THE HORRORS OF WAR.

An Episode of the Russo-Turkish Campaign of 1811.

In 1811 the opposing Russian and Turkish armies stood facing each other on opposite banks of the Danube. During the night between the 8th and 6th of September the Turks succeeded, by making a feint, and so attracting the Russians to a spot some three miles below the real point of passage, in throwing a force of 2,000 men and four guns across the river, a short distance above Giurgovo. The first attempts of the Russians to drive this small body back into river were successfully withstood; reinforcements were rapidly brought over from the right to the left bank, until, finally, 30,000 men and fifty guns were assembled on the northern shore. Every effort to advance further and drive back the Russian army, which had fallen back into an entrenched position, was, however, repulsed; the Turks themselves being obliged after a time to construct entrenchments, to withstand the counter attacks directed against them. Unable to drive back the invading force, the Russians desisted from any further active measures against it, but, bringing a strong flotilla of gunboats up the Danube to prevent supplies being carried across the river into the Turkish camp on the left bank, they quietly awaited events. The provisions of the Turkish force, thus completely isolated, unable to advance because of the Russian force in front of it, unable to retreat because of the flotilla which effectually prevented any bridge being thrown across the river, soon began to run short. The weather became cold, but there was no fuel with which to kindle fires. Under these circumstances the sufferings of the men were very great. For some time there was horseflesh, but it had to be eaten raw, as even the tent-poles had been cut up and burned. Hundreds died daily, and their comrades had not strength to bury them. Disease was consequently soon added to famine, so that when finally, on the 8th of December, peace was concluded, but 4,000 men, who are described as being but living skeletons with scarce sufficient strength to stand upright, were left out of the 30,000 who three months before had crossed the river.

A Strict Constructionist.

The following anecdote is related of Daniel Dunkin, a native of South Carolina, who was, many years ago, governor of Missouri, and who died in 1845: He had been lieutenant-governor before he was elected governor; and presided over the State senate. He was called the "strict constructionist," from the fact, when presiding over the senate the weather being intensely cold, he would beckon the doorkeeper up to him and direct him to set the door of the senate chamber wide open. The members sitting near the door would get up and close the door to keep the cold out, but so soon as the door was closed the presiding officer would beckon the doorkeeper up again and direct him to open the door wide open. The weather was so cold that some of the members would get up and close the door again. At last the presiding officer of the senate could stand it no longer. He drew the attention of the senate to the matter, and stated the fact that the constitution, which every member of the senate had taken an oath to support, expressly provided that both houses of the general assembly should sit with open doors; that he had tried to do his duty by keeping the "doors open," but that he regretted to see that some members of the senate were disposed to violate the constitution by closing the door. Quite an animated discussion arose in the senate to decide the question whether shutting the door to keep the cold out merely was sitting "with closed doors."

They tell us that the good die young, and yet insurance statistics make it out that clergyman live to an average age of sixty-five years.

It is significant of the sparseness with which decorations are bestowed in England, while foreign ministers' breasts are covered with them, that Mr. Gladstone, and Lords Beaconsfield, Derby and Salisbury have not a single one between them.

The City of San Francisco, a Pacific steamer, was recently sunk by striking a rock in the ocean. The passengers were all saved, but the vessel and cargo were a total loss.

Colonel Forbes, the new postmaster of Richmond, Va., is a native Virginian, a moderate Radical, six feet two inches high, and has long been a register in bankruptcy.

The Atlanta Constitution says that to be a man and not be a "colonel" is preposterous, and asks what Georgia would do without her hundred thousand "colonels."

VEGETINE.

HE SAYS IT IS TRUE.

SENeca FALLS, Nov. 9, 1876. MR. H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—As you are an entire stranger to me, I want you to know what VEGETINE has done for me. Only those who have been raised from death's door can know the value of such a good medicine. I am 53 years of age. Three years ago I was taken sick with what the doctors called Lumbago. For weeks I was confined to my bed. I had three different physicians, without any help. I received no relief; I was a great sufferer; finally I became entirely helpless. The last doctor told me there was no help; he said he might possibly save my life by ejecting morphia in my arms and legs. The encouragement for saving my life by having this done was so small a chance I could not consent to run the risk. About this time my son read your advertisement in our paper, a testimony of a person who had been very sick with about the same complaint, and was cured. My son went right away to the apothecary store and bought a bottle of VEGETINE. Before I had used the first bottle I found great relief; I could move myself in bed. After taking three bottles I was able to sit up and move about my room. I continued taking the Vegetine, and I was in a few weeks restored to my former health. The VEGETINE saved my life after the physicians said there was no help for me. I have had no doctor since. If I feel unwell I take a dose of VEGETINE, and I recommend it to my friends. Your Vegetine ought to be in every family. My doctor was surprised to see me in good health. He says VEGETINE is a good medicine. I tell him it cured me. He says, "It is true." I cannot feel too thankful. Very gratefully yours, MRS. CATHARINE COONS, Seneca Falls, Seneca county, N. Y.

Vegetine.

All diseases of the blood. If Vegetine will relieve pain, cleanse, purify and cure such diseases, restoring the patient to perfect health after trying different physicians, many remedies, suffering for years, is it not conclusive proof, if you are a sufferer, you can be cured? Why is this medicine performing such great cures? It works in the blood, in the circulating fluid. It can truly be called a Great Blood Purifier. The great source of disease originates in the blood; and no medicine that does not act directly upon it, to purify and renovate, has any just claim upon public attention.

Vegetine.

Will Cure Canker Humor.

ROCKPORT, March 31, 1875. H. R. STEVENS: Sir—Last fall my husband got me two bottles of your Vegetine to take for the Canker Humor which I have had in my stomach for several years. I took it, and the result was very satisfactory. I have taken a good many remedies for the Canker Humor, and none seemed to help me but Vegetine. There is no doubt in my mind that every one suffering with CANKER HUMOR can be cured by taking Vegetine. It gave me a good appetite, and I felt better in every respect. Yours, with respect, MRS. ELIZA ANN POOLE.

Vegetine.

NOTHING EQUAL TO IT.

SOUTH SALEM, MASS., Nov. 14, 1876. MR. H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—I have been troubled with Scrofula, Canker and Liver complaint for three years. Nothing ever did me any good until I commenced using the Vegetine. I am now getting along first rate, and still using the Vegetine. I consider there is nothing equal to it for such complaints. I can heartily recommend it to everybody. Yours truly, MRS. LIZZIE M. PACKARD, No. 16, Lorraine St., South Salem, Mass.
