City Council To Order Election

At a special meeting of the Anderson city council, to be held Monday evening, it is probable that council will order a special election, to be held to determine the question of allowing Anderson to assess abutting property for the purpose of permanent improvements. This matter was voted on by the entire State in the recent General Election and if the property owners agree to permit the assessment, work of paving will soon be underway.

The amendment provides that the property holder on either side of the street shall pay one-fourth of the cost of the permanent improvements adjacent to their property, and that the city shall pay the remaining two-fourths. The Traction company will pay for the improvements over its tracks.

The matter of scattering the assessments through several years for collection, so that there will be no burden on the property holders, is disposed of differently in the various cities where this law is operative. Most of the cities in this section of the country fix the terms so that the property owners will have three to five years in which to complete the payment of their assessments. These deferred assessments can be used as security by the city in realizing money as the paving progresses, so the paving or other improvements can be carried on and completed, and the people can pay for the improvements later. All of these matters are to be worked out by the city council when the ordinances calling for the election is being considered.

The bond margin of the city, by next February will be something like $100,000. The amounts to be realized from the assessments on abutting property and that to come from the Traction company will aggregate another $100,000. With $200,000 in hand the city of Anderson can secure about 14 miles of standard street paving.

The State canvassers have declared the following results of the recent election: A joint resolution proposing an amendment to article 19 of the constitution by adding thereto section 16 to empower the cities of Anderson, Greenwood and towns of Bennetts-

To Consider Budget for 1915. Another important matter to come before the city council next Monday night is consideration of the supply and license ordinances for the approaching year. The members of the council want to start work on these matters early so that they will have plenty of time to consider them deliberately. It will probably require at least three ordinances in shape for their passage.

FIRST MEETING OF THE ASSOCIATION

ANDERSON COUNTY SCHOOL IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION MET YESTERDAY

Picnic Dinner Served and a Delightful Social Hour Enjoyed.

The first meeting of the School Improvement Association for Anderson County was held in the hall of the Hillman store on East Whitner street, yesterday at 11 o'clock. In spite of the cold weather the attendance was good, there being present about 75 ladies, including several teachers. At the conclusion of the exercises a picnic dinner was served those present, and a most delightful social hour was enjoyed.

The meeting was called to order at 11 o'clock, and opened with prayer, Rev. J. W. Speake, pronouncing the invocation. Miss Maggie Garlington, county rural school supervisor, presided over the meeting.

The first speaker was State supervisor of rural schools, Hon. Leuco Gunter, who has been visiting the schools of the county for the past two weeks. Mr. Gunter very forcefully and entertainingly presented the subject, "How to Get Every Child Enrolled." Mr. Gunter gave a number of practical plans for accomplishing this very much desired result, and was warmly cheered when he concluded his remarks.

The next speaker was Miss Sadie Goggans, rural school supervisor of schools in Newberry county, who spoke of many entertaining programs for the meetings of the school improvement associations. Miss Goggans is an experienced supervisor, and many of the programs she suggested have been tried out in her schools. The ladies were much interested in her talk, and made free use of note books during the time she was speaking.

"How to Interest the People in the School Improvement Associations," was the subject assigned Miss Gray, the rural school supervisor of Laurens county, but she was detained at home on account of illness in her family. Miss Garlington called upon W. W. Smoak, editor of The Intelligencer, to discuss this subject. Mr. Smoak said the best way he knew for doing this was to really do something, and he believed that those associations which are accomplishing things would have no trouble about the interest people took in their work.

Miss Garlington then conducted a round table discussion, and numerous responses were had, and many stories of achievement told by the members present. There are many live associations in the county and they are accomplishing great good. These individual reports were most encouraging.
