LEAD TO CURE CANCER? GOD THUNDERETH. THE KING SHOOT. EVEN THE BATHTUB.

Professor Bell, a surgeon of authority, director of the Liverpool Cancer Research, announces to the Toronto Academy of Medicine a new and successful treatment of cancer. Fifty cases, including many considered absolutely hopeless, have been cured by injections of a lead solution. One woman, with only a few weeks to live, was cured, so this responsible surgeon says, of a rapidly growing spindle-cell sarcoma.

If it is true that a poisonous lead solution can attack and destroy cancer tissues without destroying normal tissue, it means the saving of millions of lives, and, most important, it means avoiding agony, physical and mental, beyond calculation.

England, in spite of her unemployed diminished trade, coal troubles, etc., goes along cheerfully. King George has gone to shoot with the Earl of Iveagh.

As they proceed through the estate, shooting as they go, a traveling kitchen accompanies them. Servants carry their guns, load them, hand them up when the time comes to shoot.

Sometimes "six guns" in one day's shooting bring down as many as 1,000 pheasants and 500 partridges.

It is most noble, glorious and inspiring sport, every bit as exciting as it would be to enter the Earl of Iveagh's chicken yard, shooting right and left.

In Britain it is called "sport." There is one advantage—it enables the traveling American to buy, all cooked, for four shillings or less, a pheasant that has cost the Earl of Iveagh twenty shillings, merely for the pleasure of killing it.

George Pullman tried to create a city. It was called "Pullman," but as a separate city it didn't work.

Mr. Wood, once president of the American Woolen Company, decided that he would build a city and spent $21,000,000 on his model town, Shawshien, in Massachusetts. A new president of the American Woolen Company, Andrew G. Pierce, Jr., moves the company away and Shawshien will become a deserted village.

A town is like a language or a human being. It must start naturally and grow of its own power. You can't invent it or create it.

It is said, in Job: "God thundereth marvelously with his voice; great things doeth He, which we cannot comprehend."

To understand this universe, the forces of the intelligence back of it, seems hopeless after you read Dr. Millikan's description of the new rays that roam through space. They are stronger than ultra-X-rays, 1,000 times greater in frequency, their ionization is constant, day and night, and they are of the "10,000 volt variety."

When Volta, learned Italian, wrote Cunningham served sandwiches and Russian tea.

The Evening bridge club was entertained by Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kennedy Friday night. A salad course with Russian tea was served. Mrs. W. R. Kennedy received top score prize and was given a buttoniere and W. C. Smith, Jr., was given a pair of hose as the gentleman's prize.

his treatise, "On the Attractive Force of Electric Fire," 150 years ago, little did he or Napoleon, who made him a Count and Senator of the kingdom of Italy, imagine what terrific forces in nature would be called "volts" in Volta's honor.

The magnificent W. K. Vanderbilt house in New York's Fifth avenue will soon be turned over to wreckers and torn down. Meanwhile for charity, the crowd, to whom the name Vanderbilt means something, will pay to enter the house, wander about, contemplate the great dining room, two stories high "and Mrs. Vanderbilt's room on the third floor with the bath room cut from Italian marble."

All this, even the bath tub, must pass away.

The only interesting thing about it is the fact that Benjamin F. Winter, who owns and is tearing down the house to build something suitable, came here a poor Jewish boy not long ago. He has had more fun out of that Vanderbilt house than Vanderbilt, who built it, ever had. Winter, who EARNs his money and power, enjoys both.

Judge W. M. Dunbar.

Judge William M. Dunbar, a native of Barnwell County but for many years one of Augusta's most widely known citizens and a former mayor of that city, died early Saturday morning, the 7th inst., after an illness of several days, aged 79 years. His body was laid to rest the following Monday afternoon in the city cemetery, the Rev. Rembert G. Smith, pastor of the St. John Methodist Church, officiating. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Virginia T. Dunbar, and two sons, Clement E. Dunbar, of New York City, and Frank T. Dunbar, of Albany, N. Y.

Judge Dunbar was born in Barnwell County in 1846, being a son of Allen and Laura Dunbar. He received his education in this county and Augusta. In 1863 he entered the Confederate Army, enlisting in Company A of the Augusta battalion under Capt. Thomas H. Holleyman. He fought in a number of important battles and lost an arm in the battle of Griswoldville, Ga. He was a brave soldier and enjoyed an unblemished war record. After the loss of his arm he entered the military school at Athens, Ga.

Judge Dunbar was actively identified with the commercial and political life of his adopted city and held a number of important offices. He was elected mayor of Augusta in 1907, serving as such for three years. Prior to that time, during the administration of President Cleveland, he was appointed postmaster at Augusta.

Judge Dunbar was married twice, his first wife being Miss Rebecca Hopkins, of Augusta. His widow was Miss Virginia T. Bennett, of Virginia. The news of his death brought sadness to many relatives and friends in Barnwell County.

"Give me relief! Stop this agony!"—that's all you can think of when you're suffering from any acute pain.

And you can get relief—quickly and completely—with a very simple home treatment.

"I was in bed with lumbago," writes C. L. Normandy of St. Paul, Minnesota. "A friend told me about Sloan's Liniment, and after using it one day, I was able to walk around the house. After three days I was able to go to work, and now I'm as well as ever."

The reason that Sloan's Liniment gives such remarkable relief is that it gets right at the cause of the pain. It stimulates the circulation throughout the place where the pain is, and clears out the germs that are causing it.

Right away you feel relief. The pain stops, and soon you are fit as ever. Get a bottle today and have it on hand. All druggists—55 cents.
