FRED DOUGLASS AT HOME.

—o—
MASTER AND SERVANT—SOUND ADVICE TO COLORED PEOPLE.

A Return to the Eastern Shore after forty-one years—Cordial Greeting—All men are not Equal.

A special despatch from Talbot county, Maryland, to the Baltimore Sun of June 18th says: Fred Douglass, United States Marshal for the District of Columbia, paid a visit for the first time since he left here, forty-one years ago, to the scenes of his youth. Mr. Douglass some time ago expressed a wish to visit his former master, Captain Thomas Auld, a resident of St. Michael's. Captain Thomas Auld had expressed his willingness and desire to meet his old servant, and this visit of Douglass to St. Michael's was mainly for that purpose. He was received by Judge William H. Bruff, Captain Auld's son-in-law, who addressed him as "Marshal Douglass." "No, no," expostulated the Marshal, "I am Marshal Douglass in Washington; here let me be Fred Douglass again." The meeting between the former master and the former servant was very affecting. The interview was very pleasant throughout. Mr. Douglass stated that in his book, written soon after his escape, he had made some statements that lapse of time and reflection had caused him to feel he had better left unsaid, and for aught that he said that was unjust to his old master or had wounded his feelings he begged forgiveness.

DOUGLASS' ADDRESS.

In the afternoon Douglass addressed a large audience of both white and colored people. He began by advertising to the difficult and embarrassing position in which he was placed. He said he did not come here to make a speech. He was not here to fan the flames of sectional animosity, nor to create ill feeling, nor yet to recount the wrongs inflicted on his race for two hundred years, nor to go into antiquity for matter to stir the blood and rouse the passions, nor to indulge in a political harangue, nor to expound the constitution of the United States. I come, first of all, he said, to see my old master, from whom I have been separated for forty-one years, to shake his hand, to look into his kind old face and see it beaming with light from the other world. I have had great joy in shaking that hand, in looking into that face stricken with age and disease, but aglow with the light that comes from an honest heart, and reflecting the glory from the spirit world, upon whose border he is, and where we shall soon again meet. Forty-one years ago I left him. I left him, "not because I loved Rome less, but because I loved Rome more."

Mr. Douglass then referred briefly to his escape and to the motive that actuated him.

His second reason for making this visit, he said, was that he loved Maryland and the Eastern shore. Eastern shore corn and Eastern shore pork had given him his muscles.

BLACK MEN PRACTICALLY INFERIOR.

Mr. Douglass then passed into a eulogy of the white race and its achievements, and said to the colored people that they were in contact with the most indomitable, the most enlightened race of men in the world, and that he would be false to his own race if he did not tell them just where they stood; what an immense distance they were behind the white people. He did not believe the colored people were fundamentally inferior to the whites, but they are, nevertheless, practically inferior. We must not talk about equality until we can do what white people can do. As long as they can build vessels and we cannot, we are their inferiors; as long as they can build railroads and we cannot, we are their inferiors; as long as they can found governments and we cannot, we are their inferiors. If in twenty years from now the colored race, as a race, has not advanced beyond the point where it was when emancipated, it is a doomed race. The question now is, will the black man do as much now for his master (himself) as he used to do for his master? Do you, my colored friends, get up as early now to work for yourselves as you used to work for the stern old Roman, Samuel Hambleton?

GOOD ADVICE.

He was quite severe upon Professor John M. Lungston for maintaining that the mulatto is the superior of the black man intellectually. He told the colored people that they must get money and keep it if they wished to elevate themselves. One trouble with them is that they always want to be going somewhere, and do not stay in one place or at one time long enough to accumulate. A poor people are always a despised people. To be respected they must get money and property. Without money there is no leisure; without leisure there is no thought; without thought no progress. Their preachers should tell more about what to do and less about what to feel. They should cultivate their brains more and their lungs less. They should not depend upon being helped, but should do for themselves. He was tired of Ethiopia holding out her hands. They should not depend upon the Lord for everything. The Lord is good and kind, but is of the most use to those who do for themselves. No man has a right to live unless he lives honestly, and no man lives honestly who lives upon another.

He gave the colored part of his audience some of the best advice and soundest instruction they have had for many a day. The only political allusion he made in his speech was in saying that the Southerners could control the vote of the negroes in the Southern States far more completely than Northerners could. The colored man turned instinctively for advice and assistance to those who had been raised with him.

Among others who sought Mr. Douglass out after his address was Mr. William W. Bruff, who taught him reading, arithmetic and geography fifty years ago. Marshal Douglass learned his age from Captain Auld, who has a record of his birth, wherein it appears that "Fred Bailey was born in February, 1818."

A CHURCH NAME.—The Diocesan Council of the Protestant Episcopal Church in Wisconsin adopted the following resolutions the other day:

Resolved, That the Diocese of Wisconsin, sympathizing with the efforts being made to remove the words "Protestant Episcopal" for the legal title of "The Church," do request its deputies to the General Convention to aid any and all efforts made toward the restoration of her catholic and apostolic title to "The Church in America."

Resolved, That the deputies to the General Convention from this Diocese be requested to ask of the General Convention the appointment of a constitutional commission, to which the question of a change in the legal title of the church, as well as similar questions, may be referred.

A FEARFUL MURDER.—A triple murder has occurred near Goro, Logan county, Ohio. John Weldon was found in the field, with his head split open, and his sister and daughter were discovered in the house with their heads smashed. It is supposed that the murder was committed for money. No clue to the murderers has yet been found.

Judge Hilton, executor of A. T. Stewart, has ordered the exclusion of Jews from the Grand Union Hotel, Saratoga. The affair has created great excitement. Hilton claims he does not include Hebrew gentlemen, but only the lower class, with whom his other guests will not associate.

SHOOT THE CORRESPONDENT.—"Who's that?" asked the czar of his aid, the other day, pointing to a chap with a chunk of hard tack in one hand and a note book in the other, who was hanging around headquarters, eyeing him rather closely. "That," said the aid—"that's an American newspaper correspondent from Chicago."—"Shoot him at sunset," replied his imperial majesty, retiring within his tent.

It is now proposed to annex the Mexican States of Sonora, Chihuahua, Sinaloa, Coahuila, Nuevo Leon, Durango, and Lower California, embracing 375,000 square miles and 900,000 inhabitants. Mexico will not yield them without a fight.
