PROSPECTUS.

HISTORY of South Carolina,
—BY—
REV. R. LATHAN.

SO soon as a sufficient number of subscribers are secured to warrant the enterprise, I propose publishing a

HISTORY of SOUTH CAROLINA.

The work will embrace a complete history of the State from the first discovery of the soil; the settlement of the territory at different periods; the history of the State under the Proprietary Government, under the Royal Government, and through the Revolutionary period, or to the close of the Revolutionary war.

The movements of the several Whig military chiefs are accurately traced, and the several battles fought during the Revolution are minutely described.

The whole will make a book of more than 700 pages of the size of Stephens' History of the United States. It will be printed on good paper, with clear type, and bound in substantial cloth. To subscribers the book will be delivered for FOUR DOLLARS per copy.

Persons desiring to canvass for the work are requested to communicate with the author at Yorkville, S. C., for terms, &c. R. LATHAN, Yorkville, S. C., August, 1877. sep 8-1f

VEGETINE

Rev. J. P. Ludlow Writes:
178 BALTIC STREET, BROOKLYN, N. Y.,
November 14, 1874.

Dear Sir—From personal benefit received by its use, as well as from personal knowledge of those whose cases thereby have seemed almost miraculous, I can most heartily and sincerely recommend the VEGETINE for the complaints which it is claimed to cure.

JAMES P. LUDLOW, late Pastor, Calvary Baptist Church, Sacramento, Cal.

Vegetine. She Rests Well.

SOUTH POLAND, ME., Oct. 11, 1876
Mr. H. R. STEVENS:

Dear Sir—I have been sick two years with the liver complaint, and during that time have taken a great many different medicines, but none of them did me any good. I was restless at night, had no appetite. Since taking the VEGETINE I rest well, and relish my food. Can recommend the Vegetine for what it is has done for me. Yours respectfully,

Mrs. ALBERT RICKER, Witness of the above, Mr. George M. Vaughan, Medford, Mass.

Vegetine. Good for the Children.

BOSTON HOME, 14 Tyler Street, Boston, April, 1876.

Mr. H. R. STEVENS: I feel bound to testify that the children in our home have been benefited by the VEGETINE. These children have suffered from their mother's illness, and were troubled with the colic, and other ailments. With respect,
MRS. M. WORMELL, Matron.

Vegetine.

Rev. O. T. Walker Says:
PROVIDENCE, R. I., 161 Transit Street, H. R. STEVENS, Esq.

I feel bound to testify with my signature the high value I place upon your VEGETINE. My family have used it for the last two years. It never fails to give relief, and I recommend it to all who may need an invigorating, renovating tonic.

Vegetine.

Nothing Equal to it.

SOUTH SALEM, MASS., Nov. 14, 1876.

Mr. H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—I have been troubled with serous, cancer, and liver complaint for three years. Nothing ever did me good until I commenced using the VEGETINE. I am now getting along first-rate, and still using the VEGETINE. I consider there is nothing equal to it for such complaints. Can heartily recommend it to everybody. Yours truly,

Mrs. LIZZIE M. PACKARD, No. 16, Lagrange St., South Salem, Mass.

Vegetine.

Recommend it Heartily. SOUTH BOSTON.

Mr. H. R. STEVENS: Dear Sir—I have taken several bottles of your VEGETINE, and am convinced it is a valuable remedy for dyspepsia, kidney complaint, and general debility of the system. I can heartily recommend it to all sufferers from the above complaints. Yours respectfully,
Mrs. ANNE PARKER.

A BRILLIANT CAREER.

MARK TWAIN'S MILITARY EXPERIENCE.

He tells all about it at a banquet—so-called.

Speech at the Putnam Phalanx Banquet.

I wouldn't have missed this for a great deal. I did not assemble at the hotel parlors to-day to be received by the committee as a mere civilian guest. No. I assembled at the headquarters of the Putnam Phalanx and insisted upon my right to be guarded to this place as one of the military guests. For I, too, am a soldier. I am inured to war. I have a military history. I have been through a stirring campaign, and there is not even a mention of it in any history of the United States or of the Southern Confederacy. To such lengths can the envy and the malignity of the historian go. I will unbosom myself here, where I cannot but find sympathy. I will tell you about it, and appeal through you to justice. In early summer days of the war I stepped out of Hannibal, Mo., by night with a friend, and joined a detachment of the rebel General Tom Harris' army (I find myself in a great majority here). Up a gorge behind an old barn in Ralls county, Colonel Ball swore us in. He made us swear to uphold the flag and constitution of the United States, and to destroy any other military organization that we caught doing the same thing. [Great laughter.] In other words, we were to repel invasion. Well, you see, this mixed us. We could not really tell which side we were on; but we went into camp and left it to the God of battles, which was the custom in that day. I was made second lieutenant and chief mogul of a company of eleven men, who didn't know anything about war—or anything. We had no captain. My friend, who was nineteen years old, six feet high, three feet wide, and some distance through, and just out of the infant school, was made orderly sergeant. His name was Ben Tupper, and he had a hard time. When he was mounted and on the march he used to go to sleep, and his horse would turn around and bite his leg, and then he would cry and curse and want to go home. The other men pestered him a good deal, too. When they were dismounted they said they couldn't march in double file with him, because his feet took up so much room. One night, when we were around the camp-fire, a fellow on the outside of the circle in the cold, said, "Ben Tupper, put down that newspaper; it casts a shadow like a blanket." Ben said, "I ain't got any newspaper." Then that other fellow said, "Oh, I see, it's your ear!" We all slept in a corn crib on the corn, and the rats were very thick. Ben Tupper had been carefully and rigidly reared, and when he was ready for bed he would start to pray, and a rat would bite him on the heel, and then he would sit up and swear all night and keep everybody awake. He was town bred, and did not seem to have any correct idea of military discipline. If I commanded him to shut up he would say, "Who was your nigger last year?" One evening I ordered him to ride out on picket duty about three miles to the beginning of a prairie. Said he, "What, in the night! and them blamed Union soldiers likely to be prowling around there at any time?" So he would not go. Next morning I ordered him again. Said he, "In the rain?" He didn't go again. Next day I ordered him on picket duty once more. This time he looked hurt. Said he, "What! on Sunday? You must be a durned fool!" Picketing was impracticable, so I dropped it from my military system. We had a good enough time there at that barn, barring the rain, and the rats, and the mosquitoes, and things. We lived on both parties with impartiality. But one day we heard that the invader was approaching, so we had to pack up and move. Inside of twenty-four hours the invader was coming again; so we moved again. And next day he was after us once more. We didn't like it much, but we moved rather than to make trouble. This went on for a week or ten days, and we saw considerable scenery. Then Ben Tupper lost patience. He says: "War is not what it is cracked up to be. I'm going home if I can't ever get a chance to sit down a minute. Why do these people keep us slumping around so? Blame their skins, do they think this is an excursion?" Some of the other town-boys began to grumble. They complained that there was an insufficiency of umbrellas, and then they complained that the Worcester-shire sauce was out. There was mutiny and dissatisfaction all around, and, of course, here came the enemy pestering us again, two hours—more than two hours—before breakfast, and nobody wanted to turn out at that hour. This was a little too much. The whole command felt insulted. I detached one of my aids, and sent him to the brigadier, and asked him to assign us to a district where there wasn't so much bother going on. The history of our company was laid before him, but, instead of being touched by it, what did he do? He sent back an indignant message. He said: "You have had a dozen chances inside of two weeks to capture the enemy, and he is still at large. [I knew that.] Stay where you are this time or I will court martial and hang the whole of you." I submitted the brutal message to my battalion and asked their advice. Said the orderly sergeant: "If Tom Harris wants the enemy let him come here and get him. I haven't got any use for my share. Who's Tom Harris, any way, that's putting on so many frills? Why, I knew him when he wasn't anything but a durned telegraph operator. Gentlemen, you can do as you choose. As for me, I've got enough of this sashaying round, so as you can't get a chance to pray, because the time is all required for cussin'. So off goes my war paint. You hear me." The whole regiment said: "That's the talk for us." So then and there on the spot my brigade disbanded itself and tramped off home, with me at the tail end of it. We were the first men who went into the service in Missouri, and we were the first who went out of it anywhere. This, gentlemen, is the history of the part which my division took in the great rebellion, and such is the military record of its commander-in-chief. And this is the first time that the deeds of those eleven warriors have been brought officially to the notice of humanity. Treasure these things in your hearts, and so shall the detected and truculent historians of this land be brought to shame and confusion. I ask you to fill your glasses and drink with me to the revered memory of the orderly sergeant and those other neglected and forgotten heroes—my footsore and travel-stained paladins, who were first in war, first in peace, and were not idle during the interval that lay between.

THE CONGRESSIONAL CHAPLAIN.—The Rev. Dr. John Poisal, the new chaplain of the House, was once a shoemaker in West Virginia, and studied theology while working on the bench. He is an old circuit rider, and, it is said, won Congressman J. R. Tucker from scepticism by an eloquent sermon preached several years ago. Dr. Poisal has a remarkable memory—is said, indeed, to know the Bible and Methodist Hymn Book almost by heart—and the good old man needs all this memory, for he is almost entirely blind. It is told of him that he is very sensitive concerning his defective sight, and has done wonderful things in the way of memorizing to conceal it.

The latest New York horror is the discovery of the mutilated corpse of an unknown and beautiful girl in Central Park lake. The body was elegantly dressed, and the victim of the shocking murder was evidently a young lady of refinement and culture, as well as striking beauty.

Mr. GEORGE BANCROFT, the venerable historian, still hale and active and indefatigable in his work, is in Philadelphia studying the records of Pennsylvania in the period of the formation of the Federal Constitution.

Score one more for the fallen Tweed. Senator Woodin, who was nominated for a fourth term in the New York Senate by the Republicans of the twenty-fifth district, has been compelled to withdraw under the fire of Tweed. The party leaders could stand Woodin, but the people wouldn't swallow him, and Woodin couldn't stand defeat.
