IN MEMORIAM.

In loving remembrance of F. G. Fickling, who departed this life June 23rd, 1935.

It was just one year ago tonight that I stood by the bedside, hoping and praying that a just God would spare his life. But, oh! it was not to be. I looked again and again, and saw the shadows as they gathered between us. But my loss is his eternal gain, and while I mourn in this sad bereavement, he enjoys the pleasure of Heaven. It has been but one year, but such a long, dreary year, since I stood and gazed upon his still form so beautiful.

I sigh so oft to see thy face,
But since this may not be,
I'll leave thee to the care of Him
Who cares for three and me.
"He keeps us both beneath His wings";
This comforts, dear;
One wing o'er thee and one o'er me,
So we are near.

To Enroll Veterans.

The Columbia office of the Veterans Administration has received instructions providing for the enrollment of veterans in the Civilian Conservation Corps during the period beginning July 1 and ending July 15, 1936. It is estimated that 35 white veterans and 25 colored veterans will be enrolled from South Carolina during this period.

Regulations governing enrollment have been modified and now permit the enrollment of 25 per cent. who are not certified by a public relief agency. However, the remaining 75 per cent. must be certified to relief.

Applications should be submitted to the Veterans Administration Facility, Columbia, S. C.

Sheriff Makes Raids.

Sheriff J. B. Morris and his deputy, Gilmore S. Harley, made a couple of raids Sunday morning in and near Blackville, with the result that one alleged seller of bootleg liquor was arrested and lodged in the county jail.

The first raid was on the residence of Hamp Bolen, a few miles from Blackville, but no liquor was found. Bolen, according to Sheriff Morris, was seen coming out of some woods near the house as the officers approached but ran, and when apprehended no whiskey was found in his possession.

A negro named Butler, who lives in Blackville, was found in possession of a half-gallon of unstamped liquor and was arrested and lodged in the county jail.

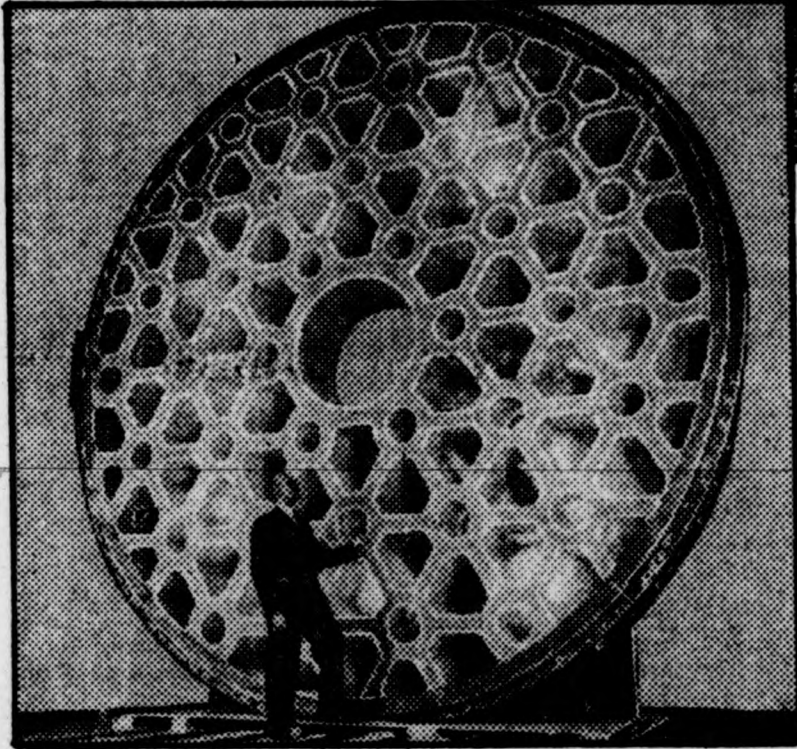

Barbecue and Political Meeting.

There will be a barbecue and county political meeting at Long Branch Church tomorrow (Friday) at 12 o'clock noon. A charge will be made for the barbecue dinner, the proceeds from which will go to the church. The candidates for county offices have been invited to address the voters and it is expected that most of them will be present. Representative Winchester C. Smith, candidate for the house, will be unable to attend, however, as he is in Philadelphia as a delegate to the Democratic national convention.

ADVERTISE in The People-Sentinel.

GIANT EYE GOES WEST!

Uncharted regions of the sky over a billion light years away will become visible to man when the giant disc shown below is finally installed as the world's largest "telescopic eye." Largest single piece of glass in the world, the 200-inch, 20-ton disc represents a triumph of the American glass industry. For its successful manufacture, the scientists in charge selected only the best materials, one of which was American nitrate of soda, the identical product which has assisted so many Southern farmers.

Safely loaded on a specially-made flat car, the "giant eye" recently started the long journey from the glass works at Corning, N. Y., to Los Angeles, Calif. Two years have already been spent on this great undertaking, and at least two more years will pass before the "eye" is ground and polished and installed in the Observatory at Mt. Palomar, Calif. Truly so valuable that its worth cannot be measured in dollars, the disc was transported in a special train which ran only during the day-light hours.

Anniversary Ball Planned.

Company 4468 passed another week in its progress toward its first anniversary, which occurs on July 3rd, when a dance will be given. Arrangements are being worked out by the dance committee. Frank Merchant is chairman, and the members are Albert Griffin, J. M. Cave, Bill Kearse, Leonard Dunn and Thompson Siegler. George Hall's orchestra, from Batesburg, has been scheduled to play for the occasion.

The Rev. J. C. Inabinet was out for religious services Monday, June 15th, and Chaplain Gregory was here on Saturday evening and held services in the recreation hall Sunday, June 21st.

Colonel Dunn paid a short visit to camp Friday, at which time he held an inspection.

Jim Graham, State ECW inspector was in camp Thursday and delivered a nice talk to the boys that night. It was enjoyed by all who were present.

Saturday, at Edisto Island, the Barnwell team lost the best game it has played this year. The score was 0-0 when the ninth inning began. Barnwell got up and made a run. Then Edisto got up and a pinch hitter got on first. There was a discussion about whether the pinch hitter had a right to come in without the other team being notified. This took some time. By the time it was over, Lord's arm had gotten cold, or something had happened, and Edisto managed to bring in a couple of runs, which was enough to win the game.

Until this game, Barnwell still had a chance to be in the race for the district championship, by winning all the rest of the games, but now we are definitely out. We still have a couple more games to play, and then we may get a few games independently, but we feel that as long as the company is split up between the main camp and two side camps, we cannot make a creditable showing against companies in which all the men are in one camp.

This week we play Georgetown at Georgetown, and on July 3rd we play the final game of the season with Edisto here.

Leader Potter and about a dozen men are bridging Three Runs Creek just beyond Snelling. They have a power pile-driver operated by eight or ten of the boys pulling up five hundred pounds and letting it drop on the piling. They say this is good for the muscles and digestion.

Mr. Murray has Pete Brown and a detail of carpenters working on the house at the Dunbarton tower. They have just completed the Elko tower house and those who have looked it over say it is as nice a little house of its size as they ever saw. Stop and take a look inside of it when you are driving by some time. Mr. Edgerton also has a crew of carpenters working on the barn and other buildings at Elko and they are progressing rapidly.

The biggest detail working out of P-70 at present is making a truck trail, under the direction of Clyde Padgett. They are working in the Savannah River swamp about 6 miles out of Ellenton.

VET BETS ENTIRE BONUS ON SCHMELING AND CLEANS UP

Greenville, June 22.—A World War veteran of Greenville today had increased six-fold his bonus of $800 all because he "had a hunch Max Schmeling would win" and the daring to back his hunch with bucks on the line.

And now the mortgage is paid off his home and the world swims by his rose-colored glasses.

The veteran, a business man, who requested that his name be withheld, said he wired his bonus money to a New York betting commissioner where he got odds of 6 to 1.

"Schmeling was a long shot," he explained, "but I had a hunch he'd win, and I can hardly ever pass up a chance to get 6 to 1 odds on a heavy-weight fight, so I took Schmeling and he took Louis, and I took about $5,000."

John Owens Walker.

Dunbarton, June 23.—John Owens Walker, 69, died June 17th at his home in the Old Columbia section of Barnwell County. Funeral services were conducted the following day at the graveside in the family cemetery near his home by R. Archie Ellis in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and sympathetic friends. Pallbearers were T. W. Dicks, W. H. Dicks, T. A. Cook, S. D. Rountree, R. E. Rountree and C. L. Hiers.

Mr. Walker, who was born Sept. 27, 1868, was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Walker. He was a farmer and for many years also served as chief of police at Dunbarton. He was married three times, his first wife being Mrs. Jennie Wood Walker. Surviving children of this union are J. W. Walker, Mrs. Lena Boyles and Mrs. Geneva Boyles.

His second wife was Mrs. Ella Rosier Walker, by whom he leaves the following children: Earl Walker, Mrs. Alkana Easterling and Owen R. Walker. He is also survived by his third wife, Mrs. Ruby Rosier Walker; an infant son, Henry Lee Walker; three brothers, Joe, Sam and Willie Walker; one sister, Mrs. Victoria Bates, and 13 grandchildren.

Dunbarton Negro Hurt.

Sam Harley, colored, was painfully hurt Saturday night when he was attacked by two negroes named Green, according to Sheriff J. B. Morris, who went to Dunbarton Sunday morning to investigate the occurrence. Harley was hit across the head with a baseball bat and was cut with a knife in the back. Sheriff Morris was unable to locate his alleged attackers Sunday.

Torrential Downpour.

A torrential downpour of rain, accompanied by thunder and lightning, visited Barnwell about nine o'clock Monday night. The rainstorm was quite unexpected, many people having gone to the local picture show without taking the precaution of closing the windows of their homes. The rain, which lasted about an hour, was one of the heaviest in years. No material damage has been reported from the storm.

THE SCHOLAR PLAN

The Scholar Plan of the Edison Foundation seeks to aid those promising young men and women of special aptitude in industrial science who would otherwise be denied the opportunity for proper development. It is not seeking the general type of student, for whom higher education is now provided through the usual scholarship examination. In fact, when an application for financial assistance demonstrates an unusual, special ability or a particular inventive type of mind, the lack of scholastic qualifications will not be a barrier.

It has been suggested that the types of candidates should include, for example, the following:

1. Nomination by industry of men working in industry;
2. Youth in college or post-graduate courses. This class to be nominated by faculties on the basis of previous attainment of promise in research laboratory or technical school;
3. General. Unattached working youth wherever found, selected on the basis of personal achievement or evidence of unusual ability.

In general, it is planned to provide approximately one hundred annual money grants for these types of candidates. Applications will be passed upon by regional councils representing geographical areas and final selections must be approved by a National Qualification Board. Each State will hold its own competition and, within the specifications of the National Qualification Board, awards will be made to successful competitors in each State.

Grants will be of sufficient monetary value to provide for the purpose in view in each individual case. The grants will, therefore, have no uniform monetary values, nor be spread over any predetermined length of time.

Grants may be made to men and women in the place in which they are then working, but the general purpose is to place them where the best possible research facilities and counsel exist for development of their ideas and experiments to the practical stage.

This plan supplements but does not duplicate present scholastic awards, and is set up on a broad competitive basis to enlist the widest possible interest of all youth of significant promise as well as of industrial and educational leaders.

To adapt these purposes to existing educational facilities with the minimum duplication of effort, a committee of educators, scientists, inventors, industrial engineers and business men is now at work.

Withdraws from Race.

W. H. Harden, of Kline, candidate for the office of magistrate, Great Cypress township, withdrew from the race yesterday, it was announced by Senator Edgar A. Brown, county chairman. Under the rules of the Democratic party, it will be necessary to reopen this race to afford others an opportunity of entering.

Harlee Indicts New Dealers at Barnwell

Senatorial Candidates Praise General Hagood for "Undaunted Courage." —Byrnes Absent.

With another denunciation of "New Deal" politics, two of the three candidates for the United States senate brought to a close Friday the first lap of the county-to-county race over the State when they made their appeals for votes before a Barnwell audience estimated at less than 100.

Colonel William C. Harlee, of Dillon, and Thomas P. Stoney, of Charleston, adhered in large measure to their previous criticisms of the national administration as "undemocratic," and not in accord with the 1932 platform.

Senator James F. Byrnes remained in Washington attending to his legislative duties, but is expected to rejoin the campaign party when it resumes its journeying to the various counties after a lapse of one week which was scheduled because of the national convention's meeting in Philadelphia.

Hagood Record Cited.

This last week, with Byrnes absent, the "New Deal" was lambasted by Stoney and Harlee while it lacked a champion. In the first week, however, Senator Byrnes defended the record of the Roosevelt administration, and asked renomination because of his criticizing WPA spending policies.

In this ancestral home of the family, Colonel Harlee opened his tribute to the Hagoods of South Carolina, including General Johnson Hagood, who was retired recently at his own request, after being disciplined for criticizing WPA spending policies.

At the outset, the marine praised the bravery and patriotism of the Confederate general, Johnson Hagood, uncle of the present general, and to his younger brother, Colonel James R. Hagood, Jr.

General Hagood raised the first South Carolina regiment in which served the father of Colonel Harlee, the candidate recalled, while Colonel Hagood joined the regiment as a 17-year-old private and rose to its command within two years.

"He became the youngest colonel in the Confederate army, and one whose every promotion was won by signal courage on the field of battle," Harlee said.

"Infamy of Broken Pledges."

"Their nephew worthily bears the name of Johnson Hagood," he continued, "and has brought added luster to that illustrious name. He speaks and acts like Hagood, have always spoken and acted and has lately thrilled the nation by his undaunted courage."

Returning to his campaign text of "back to Jeffersonian Democracy," Colonel Harlee charged "the radical prophets in the temple of our government" had been guilty of the "infamy and broken pledges."

"I stand on the platform which our party was solemnly pledged to perform," he asserted. "I believe that it charts the only course by which all the people can prosper and that radical departure from it has aggravated our economic distress and removed none of its causes."

"I can not follow a radical course utterly abhorrent to the time-honored principles of our party and calculated to destroy the landmarks which safeguard our liberty," he added.

Stoney again turned his oratorical fireworks upon the New Deal and Senator Byrnes, one of its staunch champions.

He vigorously criticized the large expenditures under that program and declared the taxpayers would have to pay back every penny of it.

He poked much fun at a circular he said he was informed had been put out by S. B. Moseley, of Barnwell, commending the work of Byrnes in the senate.

Gary Paschal, Esq., of Columbia, candidate for Congress, also addressed the audience, but Congressman H. P. Fulmer, of Orangeburg, who is seeking re-election, was detained in Washington by the press of official duties.

Revival Services at Dunbarton.
