Clemson College urges the farmers in all parts of South Carolina to put a considerable part of their land in Oats this Fall.

Mr. W. L. Hutchinson, professor of Agronomy of Clemson College, states that the climate and soils of this State are well suited to oats. They are adapted to a wide range of soils and good yields may be had on lands varying from sandy to heavy clay loams. The crop may be harvested for grain and cut for hay and sown in the Fall is ready for harvest the latter part of the following May or the first of June.

Oats may follow cow peas, corn and cotton, so that practically all the farm is available for an oat crop, if desired, and there will still be time left next year for all Summer crops. Buy your

BIG CIRCUS PARADE HAS MANY NEW FEATURES

Zebra Team and Some of the Elephants in Ringling Bros. Street Pageant.

The street parades given by Ringling Brothers have for years had the reputation of being the finest of their kind ever seen. Yet it is said that this season's pageant eclipses all precedents. A large portion of it has been prepared especially for the children. This section claims fully a third of the three-mile long parade and in it are all manner of fantastical floats carrying tableaux which picture the best loved of the stories told in the rhymes of Mother Goose, the tales of Andersen and Grimm and the wonderful Arabian Nights. Here fairyland is pictured at its brightest and contrasted with it are the antics of dozens of funny clowns who ride in queer carts drawn by kicking mules, astride pigs and donkeys, or at the top of red and golden wagons.

Nearly 1,200 people appear in the line of march. They have been gathered from the nations of Europe and Asia and the remotest of savage lands.

The characteristic music of these many people is presented by great brass bands, quaint pipers, sirens, pipe-organs, cantanet ballets, barbarian and calliope. Over 700 horses of the finest breed will be seen together with more than half the elephants in America. A bigger menagerie than any other show owns will be displayed in open cages. Distinct novelties will be found in a team of sixteen camels hitched like horses to a huge tableau car, and a group of zebras in complete harness.

Ringling Brothers are to exhibit here Thursday, October 8. In addition to a zoo numbering 1,000 wild animals and their regular scenic program, these famous showmen are this season presenting the superb newly added spectacle of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, a gigantic production including a cast of 1,250 characters and a ballet of 300 dancing girls.

Secne Under New Bridge

Shortly after the heavy rain fell a few days ago a reporter for the Intelligencer stood on the new concrete bridge, now being built across Main street, and anxiously looked down into the railroad cut, fearing that some of the track might be washed away by the torrents of water. Lo and behold, imagine his surprise, when a tousled head and a pair of wildly waving arms passed in review under the bridge. The reporter seized his trusty pencil and with a few frantic strokes succeeded in getting a picture of what he saw and so it is passed on for the benefit of Intelligencer readers.

BARNES NOTES

Barnes, Sept. 28.—Not long ago Barnes notes contained an item that said that a citizen of this place had 13 dogs, and the next day after that issue, a gentleman living several miles distant, drove into his yard, and said that he was looking for the man with the 13 dogs. When we found Mr. Mauldin he said that he had sold four to be shipped to or near Georgetown, and that four others had been sold to parties around Barnes.

One day last week I wrote an item which read like this: "Say, mister, if you haven't bought your bale of cotton, I will sell you mine." And before I got it mailed I received a letter offering me 10 cts. for a bale of cotton.

Little Misses Vessell and Melva McCarty of Anderson, R. F. D. were here recently at the home of S. A. Morgan.

Mr. B. B. Evans has bought a farm near this place known as the D. M. Martin place. The purchase price was $20 an acre.

Mrs. John M. Brown is at home, having spent several days in Williamston with friends and relatives.

Mrs. E. R. Bond is at home, having spent several weeks at Anderson. A little child of Mr. and Mrs. P. L. Burdett of Iva, was interred in the cemetery here on the 26th instant.

On the 18th the remains of Mrs. Corner Ogmont was laid to rest here appropriate services by Rev. H. W. Stone, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and sympathizing friends.

Mrs. Ozmont went to Baltimore last January and underwent an operation and for a time it was thought that she would regain her usual health, but this hope was of short duration, as other troubles developed and she gradually grew worse until death released her spirit from its body of clay. She was a christian woman with many excellent qualities, and her influence will long be felt. Her husband and children have the sympathy of the entire community.

Got Missing Figures

THE General Manager was presenting plans for an extension of the factory to the company's directors at Detroit. He found that he had left an estimate sheet in his desk at the factory. He called up the factory on the Bell Long Distance Telephone. His assistant read the figures to him and the directors were able to act without delay.

Annoying delays are avoided by the use of the Bell Telephone.
