Fifteen Great Results Made Easier By Using the Cole One-Horse Grain Drill.

- 1 You get your grain sowed early in cotton and corn fields. 2 You save seven-eighths of the labor required to break lands and sow grain. 3 You get a larger yield and a sure crop. No winter-killed grain. 4 You get two crops from land that has been producing only one. 5 Your land gets the benefit of a winter cover-crop, which retards washing and leaching of the soil by winter rains. 6 The grain stubble and roots add humus to your soil. 7 Having been sowed early in the fall you get the grain off early and follow with peas or corn. 8 The peas gather nitrogen from the air worth many dollars per acre and also add more humus to your soil. 9 Plenty of oats and peavine hay make it possible to keep more and better stock. 10 More stock means more money and better living at home. 11 More stock also means more barnyard manure, thus adding fertility, humus, and crop-making bacteria to your soil. 12 Peas come off the land in time to do deep plowing at the right time—late summer or early fall. 13 More humus and deep fall plowing make crops stand dry weather or wet weather better than before. 14 More humus, more barnyard manure, and fall plowing improve the nature of the soil and makes it easier and cheaper to cultivate. 15 Having part of the land in grain and peas leaves less land to be cultivated, so you can cultivate it better and put twice as much fertilizer per acre in half the time.

GET A COLE DRILL and follow out this plan of farming and rotation of crops and in a short time you should be making more cotton and corn on half your land than you are now making by cultivating all of it in these crops. Be sure to get the genuine Cole Drill. Do not let anyone put off on you any of the cheaply made and fraudulent imitations. Watch this space and learn what Anderson County farmers have to say as to the merits of these Drills.

COURT IN SESSION

Claude Poore Will Be Arraigned Thursday to Answer for Killing of Kelly

As a result of the work accomplished in the court of general sessions, Judge Robert W. Memminger presiding, the grand jury for Anderson county yesterday returned 15 true bills, no bill in one case and the court heard two pleas of guilty. Court convened at 10:30 o'clock and was adjourned at 4:30 o'clock, these changes being due to the fact that yesterday was election day.

Judge Memminger did not make any charge to the grand jury of a formal nature. He merely asked that today's duties and told the foreman that additional information would be given provided the body requested same.

Ed Collins, charged with selling liquor, entered a plea of guilty and was sentenced to serve three months or pay a fine of $100.

Jack Sanders entered a plea of guilty to the charge of housebreaking and larceny and was sentenced to serve on the public works of the county for 15 months.

In the case of Arthur Colyer, charged with murder, the grand jury returned no bill. This case was where two little boys were playing together when a girl was discharged and it seemed to be a accident.

The following list of the true bills returned: Oa Bozman, charged with murder. Ulysses Davis, charged with murder.

W. R. Harris, charged with murder. Claude Poore, charged with murder.

J. A. Brock, charged with assault and battery with intent to kill, carrying concealed weapons and pointing a pistol.

T. Williams, charged with arson. Ed Collins, charged with violating the dispensary law.

Albert Sharpling, charged with housebreaking and larceny. Albert Sharpling, charged with burglary and larceny.

Floyd Gambrell, charged with housebreaking and larceny. Owen Williams, charged with larceny from the house and receiving stolen goods.

Frank Spencer, Robert Huggins, and DeVant Wilson, charged with housebreaking and larceny.

Owing to the fact that portions of the testimony offered in these cases by detectives was discredited, Solicitor Smith entered a nolle prosequi in the following cases where the defendants were charged with selling liquor: J. J. Forster, J. M. Heatherly, Will Wilson, Dan Hollingsworth, Reuben Johnson, Tillman Miller, Gabe Simpson, Louis Hamilton, Gaines Hollison, Bert Compton, Charles Lewis and E. C. Pepper.

Solicitor Kurt P. Smith announced yesterday afternoon that the first case to be called this morning will be that against Will Belcher, charged with murder. The solicitor also announced that he had the case of Claude Poore, charged with murder, for trial Thursday of this week. It will be remembered that Poore, while a policeman at Williamston, shot and killed a man named Kelly in that place, which case will probably be the most interesting to be tried at this term of the court of general sessions.

THROWN FROM MACHINE NEAR GEORGIA TOWN

SPARTAN PEOPLE HAD AN ACCIDENT

IN HARTWELL, GA.

Dr. Rigby, Trying to Avoid Collision With Wagon Threw Occupants From His Car

People coming to Anderson yesterday from Hartwell, Ga., told an interesting story Saturday afternoon. Happily a terrible accident which occurred in the affair did not turn out as badly as the Hartwell folks at first feared but they said yesterday that for a few minutes they thought that two young ladies had been killed outright. Miss Ola Bush, a popular young lady of Spartanburg, and her cousin, Miss Lela Wood, of Texas, were painfully though not seriously injured Saturday afternoon when they were precipitated from the automobile of Dr. I. A. Rigby, at Hartwell, while the party was en route from Atlanta to Hartwell. Miss Bush suffered an injury to an elbow, Miss Wood received slight lacerations to the scalp.

LOCAL BOTTLERS SEND LETTER TO SENATORS

REGARDING SOFT DRINK TAX

ARE AGAINST IT

Point Out in Communication Sent To Washington That It Would Be Unjust and Work Hardship

Anderson county bottlers and those gentlemen engaged in this county in the enterprise of manufacturing soft drinks have become much aroused over the fact that congress is considering the matter of placing a tax on all soft drinks and bottlers of that commodity. The dealers in Anderson yesterday were busy in mailing out letters to the congressmen and senators in Washington with whom they are personally acquainted. They mailed dozens of these letters during the day and they believe that the Anderson letters will get some results. These letters were sent to Hoke Smith, T. W. Hardwick and a number of other prominent southerners. The following is a copy:

"The papers have been publishing stories to the effect that congressional action is contemplated looking to the imposition of a tax on soda water for the purpose of helping out the loss of revenue caused by the war in Europe; and it is in this regard that I write you this letter. A tax of one-eighth of a cent per bottle has been mentioned, and I say to you in all fairness that the imposition of this amount would be confiscatory on the bottling business if the bottle was compelled to bear it, and would be paid by the small merchant if the bottle was compelled to raise the price. Another thing: the standard package of bottled soda water is a crate of 2 dozen bottles. If the bottle can realize a net profit of 10c per crate on his product, he is making about the maximum profit. You can readily see what percentage of the bottle's small profit such a tax would take; and this following his increased cost of production caused by the advance in the price of sugar and other items which are necessary to him in the production of his goods.

"Bottled soda water is usually sold to the poor man, as you know, to the cotton mill employes and the farmer and laboring man, who ordinarily do not patronize the marble soda fountains, yet they are engaged in one branch of the soda water business; and if the bottler of soda water was subjected to this tax and the fountain owner exempted, it would result in a most unjust discrimination.

"Another point is this: The bottling business is perhaps further advanced developed in the South than in any other section of the country; owing to the longer season—and the imposition of this tax would result in a much higher proportion of it to be sold by the people of the south than by those of the north and west. I feel quite sure you will subject all this legislation to your usual close scrutiny, and am writing this in the hope that I may be able to call your attention to some of the probable results of the tax which might not occur to you."

precipitated from the automobile of Dr. I. A. Rigby, at Hartwell, while the party was en route from Atlanta to Hartwell. Miss Bush suffered an injury to an elbow, Miss Wood received slight lacerations to the scalp.

The automobile party, consisting of Dr. I. A. Rigby, Mrs. Rigby, Miss Bush and Miss Wood left Atlanta Saturday afternoon. At Hartwell, near Anderson, Dr. Rigby was steering his car at about fifteen miles an hour when a 7-year-old boy started across the road from behind a farm wagon. Approaching the danger at very close range, Dr. Rigby attempted to drive past the boy. Taking this course, a jam into a high embankment was inevitable. With quick presence of mind the driver decided to make a double turn in the effort to avoid both the boy and the embankment. As the result of the double turn with reverse speed, the young ladies in the rear of the car were unable to control it. It lurched and they were thrown out of the side of the car. They were badly shaken up. The boy was struck near the ankle and thrown to the ground. Three physicians, who arrived, treated the injured ones, and advised that no bones were broken. The sheriff, chief of police and many citizens of Hartwell, a town of 2,500 people, arrived at the scene of the accident. A thorough investigation was made and subsequently Dr. Rigby was exonerated of any blame in the matter.

HANDSOME HOME WAS BURNED YESTERDAY

MISS ESSI CLINKSCALES SUFFERED LOSS

INCENDIARY FIRE?

Home Valued at About $5,000 Burned to Ground—Insurance of About $3,000 on Building

The handsome home of Miss Essie Clinkscates in Martin township was entirely destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The fire occurred between 5 and 6 o'clock and while breakfast was being prepared. Miss Clinkscates had already arisen before the blaze was discovered.

When the blaze was discovered Miss Clinkscates gave the alarm and succeeded in summoning several of her neighbors, as a result of which much of the fine furniture in the house was saved, although a quantity of furniture stored in the second story of the house was lost. The house was valued at approximately $5,000 but it is understood that the owner carried insurance of $3,000 on the building. The house was a large brick building, two stories, and was one of the nicest in the neighborhood.

Mrs. Clinkscates is of the opinion that the fire was incendiary origin. She says that she distinctly remembers closing and locking the door last night when she retired and when she awoke this morning she found the front door open. The fire could not have started from a fire as it seems to have originated in a closet, removed from any proximity to a chimney or flue. Miss Clinkscates is convinced that some one forced open the front door during the night, knowing that she and her cook were the only people in the house.

One reason why it was possible to save so much of the furniture was that Miss Clinkscates had prepared to move to Anderson to make her home and had everything packed up preparatory to moving to town Wednesday. She had rented her place to a Mr. McDonald and he was to take charge Wednesday. In all probability the matter will be referred to the Anderson county officers and they will be asked to make an investigation, in an effort to determine whether the fire was of incendiary origin.

A BOY WAS KILLED BY OLDER BROTHER

THOUGHT SHOT GUN WAS UNLOADED

AT WILLIAMSTON

Jesse Kelly, Nine Years of Age, Fired Shot Gun Yesterday and Killed Little Boy Instantly

One of the saddest tragedies ever enacted in Anderson county took place yesterday at Williamston at 12 o'clock when Jesse Kelly, nine years of age, pulled the trigger of a shot gun, instantly killing his younger brother, Raymond Kelly, five years of age.

The two little boys had been in the cotton field during the morning and when some time arrived they came to the house and both got down on the porch. In some manner they managed to get their father's shot gun off the wall and began to play with it. The little fellow having hold of the muzzle while his brother grasped the stock. The older boy thought that the gun was unloaded and he pulled the trigger. The gun fired, the entire load of shot striking the baby in the mouth and killing him instantly. The little fellow's mouth and face were terribly mangled and torn.

As soon as the affair took place Dr. Lester was summoned and he in turn telephoned for Coroner Hardin to come to the scene. Mr. Hardin went to Williamston and finally succeeded in getting the boy to talk about the affair and to tell how it happened. After hearing the facts stated the coroner concluded that no inquest would be necessary, since it was clearly another case of the "unloaded gun." The father of the two little boys is Robert Kelley and he lives on the plantation of M. C. Manvey, which is just about one-quarter mile from the business district of Williamston. The baby will be buried today at Williamston.

ANDERSON PEOPLE TO HEAR SOME BAD NEWS

BEGIN NOW TO PREPARE IN TIME

THE COLD COMING

Columbia Weather Prophet Has Issued Forecast That Winter Will Be "The Worst Ever"

How Anderson people are going to buy coal this winter at $5.00 and $6 per ton when a dollar will be as scarce as the proverbial hen's teeth remains to be seen but if William Houzeal, the Dutch weather prophet of Columbia knows his business, then coal will have to be bought and lots of it. Mr. Houzeal has made more correct prognostications than any other weather man in the state. Read what he says of the coming winter: "The weather forecast for the winter of 1914-15 includes low temperatures, according to my observations. The prevailing course of the currents also indicate that my predictions of no equinoctial tornadoes during this season will be fulfilled.

"A large area of precipitation will be centered around September 22, but it will originate in the southwest, together with a similar disturbance in the northwest, and both move in a northwesterly direction across and beyond the Alleghanies, with a portion of it curved by the Blue Ridge from its center and thus effect to some extent the South Atlantic states. "The period of cold winters is now returning in its usual order. It is noticeable that cold winters usually form a group with mild temperatures intermingled in intervening years while the group is forming. "The winter of 1914-15 will mark such a returning to conditions which prevailed during the period of 1884-86, with the intervening warmer winters following, which then led to the climax in 1889, when lower temperatures were recorded than had prevailed in a century.

"Thus it is seen that no less than seven snows will cross the Blue Ridge this winter. All of these snows may not visit South Carolina. This statement is made in explanation of the fact that our winter conditions are controlled by the kind of treatment the Blue Ridge mountains give the storm centers which come out of the northwest. "The winter of December 29 will no doubt bring one or more of these snows. The indications are that a number of these snows will be phenomenal in size and extent. "Cool temperatures centering around September 12 will be repeated October 12-15, with frost which will be quite severe north of and along the Blue Ridge. Killing frosts will occur November 12—this date being central as always indicated in these forecasts. "I desire to say in this connection that the weather conditions of 1914-15 should make it one of the most favorable seasons for the production of grain crops. I hope the farmers will heed the advice which is being given by W. W. Long, the government farm demonstration agent, and sow large areas of oats, wheat and rye. This course will tide them over a critical period which has been produced by the European war. If they will do so, they will save themselves from threatened disaster and preserve themselves for the ware of prosperity which is bound to succeed the war."

BELTON SCHOOL OPENS

High School Opens Under Promising Conditions. Special to the Intelligencer. Belton, Sept. 8.—The Belton High school opened on Monday morning, Sept. 8, under most promising conditions. The opening exercises were conducted by Prof. J. B. Watkins, superintendent of the school. "The first number on the program was a song, America, by the whole school. This was followed by an address by Prof. Watkins. I. B. Bick made a short address and he was followed by three former students of the Belton High School, viz., Barnore Gambrell, George Cox and Sydney Gambrell. These all made talks which were thoroughly appreciated by the large crowd of friends and patrons of the school who had gathered to welcome both the teachers and pupils. "The grades were all assembled in the rooms next and all of the teachers were in their places and all found their rooms full—not an empty seat in most of the rooms. This speaks well for both children and parents and everyone looks forward to this year as one of the brightest the school has ever known. With the hearty cooperation from the parents the first may indicate there will be nothing to stand in the way of these splendid teachers and success.

J. L. ADAMS IS NEW DEPUTY FOR DISTRICT

OFFICE DEPUTIES SUCCEED FIELD MEN

REVENUE SERVICE

Greenville District, Which Includes Anderson County, Under a New Officer

It is understood in Anderson that the changes made in the last week in the revenue service in this state will result in Anderson and vicinity being in charge of J. L. Adams, recently appointed office deputy by J. L. Sims, of Orangeburg, marshal for South Carolina. Anderson is in the Greenville district.

In order to do away with the fee system, United States Marshal J. L. Sims, in compliance with orders received from the attorney general, has appointed office deputies to supplant the twelve field deputies in the state. Mr. E. F. Harrison, with headquarters at Florence; William Cooper, with headquarters at Columbia; and J. Waring Simons, with headquarters at Charleston, are the new men appointed. Mr. J. L. Adams, an employee of the Charleston office, was transferred to Greenville. These appointments will have to be confirmed by the attorney general before they become permanent. The men, however, took up their duties at their places the first of this month. "The officers which will be in charge of these office deputies are as follows: Greenville district, in charge of J. L. Adams, comprise the following counties: Pickens, Greenville, Anderson and Oconee. Spartanburg district, in charge of E. F. Harrison, is composed of Laurens, Abbeville, Cherokee, Spartanburg, Greenwood, Chester, Union and York counties. W. F. Roper will have charge of the following counties: Georgetown, Williamsburg, Florence, Marlboro, Horry, Marion, Dillon, M. Myrtle, Sumter, Chesterfield, Darlington, and Lee.

The following counties comprise the district which will be in charge of William Cooper: Newberry, Orangeburg, Bamberg, Barnwell, Calhoun, Lexington, Richland, Alcon, Edgefield, Saluda, Fairfield, Lancaster and Kershaw.

J. Waring Simons will have charge of the Charleston district, which is comprised of Charleston, Colleton, Beaufort, Hampton, Berkeley and Dorchester.

Heretofore all business coming under this jurisdiction was conducted by the field deputies who received fees for all work done, but under the new system the fee system has been abolished and the office deputies receive a regular salary.
