A PRIVATE LETTER.

September 15 1897.
 Rogers & Bro
 16 Cortland St.
 New York City.
 Mr. R. Brandt, Chester, S. C.
 Dear Sir:—Your favor of the 11th is duly at hand and when you buy our knives you get the original and the genuine goods and not a counterfeit "Rogers" and we assure you that you get your money's worth and that you can recommend and warrant these goods to your customers to give them perfect satisfaction, and we stand behind you every time. We only use the best quality of steel in the knives, whereas the bogus goods are made of the cheapest steel they can buy.
 We should be very happy to receive another good order from you when Mr. Ryland calls upon you.
 The 24 dozen Dessert Knives & Forks we expect to send tomorrow.
 Business is getting to be very lively with us now and the good times have at last returned, and we have no doubt that you will receive your full share.
 Mr. White acknowledges your letter with thanks and shall be very glad to receive the newspapers you refer to, and he is also glad to have become personally acquainted with you, as he knew and esteemed your good father for many years and always paid him a call when in Chester. I should like very much to see how you have improved the store and have no doubt it looks very fine and being always ready to serve you to the best of our ability, we remain,
 Truly yours,
 ROGERS & BRO,
 G. C. White.

A Startling Advertisement.

The figures are given and there can be no deviation. Mr. T. M. Fitzpatrick of the firm of T. M. Fitzpatrick & Bro informs us that he has bought too many goods. The cotton crop is short and he is determined to sell them, no matter at what sacrifice. We have walked through their 3 large stores and they are just simply crowded with bargains. Don't fail to read their mammoth add in to day's issue.

Serious Results From the Pistol.

A shooting affray occurred at Brewer Mine on Monday night of last week between Capt. E. Motz, superintendent of the mine, and a young man by the name of Welsh from Charleston, in which Capt. Motz was seriously shot in the leg, and Welsh received a wound in the forehead, one in the shoulder, one in the chest and another in the groin.

Dr. G. W. Gregory, who lives near the scene of the conflict was summoned, and advised the amputation of Capt. Motz's leg. Dr. McCombs of Charlotte was at once telegraphed for, and upon his arrival next day he agreed with Dr. Gregory, and the leg was amputated below the knee.

On his return from the mine, Dr. McCombs gave this account of the unfortunate difficulty:

Welsh, it seems, had been drinking a good deal in Charleston, and his brother sent him to the mine to see if Capt. Motz and the life there would not sober him. Welsh continued to drink, and on more than one occasion talked very roughly before Capt. Motz's family.

Capt. Motz forbade him doing so, and finally wrote to his brother that he must come and take him away. Welsh learned of the letter, and tried to compel Captain Motz to write another letter, which he was to dictate, recalling the previous one. This Capt. Motz refused to do. Welsh cursed him and Capt. Motz slapped him in the mouth. Welsh drew his pistol and fired. The ball struck Capt. Motz on the leg just below the knee, shattering the bone completely.

Capt. Motz grappled with his assailant, and pulled him down. As he fell, Welsh put two bullet holes in the floor not two inches from Capt. Motz's head.

Capt. Motz then drew his pistol and began returning Welsh's salute, wounding him four times, as above stated.

Horrible Accident at the Manchester.

A most horrible accident occurred at the Manchester Mill in Rock Hill about one o'clock Thursday morning. Miss Ellen Outlaw, a young girl who works in the spinning department on the third floor, attempted to stoop over to place something in the waste basket between the spinning frames. Her long hair, hanging in a braid, became caught between a belt and the pulley. The tension was so strong that the young girl was scalped from the middle of the head backward, the hair and flesh falling upon the floor. The flesh and periosteum were torn off the occipital bone almost entire and a slit was made in the front part of the head, the scalp dropping down over the ears in flaps.

Although the pain was terrible, she never lost consciousness and attempted to wrest herself from the grasp of the cruel machinery. In doing so she fell backwards wrenching her right wrist.

Miss Outlaw is about fourteen years old and is a daughter of Mr. John Outlaw, who came to the Globe Mill from Chesterfield county about two years ago.

While in no way responsible for the distressing affair, the authorities signified their willingness to employ a physician and to do everything possible for the sufferer. Her condition is still extremely critical, but she may live.

FATHER AND SON IN THE MORNING.

Letter by Rev. Jno. S. Croxton to The Baptist Courier.

Heath Spring, Sept. 14.—My son, A. M. Croxton, was given a vacation by his church in Oxford, Miss., from the first Sunday in Aug. till the first of Sept. He concluded to take his vacation, with his wife and lovely babe, with us at home. He kindly consented to spend his vacation rest in a series of meetings to be held with the churches of which I am pastor. And, accordingly, commenced preaching in Heath Spring Friday night, July 30, and continued the services day and night until Friday night, Aug. 6. Result of the services, the church greatly revived and six accessions by baptism. We went from Heath Spring to Fork Hill church, (the mother church of the writer and of his son) on Saturday, Aug. 7th, and continued the services there, preaching twice a day, until Friday, 13th, with 38 accessions by baptism and 6 restored, he doing all the preaching except one sermon. I never witnessed greater evidence of the Holy Spirit's presence and power in any congregation than was manifested in every congregation that assembled together from day to day. Neither did I ever witness so marked an effect of the truth of the gospel upon the hearts of every body during every service. He has faith in the power of the gospel as applied by the Holy Spirit to the heart to effect the salvation of the sinner. He preached three days, two sermons a day, at Antioch a newly constituted church, which resulted in 11 accessions to the church by baptism. He preached in all, while here, forty sermons "in the demonstration of the Spirit and with power."

I had the services of Bro. S. N. Watson at White Bluff, from the 26th of July to the 30th. His faithful, earnest, soul searching gospel preaching was abundantly blessed to the salvation of sinners, 17 by baptism and 4 restored. Result of the meetings with my churches, 72 by baptism and 10 restored. To God be all the praise.

THE COTTON PLANT.

A Number of Proposals to Publish the Paper.

The printing committee of the Cotton Plant met to night to receive the propositions relative to the printing of the Cotton Plant. There were present to present proposals Messrs. D. H. Witherpoon, of the Prosperity Advertiser; J. A. Hoyt, of the Greenville Mountaineer; A. J. Clark, of the Lancaster Enterprise; J. R. Earle, of the Oconee News; C. J. Dempsey, of the Southland, and E. H. Aull, of the Newberry Herald and News. The committee was engaged until midnight hearing the propositions from the various applicants and was unable to come to a conclusion to-night.—Saturday's State.

Col. Hoyt gets it.

The publishing committee yesterday awarded the printing and editing of The Cotton Plant to Col. James A. Hoyt of the Greenville Mountaineer. Under the contract the committee reserves to itself the right to appoint editors for the Alliance and Alliance exchange departments. Aside from giving the Alliance news and exchange price lists, the committee's editors will have no control or voice in the management of the paper.

When Colonel Hoyt was given a hearing Friday night before the committee he said that he was ambitious to reorganize the Alliance from the Blue Ridge to Broad Street, Charleston. To accomplish that end, he promised to use the power of The Cotton Plant.—Sunday's State.
