HE IS DEAD NOR SLEEPING.

THE RANGE ADVENTURE OF A WESTERN LUMBERMAN

He is dead to the world for two weeks, packed in a dry goods box, but comes all right again.

From the St. Paul Pioneer-Press.

The experiences of one Jonas Nilson, a lumberman, which are now briefly to be related, will be regarded as extravagant and extraordinary, but they are nevertheless truly stated in all essential particulars. It appears that during the past winter Nilson has been employed at one of the lumbering camps until about three weeks ago, when a portion of a tree fell on him while he was engaged at chopping in the woods, inflicting injuries which were believed to be fatal from the first. Nilson was carried to the camp by his companions, and after a period of extreme suffering he began to fail, finally becoming unconscious, pulseless, and with the palor of death overspreading his countenance. The men at the camp naturally concluded that their unfortunate companion and associate was dead, as no sign of life could be detected. The body of the supposed dead man was tenderly placed in the only coffin which could be procured at the camp—a long dry goods box—and the remains were sent by wagon to the nearest railroad station, and from thence forwarded to an old personal friend of Nilson's, a gentleman named John Peterson, who resides near the brickyard in this city. The coffin and body, after arriving in Minneapolis, were conveyed to the residence of Mr. Peterson, according to directions, but were kept for two days in order to complete the preparations for a decent burial. While lying in the rude coffin at the residence of Mr. Peterson another old acquaintance called to see the body of his dead friend, and during his stay he gave the corpse a close and critical examination. Something about it produced a profound impression upon the visitor, and he suddenly looked up with a pleased but startled expression and exclaimed, "Why, Jonas Nilson is not dead!" While the majority of those present did not place any special confidence in the gentleman's pleasant remark, all agreed that an attempt to bring the body to life would not do any harm, even if it failed in accomplishing any actual good. Nilson's body was lifted from the coffin, placed in a comfortable bed, and such restoratives as were available and suggestive were carefully administered. Under this treatment a trace of life's healthy blood revealed itself on the pallid surface of the body, and at the end of two hours the eyes of the supposed dead man gradually opened and rested upon those present, with the rays of returning consciousness and intelligence plainly discerned by the bystanders. The astonishment and joy of his friends were so great that at first no one ventured to speak to the resurrected lumberman, but at last one of those present ventured the question: "Nilson, are you cold?" Without moving his body, but with the eyes resting upon his interlocutor, Nilson faintly answered with single word—"yes." The friends thus strangely assembled together then redoubled their exertions, and a physician was summoned. Nilson was made as warm and comfortable as possible, and since the date of his resuscitation, the attention bestowed upon him has been tender and unremitting, and he is responding to the friendly offices of those around him with evidences of gradual but certain improvement. The strange trance which was regarded as the sign of final dissolution by his friends of the camp and city continued for the period of two weeks, and one of the most astonishing features of the case is, that Jonas Nilson was not prematurely buried and thus "disposed of" in earnest. Physicians and others who may feel an interest in the remarkable case above recorded can verify the statements made or obtain additional particulars by calling at the residence of Mr. Peterson in the locality indicated. The story, incredible as it may appear to the public, is substantially true—the only exceptions possibly being in minor points not affecting the general accuracy of a narrative which must confound both wisdom and science, as one of the most curious on record.

Judge Bradley, the Great Aliunde, is collecting certificates of character from New Jersey. The Times, of Philadelphia, hits the nail on the head when it says: "The fact that a Judge would consent to defend himself on a grave judicial issue before a town meeting or a mob of signers to a public letter is a confession that he is sensitive as to just criticism of his acts. No enemy of Judge Bradley could have harmed him half so much by the most earnest and well directed assaults against him, as he has harmed himself by making efforts to sustain his decision. In his case silence is golden, and forgetfulness is safety." It is something to know, however, that "Aliunde Joe" is not of the rhinoceros order, and has the rags of a conscience left.

OXYGENATED AIR! (Send for our large and beautifully illustrated paper, sent free to any address.)

CURES

CATARRH! Why? because Inhalation is the only way that the Air Passages can be reached, and Catarrh is a disease of the Air Passages of the Head. Use this Treatment as we direct, which is easy and pleasant, and we guarantee a perfect cure of Catarrh.

Bronchitis! Why? for the same reason as given above. The Bronchial Tubes are simply conductors to carry air to the Lungs, hence Inhalation must go direct to the seat of the disease, and if you will follow our directions, we will cure Bronchitis.

ASTHMA! Why? because Asthma is a contraction of the Bronchial Tubes, caused by inflammation and irritation of the mucous membrane lining the Bronchial Tubes. Use Oxygenated Air as we will direct and we will warrant a cure. We have cured cases of 20 years standing.

CONSUMPTION Can be cured. Why? because we have cured hundreds of cases, some of them being given over to die by all physicians of other schools of practice. Consumption is a disease of the Air passages and over two-thirds of the cases are caused by Catarrh. We guarantee a cure if you will come in season.

DYSPEPSIA WE CURE. Liver and Kidney complaints are effectually reached by Oxygenated Air.

BLOOD DISEASES!

CANCERS AND TUMORS! CURED without cutting or drawing blood, with very little or no pain. Any person troubled with Cancer and Tumors will please write for testimonials &c., from patients cured. We warrant a perfect cure.
