of Sumter generally are greatly gratified at the evidences of growing strength in Hon. Richard I. Manning's candidacy for governor. This is evidenced in many ways; by the many recent communications to the different papers of the State, and by the attacks being made on him at the campaign meetings by both the Blease and the anti-Blease candidates, for a weak candidate is never attacked by his competitors. Another sure indication of his strength is the many letters being received at Mr. Manning's office every day from all different parts of the State, telling him of his strong stand in the writer's community. An Item reporter was given the opportunity of looking over a batch of mail and made a few excerpts from letters.

comes these optimistic messages. "I believe he is growing in this county, and his strongest opponent is losing." "I find Manning and his supporters ahead around here." "I feel sure that you are gaining ground in our county; I feel good in your behalf today." Newberry is in this too. These are extracts from a couple of letters: "Congratulations you on your bright prospects and commend the stand on public questions you are generally assuming." "As things stand now, Mr. Manning will poll the largest vote of any of the anti-Blease candidates, and may head the ticket over all, both Blease and anti-Blease in this county." From Dorchester comes the word, "I wish to assure you of my support, and that at this poll you can count on 85 per cent, perhaps more." And another from Dorchester: "I wish to report for this section that you will poll a good vote." A Chester man wrote: "You are gaining ground every day in my county. A lot of men have changed recently and are talking Manning. I believe you will head the ticket for governor every county." From an Orangeburg town is written, "You are gaining votes every day and the prospects are, you will not only carry this box but Barnwell, Bamberg and Hamton counties."

as strong as, if not a little stronger, than any one in this section." From a mill town in Greenville county, he heard: "I have got a great many promised to vote for Mr. Manning in this section. I am certainly not leaving any stones unturned for Mr. Manning. I have a lot of men to vote for Mr. Manning. One of our workers was a * * * supporter." A travelling man writes: "I have been working the Piedmont section for about three weeks, and, from observation, believe you are growing stronger every day; a great many men I have talked to are * * * men but are going to support you, believing you are the strongest anti-man in the race." Another travelling man writes, "I have been over nearly every county in the State in the past 30 days—you are growing in favor." The following letter from Charleston was from a gentleman who is not a politician but just a good solid every day citizen who had written Mr. Manning, asking his stand on certain questions. This letter is in reply to Mr. Manning's letter to him. "I am very much gratified at your frank reply to questions asked. As a result, you may expect my support in the coming campaign. I have shown your letter to sixteen others and thirteen have pledged their support to you. Two of the others having previously pledged themselves to other candidates. The other said he was not ready to pledge himself but would give you careful consideration. One of the thirteen gentlemen pledging himself to vote for you, tells me this afternoon that six other voters living on the same block with him, have announced to him that they would support you in the coming primary." Cleaning of Ebenezer Cemetery. All persons interested in Ebenezer cemetery are asked to help in clearing it on Friday, the 14th.
