Advertising Manager,
Anderson Intelligencer,
Anderson, S. C.

Dear Sir:-

I think it is only right that I tell you of two incidents that have occurred recently by our advertising in your paper. Yesterday a man walked into the office and said that he wanted to look at the Chamblee farm that we were cutting up West of the city. I showed it to him and sold him one of them, before I got back to the office, I asked him where he saw the advertisement and he said in The Intelligencer.

Recently we had an inquiry from Columbia about a farm and when the man came up we sold him the place. He also said he saw the advertisement in The Intelligencer.

Yours very truly,

L. S. HORTON,
First Vice President.

THE KEOWEE ROAD

L. C. Branyon Tells of Good Work in Abbeville County.

The following interesting letter from L. C. Branyon appeared in the Abbeville Press and Banner this week:

The stretch of public highway leading northwesterly from Due West to the Anderson county line now begins to look like a piece of national highway. New Grades, circling the hills of Chocomaug and Hog Skin, have been made, bridges built, and the road bed widened to thirty feet.

For nearly a hundred years the wheels of traffic have been ramming over this historic old Keowee road, but progress and civilization in our ward sweep have, for several years, called for a wider road bed and lower grades to facilitate transportation in this thrifty section of Abbeville county.

Thus it was a few days ago, this old Roman spirit of road building stumbling in the breast of Due Westerners—always ready to take a step forward in the cause of church or school or state—burst forth in this latest effort at community road building. All along the line, the movement found a ready response from other patriotic, rural Romans. Some of the progressive citizens along the line, and at the western end of the 6-mile stretch of the road building, who contributed their labor, team and money in cooperation with the liberal financial aid of $150 by the town of Due West.

Fruit, J. Walter Clump, W. D. Thomas, Hugh Simmons, R. O. Branyon, C.
H. Taylor, J. L. Branyon, Jaa Kerr, Wm. Hays, J. C. and E. K. Ashley, John McClain, L. Fowler.

Superior Stevens will complete the job when he sends the county teams and road scraps, following after the work already done.

This effort of Due West and the enthusiastic citizens of this section is highly commendable and should be an incentive to other good citizens of Abbeville county to come into line on the good roads movement. Only last week the governor of Missouri, Clemens, with 150,000 of his fellow citizens went out for a day of road building. The governor himself put on his overalls and superintended a band of 25 specialists. Some months ago, the governor, every state and county official with men of law and high degree, all over the state of Arkansas, stepped out to the highways and gave a day of hearty, good labor in the interests of humanity and of our noble dumb friends, the horse and the mule. Even the good women went out from city mansions and country homes and did the cooking, while they all met in social, civil and economic convalescence along the great highways of Arkansas.

When will some governor of South Carolina call his fellows out for road working day. I know Abbevilleans well enough to know that they would heartily respond from every section.

In our civic program it would be a great day. It would be a good day.

ENTHUSIASM FOR MANNING

(Watchman and Southron, Sumter.)

From the mountains to the sea there is tremendous enthusiasm for Richard I. Manning, and the people who stand for good government, law and order and a constructive policy for the ap-building of the state, are rejoicing over the practical certainty that he will be the next governor of the state.

He has received hundreds of letters, telegrams and long distance messages congratulating him and pledging support in the second primary. These pledges of support are coming from the supporters of all the defeated candidates, Bleasite and anti-Bleasite, as well as from those who have marched in the Manning good government column from the beginning of the campaign. Many of these promises of support on September 8th, have come from the unexpected sources and are as gratifying to Mr. Manning as surprising.

The enthusiasm for Manning indicates that the people must have recognized throughout the campaign that his experience, ability and character pre-eminently fit him for the office of the governor at this critical period of the State's history, and that they now rejoice in the opportunity to rally behind him in the campaign for good government and the final obliteration of factionalism.

But for the feeling that owing to the prominence and long recognized leadership in behalf of business, non-political and constructive administration of the State, he would be singled out for opposition and defeat by all who are opposed to these policies in government, and that consequently, he would be more difficult to place in the second primary than a less well known man, he would have led the race over all the candidates by a plurality of several thousand votes.

The result of the primary has been a revelation to many thousand voters who took counsel of their fears and voted for some other candidate rather than their personal first choice, Richard I. Manning and they are now determined to more than make up for their mistake in judgment in the first primary. The people are undoubtedly rallying to Manning, and unless the majority of sentiment in his favor begins over the portion of his supporters will be nominated over John G. Richards on September 8th by a vote of two to one.

There will be a Manning landslide in the second primary.
