WOMAN'S WAY

By MARJORIE CLOUGH

The ladies of Ringwood, having decided to establish an orphan asylum, met for the purpose and organized. Then they appointed various committees and adjourned for one week, when they came together again to hear the reports. All committees reported favorable results except the committee appointed to rent a house for the asylum.

"The only place large enough for the purpose," reported Mrs. Imogen Brainard, chairman of the committee, "and with grounds such as we must have is the Canfield property. It has been vacant for two years, but has just been taken by a men's literary club, to be called the Goldsmith. Unfortunately a lease was signed by the owner and by the officers of the club only yesterday."

"Perhaps," said mild mannered Miss Blanding, "if the gentlemen of the club knew that we wanted it for the dear children they would."

"Hold on to it," Mrs. Jimber continued, "just as tenaciously as they would if we wanted it for any other purpose. Far be it from me to become a suppliant to them. I prefer a heroic method. I move that a committee be appointed to go to them and demand that they give up the property to us."

The motion was carried, and Mrs. Jimber, Miss Bates and Miss Blanding were appointed on the committee, Mrs. Jimber being chairman.

The three members of the Goldsmith club's committee on house consisted of Mr. Flint, Mr. Downing and Mr. Fairweather. Mr. Flint was among men what Mrs. Jimber was among women. When the asylum committee called upon him to give up to them the Canfield property he replied with an emphatic "No!" Messrs. Downing and Fairweather, though sympathizing with him in retaining the place for the club, could not but feel that Miss Bates and Miss Blanding, who were comely, looked upon the refusal as extremely un-gallant.

Mrs. Jimber issued a request that the members of the club meet, march to the property in dispute, take possession of it and hold it. Mr. Flint got wind of the movement and barred all the doors and windows.

This made a deadlock for both clubs. The men knew that if they opened the house the women would take possession, and so long as it was locked up it could not be used either for a club or an orphan asylum. There was a meeting of the women's committee to take measures for further procedure. Mrs. Jimber was in favor of proposing that every woman interested in the asylum cut every member of the club. Her colleagues did not agree with her as to the effectiveness of this measure. Then the chairman suggested that they use militant methods, threatening to destroy the property. But it was pointed out to her that the club was not the owner of it and might prefer to see it ruined rather than be forced to give it up. Then Mrs. Jimber lost her temper and told the other two members of the committee that she would have nothing more to do with the matter.

One day Miss Bates heard that Mr. Flint had been called away. She wrote a note to Mr. Downing stating that a majority of the asylum committee would be pleased to see the club's committee that evening at her house for the purpose of making a proposition that would, she thought, be satisfactory to the men and end the deadlock upon the property in dispute.

Since Mr. Flint was away and Mrs. Jimber would have nothing more to do with the matter the interview was between Mr. Downing and Mr. Fairweather on the one part and Miss Bates and Miss Blanding on the other. The two men, both of whom were bachelors, went to the place of meeting together, each hoping to carry what was expected to be some money on the part of the women and do it without wounding their feelings.

Mrs. Bates, by way of smoothing the way, she said, proposed a game of cards, and before it was finished a maid brought in refreshments. After that Mr. Downing paired with Miss Bates and Mr. Fairweather with Miss Blanding. Each gentleman was feeling very comfortable and very happy when Miss Bates whispered to Miss Blanding:

"I have named a price at which Mr. Downing will recognize that the club let us have the Canfield property. I have served to give him a kiss before both clubs assembled when we take possession. It has accepted. See if you can get the same terms from Mr. Fairweather."

Miss Blanding succeeded in securing the terms, both men thinking the matter a bluff. As soon as the ladies had effected the arrangement they declared the conference ended.

The next evening the two committees received a note addressed to them by their entertainers of the night before stating that they would be on the steps of the Canfield property the next afternoon ready to keep their contract.

The men now began to consider the position they were in. If the women had the Canfield property they would have a club of draft men and not. They made up a statement giving the history of the case, why the Canfield property was not given to the women, and why the Canfield property was not given to the men.

WORLD'S CHAMPS.

Philadelphia, Sept. 28.—Now that the Philadelphia American league baseball team has clinched the championship of that organization, officials of the club are making active preparations for the world's series. The victory of the Athletics in the American league race gives Connie Mack his seventh championship, a new major league record. Under his tutelage the Athletics won the league pennants in 1903, 1909, 1910, 1911 and 1912 and in the last three years they also captured the world's championship. The national commission will hold a meeting here Wednesday to make final arrangements for the world's series, the first game of which, probably will be played on either October 5 or 9.

Hergoz Suspended.

Philadelphia, Sept. 28.—C. L. Hergoz, manager of the Cincinnati Nationals, was indefinitely suspended today because of an "insulting telegram" received from him at the executive office of the league. President Tamm stated that Hergoz will remain under suspension until he has made a suitable apology.

BASEBALL DOPE

Red Smith, Anderson's former star third baseman, is now playing wonderful ball with the Boston Nationals under George Stallage, the Augustus boy. Red got a hit and a run yesterday, and made the play that retired Chicago with two out and the bases full in the ninth inning.

Rube Benton pitched his last game of the season yesterday, beating Philadelphia.

Baltimore went into fifth place yesterday in the National.

New York took two from Pittsburgh, Decatur pitched his first and May...

Acute Indigestion.

"I was annoyed for over one year by attacks of acute indigestion, followed by constipation," writes Mrs. M. J. Gallagher, Geneva, N. Y. "I tried everything that was recommended to me for the cure, but nothing did me much good until about four months ago I saw Chamberlain's Tablets advertised and procured a bottle of them from our druggist. I soon realized that I had gotten the right thing for they helped me at once. Since taking two bottles of them I can eat heartily without any bad effects." Sold by all dealers.

CARD OF THANKS

I desire to thank the people of Pelee for the loving kindness to my dear brother during his short illness and his death. May God bless each one in my prayer.
