Members Busy Framing Legislative Programme

The 1915 Session of South Carolina Legislature Will Convene January 12—The First Important Event Will Be the Inauguration of Richard I. Manning as Governor.

Special to The Intelligencer.
COLUMBIA, S. C., Dec. 19.—Members elect of the South Carolina legislature are busy just now framing a programme of legislation for consideration at the next session. The 1915 session will begin January 12 and will continue for 40 days or more.

The first important event of the session will be the inauguration of Richard I. Manning, as governor. The inaugural ceremonies will be held before the joint assembly in the hall of the house of representatives at the state house on January 20. Governor Manning will read his first inaugural address. The last annual message will be received shortly after the session convenes from the present governor. This will be the last official utterance of the Governor.

Next week advocates of child labor laws and compulsory education will meet in Columbia to discuss measures to be introduced at the forthcoming session. Jos. A. McCullough of the Greenville delegation will lead the conference.

Marketing will be one of the important questions to come before this session. It will be one of the main features of the annual report from the State department of agriculture.

Every effort will be made this year to hold down appropriations. The State is in a bad way financially and if possible the State tax levy will not be increased. However, no matter how hard pressed the State may be, there will be many requests for funds. It has been suggested that the State institutions declare a holiday for one year in the matter of appropriations for new buildings. Practically every institution in the State will ask for some kind of an appropriation. These buildings are needed, yet the heads should consider the financial condition of the people as a whole.

There is much work of a constructive nature before the next general assembly. The asylum needs attention. The entire government of the institution should be changed in the opinion of many members and an effort along this line is expected.

Commissions for investigating various conditions during the past four years have been suggested in some quarters and it is practically certain that such a commission will be appointed.

The prohibition movement will cause much talk and little action at the session. Those who are against the sale of whiskey seem to be divided. The prohibition party, strictly speaking, will have the right to vote on a statewide law in September of 1915. The Anti-Saloon League may ask a fight for a State-wide prohibition bill. Either of the measures will call for much discussion and will serve to block progressive legislation. However the prohibitionists declare that they do not want to block measures of a constructive nature. They desire that the matter be settled at the earliest possible date.

Governor-elect Richard I. Manning has not announced the questions with which he will deal in his inaugural address. He favors constructive legislation and his address is awaited with interest by the people of the State.

Among the elections will be, an associate justice, superintendent of the State penitentiary, judge of the fifth circuit, sergeant-at-arms, speaker of the house, clerk of the house and other places. Every place is being sought by many candidates, except that of speaker. James A. Hoyt is without opposition for the speakership.

There is no doubt at present concerning the passage of a measure for the compulsory attendance of school children. The fight for this bill has already been won. The terms of the bill are yet to be decided upon.

The souvenirs were cards bearing little candy hearts in which interesting sentiments were printed, mounted on card board. There were about 50 young people present and all had a thoroughly good time.

The Cost of a Telephone Call

DID you ever think how much it costs to give you the telephone right-of-way anywhere, at all times? Your telephone instrument, which consists of 130 different parts, is only the entrance way to your share of the vast equipment necessary in making a call. Your line is connected with the great Bell highways, reaching every state in the union—with its poles, copper wire, cross arms and insulators in the country; its underground conduits, manholes, cable vaults and cables in the cities.

You have the use of switchboards costing upwards of $100,000,000. You enjoy the benefits of countless inventions which make possible universal telephone talk. Your service is safeguarded by large forces of men building, testing and repairing lines. You command at all times the prompt attention of one or more operators.

How can such a costly service be provided at rates so low that all can afford it? Only by its use upon a share-and-share-alike basis by millions of subscribers, and by the most careful economy in construction and operation. A plant so vast gives opportunity for ruinous extravagance; and judicious economy is as essential to its success as is the cooperative use of the facilities provided.

That the Bell System combines the maximum of usefulness and economy is proved by the fact that in no other land and under no other management has the telephone become such a servant of the masses.
