Make Luncheon Sets of Striped Material.

THE napkins and mats are fringed and then whipped to keep them from raveling and to strengthen the edge. This is a very quick and easy finish to use for linens of the coarser weaves and is in harmony with peasant dishes and provincial furniture.

whipping the edge as I have shown here at C.

Every Homemaker should have a copy of Mrs. Spears' new book, SEWING. Forty-eight pages of step-by-step directions for making slipcovers and dressing tables; dishes and provincial furniture.

In cutting the material for the mats and napkins it is best to pull a thread to guide you so that the edges will be perfectly straight and fringe easily. Cut right along the little opening made in the material by drawing the thread as enclosing 25 cents, to Mrs. Spears, shown at A. Plan the size of the 210 South Desplaines St., Chicago, mats and napkins so that the ma- Illinois. terial will cut to good advantage and the stripes will arrange themselves in a pleasing way through the center of each piece. Napkins for this purpose may be as small as nine inches square though many people like them a little larger than this. The mats are usually about eleven by eighteen

Pull out the threads to make the fringe at the edge as I have shown great help to the housewife who here at B. From a half to three-quarters of an inch is a good depth tion. Corn Tamale Pie. ONE-DISH meals for the main and then not heated until time

Blend the whole kernel corn with the tamales, tomato sauce, and olives; season with salt and pepper and pour into a casserole. Sprinkle cheese over the top and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about 40 minutes, or long enough to heat the pie thor-

Hot biscuits, spiced peach pickles, and a green salad would taste good with this supper.

Fruit would make the best dessert. Just plain chilled canned pears, apricots, or plums would be a fine finish, or if you prefer, a soft custard may be served over the fruit.

Are Women Better Shoppers than Men

GRANTING a woman's reputation for wise buying, let's trace the methods by which she has earned it. Where does she find out about the advantages and details of electrical refrigeration? What tells her how to keep the whole household clean - rugs, floors, bathroom tiling - and have energy left over for golf and parties? How does she learn about new and delicious entrees and desserts that surprise of dress and make-up that a man appreciates but never understands?

Why, she reads the advertisements. She is a consistent, thoughtful reader of advertisements, because she has found that she can believe them-and profit thereby. Overlooking the advertisements would be depriving herself of data continuously useful in her job of Purchasing Agent to the Family.

For that matter, watch a wise man buy a car or a suit or an insurance policy. Not a bad shopper himself! He reads advertisements, too!

A Sussex farmer was testing the intelligence of a new employee who was regarded by colleagues as a simpleton.

"In yonder stable," exclaimed the tarmer, "I keep a donkey. If I fill three buckets-one with milk, another with water, and a third with ale-which will Neddy drink?"

The simpleton scratched his head. Then he replied: "I guess he'll drink the water."

"Quite right my boy. And why is that?" "Because he's such an ass," concluded the simpleton with a vacant smile.—Tit-Bits Magazine.

A doleful little boy went into a chemist's shop and leaned confidingly over the counter. "Do you keep anything to relieve pain?" he asked. "Where is the pain?" the chemist inquired.

The boy shuddered. "It hasn't come yet," he replied "but father's just reading my school report."-Tit-Bits Magazine.
