Another "Bull" Durham advertisement by Will Rogers, Zigfield Folliott and screen star, and leading American humorist. More coming. Watch for them.

Improving on History

I just finished hearing a Politician, one of the Washington Boys, talk on Abraham Lincoln. The only thing I could picture in common between him and Lincoln was that they had both been in Washington. When a Politician aint talking about himself he is talking about Lincoln. Lincoln has had more Public men speak of his good qualities, and fewer copy any of them, than any man America ever produced. His famous address was only about two hundred words long. No Politician has ever been able to even copy his briefness. In fact that is the last one of his qualities that they would try to copy. Lincoln said more in those 200 words than has been said in the entire City of Washington in the last 10 years, and here is a Politician that no historian or speaker ever brought out before. At the completion of the Gettysburg speech, he wisely refused one of Grant's Cigars, and borrowed a sack of "Bull" Durham from an Ex Southern private, rolled his own, got on his Mule and went back to Washington.

P. S. There will be another piece here two weeks from now. Look for it.

Try and Get It!

"I think, young man, you have a lot of nerve to ask to marry my daughter when you're only earning $30 a week. That won't pay your rent."

"Rent! You don't mean to say you'll charge Gladys and me rent?"

About Your Health

Things You Should Know

Limit the Intake

Let's talk awhile about absorption. It acts invisibly and also independently of our will. It is the one process of nature that never ceases unless, mayhap, there is nothing to absorb. It is our friend, until we over-crowd it, in which instance it becomes an unrelenting enemy. Our absorbing glands and channels know no taste—no discrimination. They take up strychnine or other deadly poison with the same avidity with which they welcome taffy or gruel. Absorption takes no cognizance of results. It goes on after we are dead!

The safe-guard against absorption, is not to overburden it. Heavy meals are dangerous. Many people complain of being over-fat. The trouble is, that they are crowding their absorbents. Large quantities of fluids are taken with meals, rendering absorption quicker and faster than it should go on. It is possible to reduce flesh by taking no fluid of any kind with meals. No amount of physical contortion called "Physical Culture" can displace over-supply of readily absorbable food. It is wrong to tax the sweat-glands with work that the more gross eliminants should do. The man or woman who expects to sweat out "three squares a day" will be disappointed. Neither can their billows be removed by massage. Limit the intake and get plenty of walking exercise—thus stimulating elimination, and let the absorbents rest.

A six-o'clock dinner is too often absorbed—not digested. Food in the average alimentary canal undergoes fermentation, and even in some cases decomposition! The longer it remains there, the more advanced the process. What can be worse for mental torpor than the absorption of such poisonous matter?
