DAMAGED CROPS IN SILOS. - A crop of cats runed by the wet season was saved by ensilaging it, the oat sheaves having been in a thoroughly sodden condition and the corn in them so generally sprouted that apparently all was worthless except for manure. The process of ensilage consisted in putting the oats in a sile or pit, and adding about 300 pounds of salt to 13 tons of the green fodder. When the pit was subsequently opened after having been closed nearly 18 weeks, the temperature was found to be 110 degrees, the mass was in good condition, giving a fragrant odor, and was readily eaten by horses and cattle. The theory of the process is, that when green fodder is placed in a water-tight pit under pressure, heat is generated and fermentation ensues. The oxygen in the interstitial air is speedily absorbed and its place taken by carbonic acid gas, so that the fermentation and its accompanying heat are arrested in the mass of closely-packed fodcer immersed in a bath of carbonic acid, just as a lighted candle extinguishes itself in a bath of choke-damp of its own making when burned in a closed vessel. Of course the more perfectly air-tight the silo 18. the more perfectly will its contents be preserved. The pit should be cemented so as to be water-proof.

THE pride of the farmer should be in his fields. In their beauty, in their or-der, in their product he should place the gratification of his humble and honorable ambition, says a contemporary. This is all very well as far as it goes, but we would add: The pride of the farmer should be in his wife and children-in their health and culture, mental and social. A farmer with a family of seven, eight or ten children, well bred, and trained up, has comething to be proud of, and that should gratify an honorable ambition.

THE Drover's Journal says that with all the dangers from disease, hog-raising, though it requires more labor, is really the most profitable business which formers can engage in where corn is a sure crop. It is surprising, also, how many farmers there are who seem to wholly ignore the fact that any other food than dry corn is suitable for swine when it is within their power to keep such stock half or two-thirds of the year on food not nearly so expen-

It has been discovered that there is less potash in the leaves of dishased grapevines than in healthy specimens. The lack of potash is made up by an excess of lime. It is possible that lack of mineral fertilizers may be the cause of many diseases of trees and other plants, and that farmers and gardeners may yet have to consult the vegetable and grain doctor.

POTATOES. - The Colorado beetle is the leading enemy to the potato, It can be successfully fought with Paris green or London purple, if the poison is us d as soon as the young "worms" make their appearance. The ground must be well stirred and kept free of weeds, and the crop dug early to avoid

"I have been terribly affilted for a number of years with gravel and kidney disease. My urine contained brick-dust deposits, and at times I could not pass my water except in drops and with great pan; and lave had to get up as many as fifteen times during the night. I tried several physicians; they did me no good, b. t.a. friend of mine, who had used Hunt's Remedy, told me to get a bottle and try it. He had oeen cured of a severe case similar to inhe, and that others had used Hunt's Kemedy in Cambridge and pronounced it a modificance of real meat. After being repeatedly urged I purchased a bottle, and before I had used all of it is passed a stone as large as a pea, followed by smaller ones. I have used in all ten bottles, and it has completely cured me. My kidneys are in excellent condution, and for one of my age (68) sixty-eight years, I can truly say I feel like a young man with strength and vitality. My family use the Remedy, and would not be without it, and never fail to recommend it to our friends and neighbors in Camor dge and Boston. Lost Faith in Physicians:

There are innumerable instances where cures have been effected by Scovill's Sarsaparilla or Blood and Liver Syrup for all diseases of the blood, when they had been given over by their physicians. It is one of the best remedies ever offered to the public, and as it is prepared with the greatest care, as a specific for certain diseases, it is no wonder that it should be more effectual than hastily written and carelessly prepared prescriptions made by incompetent physicians. Take this medicate for all disorders arising from impure blood. It is endorsed by leading professional men as well as by eminent physicians and others.
