Election figures are pretty in the eyes of some, but there are other pretty figures.

We wish these newspapers in other states would quit taking so much pleasure out of the outcome of recent elections.

The State Senate for the next two years will show a number of new faces. And there are some others that are on the skirts.

Mayor John P. Grace on being interviewed on the result of the election, said: "etaoin ixyz b-r-r-r-r" and said then a good deal more.

Greenville county must have plans to take the leadership in the house. Several strong lawyers and skilled legislators on that delegation already.

It doesn't pay to stop working. Two years ago Fraser Lyon was defeated by a fluke. It the first race he got more votes than he and his opponent both in the runover.

J. B. Felton had no opposition in the state primary and received practically every vote in the county. He has proved his love for the schools of Anderson. An error in one tabulation caused it to appear that he had lost some votes at his home box—but he got them all.

A CHANGE IS NEEDED

Now that the primary is in a great measure over, and what we shall say will not be garbled, distorted or misunderstood, we wish to call attention to one weakness of the system. It appears that just anybody can run for office.

No matter how vile his character, how depraved his life, how morbid or sordid his mentality. No matter how low his station in the scale of respectability, he can run for office. And some have been elected. Men to whom truth is a nightmare and to whom virtue is a horrid dream can get out as hirelings to injure men of honor and probity.

We must have the primary rules amended so that no man may offer for office unless he can secure a petition signed by a certain percentage of the people qualified to vote for the office for which he seeks.

Men become candidates who seek merely to blackguard and to defame others. They seek nothing, they represent nothing. But when the party permits them to become candidates, they are given certain prestige which as individuals they have not.

They are permitted to go out and utter falsehoods about good men. These libels cannot be answered—for a man with self respect cannot stoop to the level of such creatures. But the lie sticks and hurts, no matter how vile the source whence it issues.

We distinctly have no reference to Messrs Jennings and Pollock, who are honorable men, nor are we referring to any particular person. But the condition is there, and should be corrected.

DOWN ON THE FARM

There are 728,627 persons in South Carolina that work for a living and 513,021 of them are employed upon the farm, according to the report which has just been issued by the United States Census Bureau. Of the persons engaged in agricultural pursuits, the bulk of them are farm operators and farm laborers. The farm operators number 171,917, and 159,346 are men and 12,571 are women. There are 336,416 farm laborers in the State and 158,143 are males and 178,273 females.

There are 66 dairy farms in the state and they employ 195 laborers and 9 foremen. There are also ten persons in the state whose principal source of income is from stock raising. The number of cowboys and sheep herders in this state is 43.

In the entire United States there are 71,580,270 persons over 10 years of age and 38,167,336, or 53 per cent of them are engaged in gainful occupations. Of the gainfully occupied, 12,659,203, or 33 per cent are engaged in agriculture. There are 5,865,000 farm operators in the nation and they employ 5,975,030 laborers.

WHAT DEUTERONOMY SAYS

Senator Tillman might have shown poor taste in twitting Governor Blease. We do not admire the spirit that would rub salt in wounds, even though that be done in a reciprocal manner. But the Senator's joke was quite keen at that. Here is Deuteronomy 23:15, to which the senator referred:

"But Jeshurun waxed fat and wicked; thou art waxen fat, thou art grown thick; thou art covered with fatness; then he forsok God, which made him and lightly esteemed the Rock of His Salvation"

The senator must have been hunting for that passage quite awhile

COMMERCIAL SCHOOLS

A report issued by the Federal Bureau of Education shows that there are three commercial schools and business colleges in South Carolina. The 1913 enrollment was 475 pupils. It is estimated that more than half this number completed commercial courses and a large number are now employed in South Carolina business institutions.

In the entire nation there are 618 business colleges and commercial schools, and they accommodate 160,557 students annually. This is an average attendance of 260 pupils per school.

Some of the so-called commercial schools are fakes, nothing but fakes, but in Anderson the Cecil school is conducted by Christian gentlemen, and the institution is an asset to the community.

COTTON HOLDING PLAN

That is an impressive advertisement which the Standard Warehouse Company carries today. This concern tells the farmers how to store their cotton and get a loan. The historical statement made by the company is indeed interesting and no doubt furnishes a parallel. The farmer who is able to or is enabled to hold his cotton may later on double the price he will get for it.

How long will the war last? Too long if it goes on one minute longer.

WHEN IT PAYS

We call attention to the advertisement in which is presented the letter of the Anderson Real Estate and Investment Company commending The Intelligencer as an advertising medium. Since that advertisement was put into type another farm has been sold for cash by the same company and by the time, gentle reader, that this catches your eye, another sale may have been made.

In returning the compliments of the editor, we wish to say that what The Intelligencer is a strong advertising medium, there is also something to the reliability of the persons offering something to the public. Mr. E. T. Horton and his associates are men of the highest repute and character.

Up to now, Mr. Aiken's opponent, Mr. Dominick, seems to have conducted a clean campaign. His friends say that he was not responsible for some of the things that appeared heretofore.

To some of the defeated candidates the election returns no doubt looked just like this

Special to The Intelligencer.

Columbia, Aug. 28.—On all sides the prediction was freely made in Columbia today that Richard I. Manning, of Sumter, will be the next governor of South Carolina, by a big majority. His supporters went to work in earnest this morning and the campaign will be strongly waged throughout the state.

Mr. Manning is strong in the rural districts and will no doubt receive a large vote. His leaders are very confident of election, but are appealing to all Manning's friends not to take any risks.

Frank W. Shealey and C. D. Fortner were working for the second primary. They are fighting it out for a place on the railroad commission. Shealey started in life as a section hand on the railroad, has worked on up into numerous positions of trust; has educated his brothers and sisters, and his county is proud of him.

The returns on the county races are incomplete. The indications are that not more than two Blease supporters have been elected to the state senate, out of about 25. The house will be tremendously "anti-administration."

Senator Smith today received the following telegram from Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States:

"My sincere congratulations." "Accept my heartiest congratulations," wired Senator J. P. Gore. "Congratulations from all of your associates," wired Senator John W. Kern, Democratic leader in the senate.

"My heartiest congratulations, Shake, old man," wired Senator Lee S. Overman. "Allow me to congratulate you on your victory," wired Senator Luke Lea.

John Gary Evans, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, has called the committee to meet in Columbia next Tuesday at noon in the state library to canvass the returns, declare the results and hear contests and protests.

Wyatt Aiken, representative in congress from the third district, must make a second race with F. H. Dominick. Mr. Aiken needed 510 votes to go in on the first primary.

The total vote this year was 132,200 which is about 8,000 less than the vote for governor in 1912.

As far as is known, the governor has made no comment upon the election.

John G. Richards held a long conference today with the governor. No announcement was made as to the matters discussed.

STRICT CENSORSHIP

(By Associated Press.) Paris, Aug. 28.—Forty newspaper men who gathered at the war office at 3 o'clock this afternoon for the first afternoon announcement concerning the war were informed by Captain Duval, in charge of the press bureau, that there was nothing to communicate concerning operations of the British and French armies. Captain Duval, however, informed the correspondents that the German troops were retreating in Eastern Prussia.

BOMBARDMENT CONTINUES

London, August 28.—The Germans continued to bombard Malines today, destroying or damaging most of the monuments, according to a despatch from the Ostend correspondent of the Reuter Telegram company. They have not captured the town, however.

Red Cross Aid

Newport, R. I., Aug. 28.—A fete held today and tonight at "The Breakers," the residence of Mrs. Cornelia Vanderbilt, for the benefit of the International Red Cross, is expected to net $35,000. The money is to be used for the assistance of families of men who have gone to the European war.

THE VOTE FOR SENATOR

*Complete, but unofficial.

Notes on the Election

Kelley received 3,522 votes for lieutenant governor against 2,726 for Bethea

Final returns gave Blease a majority of 165 and a plurality of 319 votes over E. D. Smith.

Blease carried Anderson by 165; Oconee by 52; Clarendon by 85; Georgetown by 40; Aiken by 120; York by 79; Pickens by 170. Total majorities for Blease, 811.

Elias Earle, one of the live wires of the Tonawille section, but a resident of Oconee, is in the second race for the house up there.

Smith received majorities over all in Abbeville, Bamberg, Barnwell, Beaufort, Berkeley, Calhoun, Charleston, Chester, Colleton, Darlington, Dillon, Dorchester, Edgefield, Fairfield, Florence, Greenville, Greenwood, Hampton, Horry, Jasper, Kershaw, Lexington, Marion, Marlboro, Newberry, Oconee, Orangeburg, Pickens, Pickens, Spartanburg and Williamsburg. Smith's majority, of 734 in the small county of Edgefield would nearly wipe out the Blease majorities in the seven counties carried by the governor.

(Chester News) I herewith enclose you copy of our letter of instructions to our rental agents covering all cotton produced by the Southern Power Co., and its affiliated interests. We have given a great deal of thought to this matter and can see no relief in sight except by the united efforts on the part of all and strict cooperation between everyone in order to keep our cotton crop from being sold below cost.

We believe that if everyone will contribute a little to help in the situation, it will soon relieve the matter. I am sending you a copy of this letter thinking it might be of some interest to you and your community. Yours very truly, Southern Power Co.

To All Retail Agents Dear Sir: In view of the unprecedented conditions of affairs in the financial and business world, over which the country has control, and the withdrawal of large foreign buyers from the cotton markets of the South which has already depressed the price of cotton, and which seems probable will further depress it unless some concentrated action is taken by the cotton growers, and to cooperate with the efforts now being made by the farmers, merchants and bankers throughout the country, as well as the United States government, to keep as much cotton off the market as possible until the present condition of affairs may adjust itself, we have adopted the following plan.

We will accept cotton from all tenants in payment of advances or cash rentals at the price prevailing at the time and place of delivery. We will then hold this cotton and will sell the same at any date between the date of delivery and February 1, 1915, at the direction of the previous owner, and will pay the advance in price, if any, over what the cotton was taken in at the previous price of the cotton to the previous owner. By this method all of our tenants will be able to get the benefit of any rise in cotton without expense to themselves and all of this cotton will be kept off the market until February 1, 1915.

We desire you to use every effort to further this plan which we think will go far towards relieving the present situation, especially if generally adopted. It is the intention of this company to hold all cotton which comes into its possession, whether received as rents or in payment for advance or by purchase, until the present conditions are relieved.

We recognize the importance to the South of obtaining a fair price for its cotton and believe that everybody's duty is to cooperate to bring this about.

The above plan will apply to the following companies: Great Falls Power Co.; Catawba Mt. & Elec. Power Co.; Wateree Power Co.; Southern Power Co.; Catawba Power Co. Yours Very Truly, W. B. Lee.
