The following are the prices of cotton for the past three days: Thursday, 10 1/4; Friday, 10 1/4.

Attention is called to the estate sale advertised by Mr. A. F. Ruff, as executor. The property to be sold is varied and valuable.

No additional members of the Graham family have died in Charleston. It is believed now that all will recover. The origin of the poisoning is involved in mystery.

A telegram has been received stating that Mr. R. Gibbs Center, formerly of this county, died of yellow fever at Port Royal on Wednesday. Mr. Center was a son of Dr. T. R. Center, and was highly esteemed.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.—Mr. R. J. McCarley advertises a large and well selected stock of groceries, boots, shoes, wines, liquors, sugars and tobacco.

Mr. Jos. Groeschel, proprietor of the Morning Star Saloon, announces the reopening, for the season, of his Restaurant, where may now be found all the delicacies of the season.

RELIGIOUS NOTICE.—We are requested to state that the Rev. G. R. Brackett, D. D., will hold divine service and preach in the Presbyterian church at 11, a. m., and 7 1/2, p. m., to-morrow. Dr. Brackett was formerly pastor of Scion Presbyterian church at this place, and is now in charge of the Second Presbyterian church in Charleston. He is too well known to require an introduction.

COLE'S CIRCUS.—This leviathan show is coming to Winnsboro on Monday, Oct. 22. The exhibition embraces a famous circus, extensive menagerie, colossal museum, aquarium, &c., and a grand consolidated world's wonder exhibition, of which W. W. Cole is sole proprietor and manager. The Mobilis Register says: "The wild beasts connected with the show were all first class. Then the performances of the circus ring were most excellent. One rare quality was the promptness, amounting to almost dash, with which everything was put through. There were no long breathing spells filled in with stale witticism of the conventional clown. All the acts were just lengthy enough to interest the spectator, and not to pall the taste. These features are so rare in traveling exhibitions, that we make special commendation of them here. Added to this, we may say that the performers in the arena are first-class—not a poor one in the lot. We heartily commend the exhibition to the favor and attention of the press and public wherever they may chance to pitch their tents."

The Volunteer Parade.
Winnsboro was waked up on Wednesday by the inspection of the volunteer troops by Adjutant and Inspector General Moise. Although this is a busy season of the year, the military made preparations to stand the ordeal. On Wednesday morning the Fairfield Light Dragoons, Capt. T. R. Robertson, a stalwart body of men, and handsomely mounted, rendezvoused on the College green, and executed several manoeuvres preparatory to "passing muster." The Hampton Rifle Guard, of Ridgeway, under command of Capt. R. S. Desportes, arrived on the morning train and encamped at the depot. The Monticello Rifles, Capt. Jno. B. Davis, although the corps had been organized only a week, determined to have a place in the picture also. The Gordon Light Infantry, of Winnsboro, Capt. W. G. Jordan, was of course out in full force.

At four o'clock, p. m., according to announcement, the different companies assembled, and, preceded by the Citizens' Cornet Band, marched from the town hall to the College green, the scene of the military parades in the good old ante-bellum days. The order was as follows:

Citizens' Cornet Band,
Gordon Light Infantry,
Drum and Fife Corps,
Hampton Rifle Guard,
Monticello Rifles,
Fairfield Light Dragoons.

None of the companies have yet been regularly uniformed. They appeared, however, in black coats and pants, and black felt hats. The Hampton Rifle Guard had arms, their private property, and wore red sashes. The Dragoons were armed with sabres.

Arrived on the green, whither a large concourse had assembled, the battalion was formed, and General Moise assumed command. Several manoeuvres were creditably executed; and the companies were then inspected.

After this, General Moise addressed the troops in a neat speech, in which he explained the aims and objects of the State government in organizing the Volunteer State Troops. He said it was the purpose of the authorities to raise the volunteer forces to the highest standard of discipline and efficiency. Everything possible would be done by the authorities to aid the citizens in making their different companies successful. He paid a high compliment to Col. Jno. B. Davis, the commander of the Monticello Rifles, and urged that corps to follow the example he had already and would in future set them.

At the close of the address three rousing cheers were given for the General, and the parade was dismissed. The companies marched back to Main street, and were dismissed. The appearance presented, considering the time the companies have been organized, was highly creditable. The battalion is composed of splendid material, and it will form an admirable nucleus for an extended military organization in Fairfield.

At night General Moise was serenaded by the Cornet Band, and he responded in a graceful address. He left on Wednesday night's train for Chester, where he has already inspected the volunteer troops organized there.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

Will You Believe It?

WOMAN'S BEST FRIEND.—To relieve the aching heart of woman and bring joy where sorrow reigned supreme, is a mission before which the smiles of kings dwindle into utter insignificance. To do this is the peculiar province of Dr. J. Bradford's Female Regulator, which from the numberless cures it has accomplished, is appropriately styled Woman's Best Friend. The distressing complaint known as the " Whites," and the various irregularities of the womb, to which woman is subject disappear like magic before a single bottle of this wonderful compound. It is prepared by J. Bradford, Atlanta, Ga., and sold at $1.50 per bottle by Dr. W. E. ARKIN. Physicians prescribe it. Its action is prompt, sure and decisive.

Mount Zion Collegiate Institute.

THE fall session of this well known Institute began on Monday, August 27th.

The course of instruction embraces Mathematics, the Classics, Science and the usual English branches. Special attention will be paid to elocution, reading, spelling and writing. Pupils will receive that careful drill in the rudiments which is essential to securing a thorough education. Blackboard exercises will enter largely as a method of instruction. The college buildings are commodious and conveniently located. The Principal hopes, with the political and material improvement of the State, to secure a liberal patronage, by means of which the Institute may be restored to its former popularity and usefulness.
