The Sargasso Sea and Fertilizer.
That seaweed, even where crudely used, is a good agricultural fertilizer is a fact which has long been known to and applied, in greater or less measure, by farmers whose lands abutted on salt-water courses; while the comparatively recent development of the kelp industry, based upon the extraction of potash and iodine from marine plants, has served to arouse interest in the fertilizing possibilities of the sea and its products. Pacific ocean seaweeds, for instance, have been found to yield a minimum of 500 pounds of iodine to every ton of sun-dried kelp.

Now comes a writer in the current number of Popular Mechanics declaring that the Sargasso Sea, which he describes as a "strange marine meadow of interlaced sea plants covering a vast area in mid-Atlantic between the Antilles and Cape Verde," can be profitably used to revitalize exhausted farm lands on a large scale. "The algae and various other forms of water vegetation which abound in the Sargasso Sea are," he says, "rich in nitrogen, phosphoric acid, potassium and magnesium sulphate, essential constituents of plant life. Besides this the seaweeds contain sodium, chlorine, iodine and other materials beneficial to certain crops and cellulose in quantities estimated to be greater than obtainable from the combined forests of Scandinavia, Russia and Canada. All these salts have been washed into the sea from the land, the volume of such waste increasing annually and rapidly."

ELECTRIC CITY SPARKLETS

Items of Interest and Personal Mention Caught Over the Wires on the Streets of Anderson

Exposition Shows
On the Movie Screen
W. J. Kraft, who has been making moving pictures of Anderson, received a telegram yesterday from the South Carolina Panama Exposition committee, telling him to go to Charleston at once, instead of to Spartanburg as had been planned. This change in the route was due to the fact that Charleston has contracted for 4,000 feet of moving picture film to be shown at the exposition and this picture will include views of Charleston's many historical buildings and suburbs. Before his departure from the city Mr. Kraft said that he could personally assure Anderson of getting a splendid film. He went over the picture yesterday morning and said that there was not a flaw and he believed local people would like the film when it is shown at the local theatres in November.

Election Pledges
Are Filed Monday
Some misunderstanding seems to have arisen about the time for the candidates for office to file their expense accounts in the second race for the clerk of court. Yesterday morning several appeared at the office of the clerk of court and wanted to file their pledges until Monday and withdrew them. The rules of the party say that the pledges must be filed "when the candidate completes his campaign and before the election." Therefore it was perfectly permissible for any candidate to file his pledge yesterday, but owing to the fact that some did not understand the clause none reached the office of the clerk of court. Tomorrow will be the only day in which the candidates will have the right to file these pledges.

Baptists To Hear Visitor
Announcement has been made that Dr. E. M. Potent, president of Furman university of Greenville, will occupy the pulpit of the First Baptist church of Anderson Sunday morning. At the evening service the pulpit of the Baptist church will be filled by McNeill Potent, a son of Dr. Potent. It is probable that these two speakers will attract large congregations today.

Theatre Man Says
Plans Are Complete
E. B. Marshall, traveling manager of the American Scenery Company of Detroit, Mich., spent yesterday in Anderson concerning with the Anderson Theatre company about the scenery for the stage and other equipment for the new theatre. Mr. Marshall was enthusiastic over the plans for the new theatre and he says that Anderson's Theatre will easily be one of the best in the south. He has visited them all and he is in a position to know and he says that people living in a town the size of Anderson have every right to congratulate themselves on what they have been able to accomplish.

Miss Avery Has Returned to City
Miss Ella Avery returned to the city yesterday from Hendersonville, N. C., and Asheville, where she has been spending the summer months. Next week, Miss Avery will go to Williamston where she will again take charge of her music class for the winter. She announced yesterday that she would take the Williamston class in connection with her class in this city and will make frequent trips to Anderson and will give her pupils personal attention.

Mrs. Amy Norris
Died Yesterday
Mrs. Amy Norris, wife of C. W. Norris died yesterday morning at her home near First Creek church. Mrs. Norris has been in ill health for about a year and for the last few months no hope has been entertained for her recovery. She was a sister of Albert and Paul Crowther of Anderson and had many relatives in other parts of the county. The funeral services will take place this morning at 11 o'clock at First Creek church.

Ready for The College to Open
Thursday, September 17, will be a day of considerable importance in Anderson by reason of the fact that Anderson college will open its doors on that date for the session of 1914-15. The faculty for this session will be stronger than that it has ever been before and officials of the institution say that there is no reason why this session of the college should not make a mark for Anderson college in South Carolina. It is expected that the attendance this year will be considerably larger than that of last year.

Crowd Coming To Town Tomorrow
A number of people will come to Anderson tomorrow, since this will be the first Monday in September and, too, the fall term of the court of general sessions will convene and a number of those connected with the election Tuesday will have to come to the city to make their final arrangements for the holding of the election. Indications are that more people will be in town tomorrow than were here yesterday.

Teachers New
Drawing Pay
The scene in the office of J. B. Felton, superintendent of education, yesterday remained visitors of the winter season. During the summer no school teachers are to be seen in the office of the superintendent, but yesterday he was visited by almost as many teachers as in the middle of the winter, waiting his signature attached to their vouchers so that they could draw their pay. Mr. Felton says that he looks forward to the coming season as one of the best that the Anderson schools have ever experienced.

Says Railroads
Treat South Wrong
Before leaving the city, Mr. Kraft, who has been in Anderson making moving pictures of the city, says that the railroads of the country treat the South wrong. He says that if the railroads would do as much for the South as they have done for the other sections of the country that the Southern States and South Carolina in particular would be the garden spot of the world. Mr. Kraft says that he lives in New York but he would vastly prefer to live in this State if he could secure some property here.

Columbia Man
At the Hospital
Blondale Altman of Columbia arrived in the city Friday for a visit to his brother, Rufus Altman, and yesterday morning he became very ill. He was taken to the Anderson county hospital and it was then found that he had appendicitis. An operation was performed and last night it was said that Mr. Altman was doing nicely. He has a number of friends in Anderson and all these will regret to learn that he is ill.

Stockholders To Have Meeting Tuesday
The stockholders of the Anderson Development company will meet Tuesday at 5:30 o'clock for the purpose of ratifying the action of the officers and directors in negotiating the loan from the Old Dominion Trust company of Richmond and to authorize the signature of President Fowler and Secretary Whaley to the papers. At this meeting President Fowler will submit a report of what has been done and will outline the complete plans to the stockholders. The meeting is to be held in the rooms of the chamber of commerce.

Ladies' Guild
To Meet Monday
The ladies guild of Grace Episcopal church is to meet Monday afternoon, September 7, at the home of Mrs. E. W. Taylor on Franklin street. The meeting will be opened at 4:30 o'clock and as some business of importance is to be transacted, every member is urged to be present.

Going Back After
Absence of Years
Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Alewine of Annetville were in Anderson yesterday morning for a few hours as they were en route to Walhalla. Mr. Alewine originally came from Walhalla but he has not been to that place in 66 years and he says that he is going back to see if the people he once knew are still living in Walhalla. He says that he expects to enjoy his stay in his old home but he will be mighty glad to get back to Anderson.

The Overland Is Growing Popular
Dr. J. Lewis Sanders yesterday purchased one of the new model Overland automobiles, from the Piedmont garage. The new car which Dr. Sanders has is one of the prettiest that automobile owners of this city have seen and it aroused considerable comment around town. The Piedmont garage recently assumed the agency in Anderson for this car and they say that they are well pleased with their sales so far.

Lemon Was In Evidence
Mr. John G. Richards, candidate for governor, has been campaigning in this county and made a speech to a good sized crowd Saturday afternoon from the rear porch of the court house. Mr. Richards spoke for about 45 minutes. He was very hoarse and sucked a lemon occasionally.

Fistful During
Public Speaking
While the candidates for governor were speaking from the court house steps yesterday afternoon, a difficulty arose between William P. Drennan, detective for Anderson county and Bailey Wyatt, an insurance man of the city. Report has it that Drennan applied a vile epithet to Wyatt, whereupon the latter struck him in the face. A lively row ensued and for a time it appeared that a free-for-all fracas might occur, but happily this was avoided. It was said last night at the police headquarters that a case would be docketed against both the combatants.

WILL CARRY ALL BUT FOUR COUNTIES

Columbia, Sept. 5.—The Manning headquarters tonight received final reports and confirmatory messages from every county in the State on the vote in the second primary. The reports indicate a Manning landslide and that everyone is anxious to get on the Manning bandwagon. Checking and re-checking the figures indicate that Manning will receive a majority of at least 25,000 votes on the basis of 121,000 votes cast. The reports indicate that Manning will carry forty of the forty-four counties, but the Manning headquarters have allowed Mr. Manning's opponent to carry as many as ten counties and say that even then Mr. Manning will carry the state by 20,000. It is merely a question of how big Mr. Manning's majority will be.

To the Eight on the Anxious Bench:

In reply to the statement of the eight applicants for the Anderson postoffice, I have to say:

Mr. Aiken stated in substance at Pickens that there were fourteen or fifteen applications and he would be foolish to appoint one before the primary and have the others fighting him.

If the fourteen or fifteen will get together, as originally stated by me, and "show their letters" to and from Aiken of his secretary, and make statement under oath that all of the letters are placed in evidence, and that no promises have been made and no assurances given, and all that has been done by each, is to file the petitions and leave to Mr. Aiken to decide "upon our merits," and that the matter has been left entirely to Mr. Aiken "to be governed solely by the test of fitness," upon receipt of draft from Anderson College and the First Baptist School, with the letters attached, drafts will be honored.

A word to those of you who sign this letter: Even in the event of Mr. Aiken's election only one of you can be appointed and the others will be disappointed. And in the event of my defeat, which is not at all probable, let me hear from you, the eight, who have signed this letter whether any of you have been "doublecrossed" by Mr. Aiken and his friends and "stringpullers" or others authorized to speak for him.

What has Aiken done for Anderson?

FRED H. DOMINICK.
