BRIC-A-BRAC.

Secretary Evarts will introduce to Washington society, the coming winter, eleven beautiful daughters.

Mrs. Gaines has offered to compromise her claims with the New Orleans authorities.

A man in a Western town has named a hog Maud because it comes into the garden so much.

The State of Virginia wants the scalps of foxes at the rate of one dollar for gray and a dollar and a half for red foxes.

The Peruvian government wants to borrow $24,000,000 for a few years, and will secure the lender with a bank of guano one hundred and fifty miles long and a mile wide.

In the pampas of Buenos Ayres there are 12,000,000 cows and 3,000,000 horses that have owners, while there are also great numbers of wild herds.

Steam seems destined to supersede horses on the street railways. Brooklyn has just adopted the dummy engine on one of her street lines, and it seems to give abundant satisfaction.

Belle Boyd, who figured so extensively during the war as a scout for the Confederate forces, is now living at Calvert, Texas, and supports herself and sister by sewing.

Last week twenty-three tramps were put off the train between Nashville and Chattanooga, a distance of nearly 150 miles. They would get on at nearly every other station, only to be put off at the next.

Among the inmates of the Virginia penitentiary are a man and a woman who stole one hundred dollars from the latter's mother upon which to get married and set up housekeeping.

Those men who expect a minister to give them $1,500 worth of grace for $300 salary are the same ones who demand local notices from a newspaper for nothing, and do their advertising on "novelty press" handbills.

A pair of lovers were wandering in the moonlight. "Ah, love!" she murmured, "why do summer roses fade?" He was a young chemist and practical, and he replied: "I suppose it's owing to a deficiency of nutriment in the soil and an insufficiency of oxygen in the atmosphere."

The Hawkeye notes the fact that the boy who does not know that the gun is always loaded is nevertheless always to be found at the safe end of the gun. Providence ought to look after this little arrangement and reverse it occasionally.

John W. Young, the Prophet's son, is a pleasant, modest appearing man, who might be taken for a busy, quiet, bank cashier. He dresses plainly, is unostentatious, but wears a heavy watch chain, as San Francisco men do.

The voters of Connecticut, on the first Monday in October, will pass upon two proposed constitutional amendments, forbidding extra compensation for public officers of all kinds, and also prohibiting city or town aid for railroads.

A very pretty bonnet of silver-gray straw is hat shaped, projecting over the face. It has a broad binding of gray velvet and is lined with the same. The trimming is of gray velvet, fails and an exquisite uncurled ostrich feather, which surrounds the whole.

The death of Ben DeBar, the actor, afforded a beautiful illustration of simple faith. His wife and daughter, who were at once at his bedside, testify that a few minutes before his death and after he had ceased to speak, he raised his arm and pointed his finger upward, a smile at the same time wreathing his face.

During July there were thirty-two failures in New York city, in which the liabilities amounted to $2,071,488. In addition there were assignments and adjudications in bankruptcy which swell the total indebtedness to about $2,520,000. The number of failures were the same as for June, and the liabilities are $20,000 greater.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says that in Forrest the last great cavalryman will go to his grave. The Washington Capital suggests that Fitz Lee and Wade Hampton are not dead. True, if Sheridan and Kilpatrick and several others who could possibly ride a horse were only alive now they might be mentioned as cavalrymen, but not by the C.-J. or the Capital.—[New York Herald.] From the way Kilpatrick dusted when Hampton got after him in North Carolina, there is no doubt he can ride a horse.

Ayer's Ague Cure,

For Fever and Ague, Intermittent Fever, Chill Fever, Remittent Fever, Dumb Ague, Periodical or Bilious Fever, &c., and indeed all the affections which arise from malarious, marsh, or miasmatic poisons.

This is a compound remedy, prepared with scientific skill from vegetable ingredients, which rarely fails to cure the severest cases of Chills and Fever and the concomitant disorders. Such a remedy the necessities of the people in malarious districts demand. Its great superiority over any other medicine yet discovered for the cure of Intermittents is, that it contains no quinine or mineral, and those who take it are free from danger of quinsism or any injurious effects, and are as healthy after using it as before. It has been extensively employed during the last thirty years in the treatment of these distressing disorders, and so unvarying has been its success that it has gained the reputation of being infallible. It can, therefore, be safely recommended as a sure remedy and specific for the Fever and Ague of the West, and the Chills and Fever of the South. It counteracts the miasmatic poison in the blood, and frees the system from its influence, so that fever and ague, shivers or chills, once broken up by it, do not return until the disease is again contracted.

The great variety of disorders which arise from the irritation of this poison, such as Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Headache, Blindness, Toothache, Earache, Catarrh, Asthma, Pile, Spasmodic Affections, Hysterics, Pain in the Bowels, Colic, Paralysis, and derangement of the Stomach, all of which become intermittent or periodical, have no speedier remedy than AYER'S AGUE CURE, which cures them all alike, and protects the system from future attacks. As a preventive, it is of immense service in those communities where Fever and Ague prevails, as it stays the development of the disease if taken on the first approach of the preliminary symptoms. Travellers and temporary residents are thus enabled to defy these disorders, and few will ever suffer if they avail themselves of the protection this remedy affords.

For Liver Complaints, arising from torpidity, it is an excellent remedy; it stimulates the organ into healthy activity, and produces many remarkable cures where other medicines fail.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Practical and Analytical Chemists, LOWELL, MASS. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.
