SIX AND TWENTY

Williamston, Oct. i—(Speciai)—
We have heard several say that a light
frost was visible in several places
last Saturday and Sunday mornings,
Every paper one picks op is full to overflowing with advice to the farmers to hold his cotton and not put it nouncement:

"The Anderson Daily Intelligencer
Wishes to adnounce that Mr. W. W.
Smoak, who was business manager,
has been chosen editor to succeed
Mr. Wm. Banks, who resigns to acon the market while the price is low, but the greatest thing is still to be brought forward. That is a plan whereby they can held it. Ninebrought cept an important position with the State department of agriculture, Mr. Smoak will also be business man-ager. This change becomes effective tenths of the cotton made is made by the poor man. Now the question: The poor man owes the land-lord, the mercaant and the fertilizer dealer. To live and keep their business going they are obliged to collect what ager. This change becomes effective October ist."

We regret that Mr. Banks has decided to leave the newspaper field in which he has labored for so many years, but we hope that the change is for his welfare and that his work will be lighter and his pay-roll heavler. Mr. anks is a forceful writer and his retirement is a decided loss to the newspaper profession of this State.—Newberry Engled and News. the poor man owes them. How is the poor man to pay what he owes without selling his cotton? Now, our advice to the farmer is this: Go ahead and do the best you can for we are certainly catching what Sherman said was is.

Anderson Griffith and "Bus" Link two of our most popular young men, are getting to be the whole show, they having recently made a very pleasant trip down near Columbia for the parpose of seeing two "pet dears." Next trip they make they say that they intend bringing the "pets" back with them provided they agree. William Banks, editor of the Anderson Intelligencer, has decided to give up newspaper work and go with the state department of Agriculture, commerce and industries. He will do clerical and inspection field work under the direct supervision of Col. E. and they are planning an ther trio der the direct supervision of Col. E. J. Watson, the commissioner. Mr. Banks will commence his new duties as soon as he can be relieved of the editorship of The Intelligencer.

Fohert Richey was at Six and Twenty last Sanday with a new suit on. No news in that. Valt Mr. Richie is one of our most prominent and successful farmers, and loss at home and boards at the lame pace. Only a few weeks ago he ast . Itet year and this is the first time in his year and this is the first time in his life to purchase an entire suit of "store clothes." Who can beat it.

The many triends of Mr. W. C. Mullinax, better known as "Uncle Dock." will be grieved to learn of his death at his home near McHimoyle last Saturday morning. Mr. Mullinax was a good man, loved and respected by all who knew him. He was a faithful soldier for the lost cause, was a prominent Maron and a member of Sharon M. E. church, at which place the remains were interred Sunday afternoon. Pendicton lodge of Masons had charge of the burfalfered him and he accepted.—Columbia Record.

William Banks is a newspaper man of large experience, and Col. Watson feels that he has secured a valuable man for the department of agriculture. Mr. Banks began his first active work on a daily newspaper under Col. Watson, when the latter was city editor of The Starr before the Spanish-American war.

Masons had charge of the burial.

Prof. Marrett, of Westminister, who has been elected principal of Melton school for the coming session, was a visitor here Saturday and Sunday.

Every member of the church at this place who can possibly do so is requested to be at the church Saturday afternoon for the purpose of electing a pastor for another year. Services will begin at 2 o'clock.

The many friends of E. M. Stone, a former resident of this section, but now of Central, are glad to know he is now fast recovering from a severense of typhold lever.

R. L. Eirod and S. L. Richev have rented a store room at Frankville and opened up a meat market and barber shop. We wish the boys much success.
