ANDERSON IS NOT TO PAVE STREETS

By reason of the fact that the South Carolina House of Representatives killed the bill Friday, permitting the City of Anderson to increase her bonded indebtedness from 8 per cent of the taxable property to 15 per cent, there will probably be no street paving done in Anderson at an early date. Anderson people had been hoping that the bill might get through the General Assembly and that the work could be begun early next spring. Senator Sullivan had the matter in charge in the Senate and got the bill through but when it reached the lower house a snag was struck. Some of the Anderson delegation opposed the idea and refused to support the bill and notwithstanding the fact that it has been dragging along in the House for several weeks, no vote was secured until Friday. The measure was then called and while only six votes were cast against it, yet this was sufficient to defeat the bill. The explanation of this lies in the fact that the bill was an amendment to the State Constitution and therefore required a two-thirds majority in the House. The recent filibuster served to get two things in the lower house into such disorder and so many members were absent from the house when the bill came up for a vote that it was impossible to secure the necessary majority. Messrs. Nelson, Hall and Scott voted for the bill, Mr. Gray did not vote and Messrs. Ashley and Summers voted against the bill.

Had the bill gone through something like $300,000 would have been turned loose in Anderson early next Spring and hundreds of laboring people, who may be out of positions by that time, would have been given work to do.

It is understood that Governor Blease was opposed to the city of Anderson being given any help in this matter and one gentleman, present when the conference was held with the chief executive, said that he declined to a delegation consisting of Messrs. C. E. Tolley, Solicitor Curtis P. Smith and Mayor Godfrey, on the day before the special session of the general assembly contended that the city of Anderson would not get anything from him as long as he remained governor of South Carolina. He declared that the people of that city had no reason for treating his brother-in-law, Mr. Summers, as they did in his race for state senator, and for this reason he intended to use his influence with Mr. Summers against giving his support to the Anderson measure. The Governor declared also that if the measure passed the general assembly he would veto it; that he did not intend to let Anderson get anything if he could help it. He stated that this did not apply to the county of Anderson; that the county could get anything it wanted.

Imperial Musical Comedy Company, Carrying Eleven People, Here This Week.

The attractions for this week at the Palmetto will even surpass those of the past week, and Mr. Pinkston recommends the "Imperial Musical Comedy company" to the lovers of high class vaudeville. This company carries 11 people and elaborate costumes. Their opening play on Monday will be "My Wife Has Gone to the Country." Tuesday night they will present "Pin-a-fee," and later in the week, "Papa Many Babies." There will be a change of program every night and every number new and entertaining. The best of films will be shown.

These for Monday night being a four reel Western comedy, "The Outlaw Reforms." An announcement that will interest the public is that Mr. Pinkston has secured the films of "America," the big Hippodrome performance now being shown to thousands of people daily in New York's greatest play house. The date for this seven film feature play will be given later, but will be about the second week in November.

She Knew.

A new drama was being rehearsed and the two women who had prominent parts were not on the most friendly terms. "In this scene," remarked the tall stately blonde, "I am supposed to leave the stage at the rear, while you stand in the front facing the audience." "What will be your cue to resume your lines?" "Why," replied the glowing brunette, without hesitation, "the look of satisfaction on the faces of the audience."—New York Times.

News Letter From Belton

The pupils of the High School gave a Halloween party at the school building on Friday evening. The auditorium was decorated with witches, black cats, bats, etc. The front door was hidden by a white curtain covered with all of these uncanny Halloween emblems and all of the guests were draped in sheets and masks. They were met back of this curtain by a ghost who conducted them, one at a time, through the long halls, dimly lighted by jack o' lanterns, to the auditorium. Lighten in the same wild way with the addition of a salt and alcohol light making the effect very fantastic. Apples were suspended over the stage, others were merrily babbling around in water and the ghosts, after unmasking, were told to try to capture these with their teeth. In a crazy corner, amid lanterns of many fancy patterns, a fortune teller was ensconced. Miss Beasie Wilson told the fortunes of the guests in a bright and cheerful way and all were delighted with their futures, as she read them from their palms.

The souvenirs of this happy occasion were little cats cut out of red card board, outlined in black and tied with black ribbons.

This was one of the most elaborate parties ever given by the pupils of the High School and will long be remembered by all who were so fortunate as to be present.

We are very sorry to chronicle the fact that Mr. H. M. Geer is not improving as his friends would like to see him do. Miss Patrick of Greenville is nursing him and everything possible is being done for his welfare, but he does not respond very readily to treatment and the family, as well as his many friends, feel very anxious about him.

Belton is resting after the fair, but for only a short time as the Woman's Missionary Society of the First Baptist church is preparing for a big bazaar after the first week in December. They will sell everything from a plain gingham cook apron to the daintiest crepe de chine boudoir cap. This will be Belton's chance for Christmas presents, all hand made without the trouble of making and will help a worthy cause too.

Orr Mill

Second Feature on Y. M. C. A. Program Will Bring Dr. Clinkscales Here Today.

The Orr Mill people declared yesterday that no more welcome speaker could have been secured for the second event on the Y. M. C. A. series of lectures than the gentleman who is to speak this afternoon—Dr. John G. Clinkscales of Spartanburg. Many people in all parts of the county know Dr. Clinkscales and he will be given a warm welcome this afternoon. The address this afternoon is to take place in the Orr Mill auditorium, over the company's store. Last Sunday about 600 people heard Prof. Daniel of Clemson college and it is believed that fully 1,000 will hear Dr. Clinkscales this afternoon. While the address has been arranged primarily for the people of Orr Mill, nevertheless the public will be heartily welcomed and many visitors from different sections of the city are expected.
