POLITICAL NOTES.

Hon. Montgomery Blair is a candidate for election to the Maryland Legislature, and will be elected.

There are so many tickets in the field this year that every ambitious citizen can be accommodated with a nomination for something.

Mr. Irish, Democratic candidate for governor of Iowa, is the first native of that State ever nominated for that particular office.

The Democratic majority in the California Legislature hitherto reported as thirty-eight, is really fifty-one, which is three less than last year.

The nearly unanimous opinion of the Southern press is that President Hayes is fully reconstructed and ought to have his disabilities removed.

The late election in California has smashed the Sargent slate for next year's gubernatorial contest. Some other than Sargent will make the new slate.

It is announced by authority in the Norfolk Ledger that Mr. Goode, of Virginia, one of the candidates for Speaker, is a friend of the Texas Pacific Railroad.

General McClellan is an awful slow man, according to the Republican newspapers, but some of them will live long enough to see him get ahead of the other fellow—by a large majority.

About every county in Pennsylvania that has chosen delegates to the next Republican State Convention presents a candidate for governor.

Half the newspapers in the country are now supposing what would be the result should General McClellan become the Democratic candidate for the Presidency in 1880.

Virginia repudiationists threaten to scratch the name of General Walker, the Conservative candidate for lieutenant-governor. Reason: His outspoken declarations in favor of paying the State debt at any sacrifice.

General McClellan has accepted the nomination for governor in New Jersey, and he will run like greased Jersey lightning. The best thing the Republicans can do is to shut up shop, declare that they don't care a darn about the thing anyhow, and let the band play.

It is a good thing that Secretary Schurz hastened back to Washington. Some "friend of the party in Ohio" took advantage of the Secretary's absence to go through the clerks of the Interior Department for campaign funds.

Boss Tweed's revelations seem likely to make a bran new set of lesser statesmen necessary in New York. Some of those who have hitherto had the State's affairs on their shoulders have come up with characters as short as their hair.

It is stated by the Rochester Democrat and Chronicle, which is a Republican organ, that Mr. Randall will be elected Speaker, and that it will be a triumph of the subsidists. Mr. Randall will be glad to hear a part of this news at least.

The Indianapolis Journal says: "A man whose resources are equal to every demand and who honors all drafts made upon his moral and intellectual nature is a great man. President Lincoln was that sort of man, and thus far President Hayes has shown that he is also."

The Vicksburg (Miss.) Commercial says: "We think the South has sufficiently advanced in the matter of reconstruction to claim some share in the Federal Government, and we should like to see Goode, or some other Southern man, in the Speaker's chair as an offset to the poor penitent in the Cabinet."

Governor Chamberlain has got half way over to the support of the Hayes administration. He now takes civil service reform as a steady beverage, and as the whole country but the deposed carpet-bagger approve the Southern policy of the President, Chamberlain will "concur in the above" before he's a year older.

General Walker, candidate for attorney-general in Virginia, made a centre shot when he said that "repudiation is larceny and forcible adjustment is highway robbery."

Virginia may squirm a little under the truth served out so hissing hot, but it will be wholesome.

Maryland has been "electrified" sufficiently to pass a square resolution indorsing the President in the Republican convention. It may make Schurz gag a little when he learns that the resolutions were prepared and pushed through by R. Stockett Matthews, an office-holder, but the sun has its spots, and why must mundane politics be spotless?

Colonel Forney is nothing if not prophetic. He now sees clearly that "the Republican majority next November will be as large as is usual in off years."

Which off year does Colonel Forney refer to? The last two off years were 1873, when the State, outside of Philadelphia, gave a Democratic majority, and 1874, when the whole Democratic State ticket and a Democratic Legislature were elected.

Christian and Israelite. From the American Israelite. It is with a feeling of pleasure and pride that I inform you that on Sunday, the 12th Aug. the Rev. W. W. Duncan, of the Methodist Episcopal church, of Spartanburg, S. C., Professor in Wofford College, delivered a beautiful and interesting sermon.

In his remarks he referred to the Jewish race in glowing and beautiful language, seldom heard in a pulpit occupied by a Christian minister. It is impossible for me to give you his words as they were delivered, but it is sufficient to know that they were indeed complimentary and praiseworthy.

It is a rarity now-a-days for Christian ministers to deliver sermons in favor of a people, who are acknowledged by the Holy Writ to be God's own chosen people, and when such an act does occur, I think it my duty, as an Israelite, to inform you of the fact. Such men as Rev. Duncan should and will receive the hearty good wishes of every Israelite, wheresoever dispersed around the globe.

Would it not be well for Christian ministers to follow his example? Would not such actions on their part tend toward the reconciliation of all men, be they of what religious opinion they may? How often have ministers of the Gospel incited hatred among men on account of their differing in their religious opinions, and to what purpose? Let them follow the example of this able, just and tolerant man, and they will find that every man, be he Christian Jew or Mohammedan, will honor and respect their faith.

To the Rev. W. W. Duncan the Israelites of our little town send their hearty wishes for his future welfare, and hope on his return to our little place to meet him face to face and extend to him thanks as becomes a man of such liberal and tolerant views.

Very respectfully, R. L. D. Winnsboro, S. C.

THE COTTON INDUSTRY.—The statistics of the cotton staple for the year closing September 1, shows a crop of 4,485,423 bales, which has never been exceeded but twice—in 1875-76 and in 1859-60—when the crop rose to 4,669,000 bales. Of the total crop 3,000,000 bales, in round numbers, were exported, 1,288,418 were consumed by the Northern cotton mills, and 147,000 by the Southern. The total consumption of American mills was therefore 1,435,418 bales, against 1,097,000 bales in 1872. It is illustrative of the strongly increasing volume of business that our cotton mills to-day consume thirty-one per cent. more raw material than they did six years ago, and this during what is considered a stagnation period. In the same time our exports of cotton goods have risen from 8,800,000 yards of uncolored goods to 76,720,000; from 2,800,000 of colored to 29,111,000, and in total value from $2,304,000 (in the year ending June 30, 1872), to $10,180,000 for the last fiscal year. It is somewhat too early to estimate closely the standing crop, as its lateness exposes it in many localities to early frosts. The last week's report to the cotton exchanges, generally full, have been less favorable to the crop.

AT ORANGE COURT HOUSE, Va., when the Presidential train was moving off some one proposed three cheers for the President. "No," said a leader, "by the way of a change let's give him the rebel yell."

It was uttered with a will, the first time it had been heard during the trip, and, it is said, pleased the President much, as it was given with entire good faith.
