

Chinese Troops Making a Practice March

Just at this time, when there is danger of a recurrence of anti-foreign warfare in China similar to the Boxer war of twenty-five years ago, it is interesting to know that the Chinese armies are being kept in excellent fighting trim. Troops of General Feng are here seen on a practice march.

Parents of Barnwell Man Seriously Hurt

The friends of Mr. R. H. Wilcox of this city will learn with regret that his father, mother, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel H. Wilcox, were seriously injured in an automobile accident Friday near Sardis, Ga., while en route in their car to Tybee. Mr. Wilcox suffered several broken ribs, a number of bruises and a probable fracture at the base of the skull.

Mrs. Wilcox suffered a broken right hip and general bruises. Their daughter, Miss Julia, was only slightly hurt. Near Sardis, the heavy touring car struck a sand-bed and when Mr. Wilcox applied the brakes, one of them stuck, causing the driver to lose control of the car. The machine ploughed into the sand and turned over twice. Miss Julia Wilcox was reclining on the back seat when the accident occurred and was thrown clear of the car when it turned over. After regaining her senses she looked about for her father and mother.

Not seeing either of them she screamed for help. A negro farm hand working in a field close by heard the screams and hastened to the scene of the wreck. He rendered what assistance he could and stood by until another machine drove up. The injured were given first aid by three Waynesboro physicians and later carried to an Augusta hospital, where they are reported as making satisfactory progress towards recovery.

James P. Carey, Jr. Out for Governor

Greenville, July 4.—Jas. P. Carey, Jr., popular member of the Pickens bar, formally announced his intention to enter the gubernatorial race of South Carolina of next summer in a statement written here tonight for the Greenville News. In making known his intentions, he pointed out that his platform will be announced soon and his campaign begun at once.

Equalization of taxes and the practice of economy in government will be given especial emphasis by him, he promises, if he is elected governor.

Mr. Carey has enjoyed a successful practice of law at Pickens for the past 20 years and has served one term in the State legislature. He has served as a special judge and is president of the Keowee Bank of Pickens.

Born in Woodberry, Ga., the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Carey, he was reared in Pickens. His father is widely known over this State as a result of his 42 years of law practice.

Mr. Carey attended Clemson college in 1904, 1905 and 1906 and then read law in the office of his father until he was admitted to the bar. He married Miss Kate Robinson of Easley, daughter of the late J. F. Robinson of that town.

Court at Allendale.

The Court of General Sessions convened at Allendale Monday, with Judge J. Henry Johnson, of that city, presiding. Indications were that it would be one of the most quiet terms in the history of the county, almost the entire docket being composed of cases held over from previous terms and the few new ones being unimportant. The docket included a few assault cases, several violations of the prohibition law and one murder case, Joe Hay, a negro.

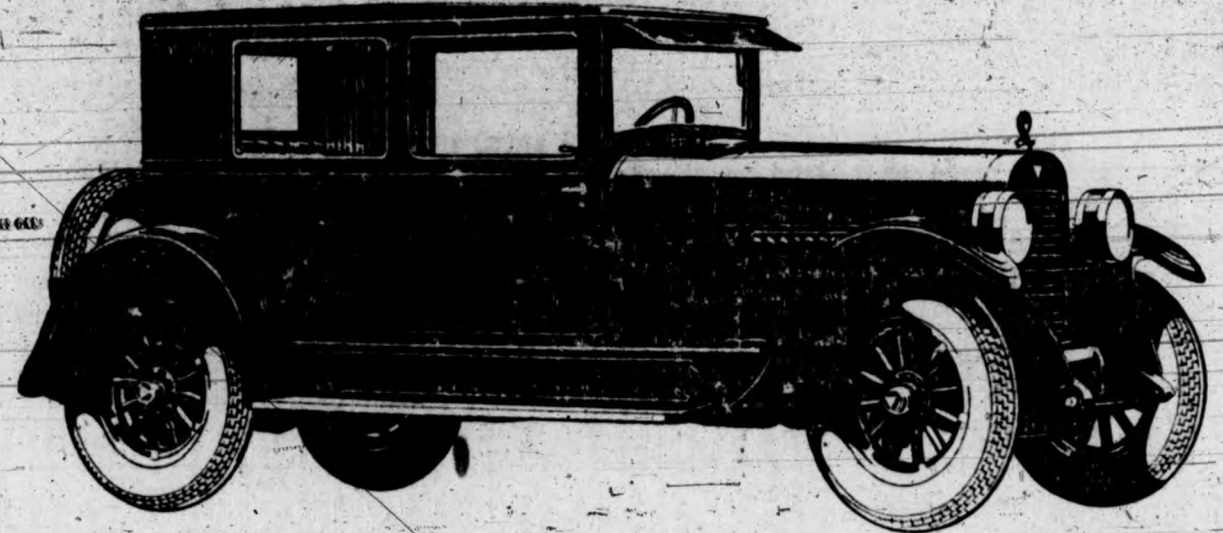

The case of J. E. Johnson, of Fairfax, charged with violation of the
