An Agricultural Paper.

Mr. E. H. Aull of the Newberry News and Herald will publish the initial number of Southern Farmer and Horticulturist on the 15th of November. Prof. J. S. Newman of Clemson College will be the editor.

In the prospectus, Prof. Newman says.

Recognizing the progress being made in agriculture and horticulture and in the Cotton States, and realizing the demand for orthodox, up-to-date literature upon these, as well as other departments of rural industry, it seems that an inviting field lies open for the advent of an agricultural journal devoted to the advancement of the interests of those engaged in "the most healthful, most useful, and most noble employment of man." We have, therefore, decided to publish Southern Farmer and Horticulturist as a broad-gauge journal in which our rural friends will find instruction upon every subject of interest to the tiller of the soil.

Upon its pages will be mirrored the best thought and practice for the field, the stock yard, the dairy, the garden, the orchard, the vineyard, the poultry yard, the flower yard and the home circle. Especial emphasis will be placed upon whatever will contribute to rendering rural homes more attractive, and life on the farm more happy and prosperous.

While its columns will be open to the discussion of all questions of agriculturo-political economy and such proposed public measures as affect the interests of the agricultural industry; nothing political or partizan will be admitted. Public measures will be discussed from the standpoint of the country gentleman but all partizan politics will be not only excluded from its editorial columns but from contributions as well.

When it will labor to uphold an elevated social and moral standard, associated with temperance and Christianity, nothing partizan or sectarian will be admitted.

Under no circumstances will Southern Farmer and Horticulturist become the organ of any one organization, but its columns will be ever open and its editorial pen ever ready to promote the welfare of voluntary organizations no matter by what name they may be known, provided their object and effort point to the advancement of the prosperity, education and happiness of the agricultural classes. To this end its columns will be open, free of charge, to all official announcements of such organizations.

It is desired also that Southern Farmer and Horticulturist shall become a medium of exchange of friendly discussion upon all subject relating to rural life.

The Great Wallace Shows

which will exhibit in Lancaster, Wednesday, Nov. 11, recently visited East Liverpool, (Ohio), and as it is something interesting to know what kind of an impression a coming amusement enterprise has left in other cities the following is reproduced from the Liverpool Crisis:

The Wallace Shows arrived on three long trains early this morning. After the small boy had accomplished satisfactorily the task of directing the unloading of the train, the erection of the big tent was begun at West End Park, and by 11 o'clock it was complete. The main tent which the Wallace Show carries has a capacity for seating 12,000 people.

Wallace boasts of a parade a mile long. The actual length of the line at noon to-day was more than that distance and was well closed up. The long parade passed without accident, though thousands jammed the streets. Everything about the Wallace show is new this year. New tents, new wagons, and pretty nearly an entire new equipment give the big show a bright, clean appearance.

CARRIES 1,000 PEOPLE.

The show carries, all told, 980 people, including men, women and children. The performers and management travel in a train of 18 special cars, built for them including 15 sleepers and a buffet car, where the performers and management eat breakfast.

The people with the Wallace circus are a better class, as a rule than other shows carry. There is an absence of the tough element. The management carries a clean show morally, and the employees seldom give the people in any city any trouble. The Pinkerton men accompany the circus and co-operate with the local authorities in watching for suspicious characters—and as a result the Wallace circus has the reputation for being absolutely free from the horde of pick-pockets and sneak thieves which usually accompany these traveling aggregations.

As an illustration of how this is appreciated by the local authorities, last week at Huntington, W. Va. the mayor and a delegation from the common council visited the circus and officially extended to the attaches the freedom of the city—the first time on record that that courtesy has been shown a circus.

over which crowds grow enthusiastic this season is the Nelson family acrobats. There are nine persons in the family, from the father, 50 years of age, to the little girl baby acrobat only 3 years old. Three of the nine are adults, and the Nelsons are pronounced the most wonderful combination of acrobats on earth.

How to Please a Woman.

First of all pet her.
Don't stay out late at night.
Don't always be finding fault with her.

Tell her she is pretty whether you think so or not.

Help her about the house sometimes.

Don't wait until she is dead to praise her. She won't care then.

Don't deceive her. Be honest with her by all means.

Spend some of your leisure moments in her presence.

Make her believe she is the most charming woman on earth to you.

Be brave. Woman despises cowardice.

Talk to her and act as if you are interested in what interests her.

If she is worried about anything show that you sympathize with her.

There is not much danger of telling a woman you love her too often. She is hardly apt to tire of that.

When you leave home get her something be it ever so small. If you can't get anything for her tell her you saw something you wanted to get. It will show that you thought of her.

When you come about the home don't have a frown on your face. Give her your sweetest smiles—if she is a true woman she deserves more than anyone else.—Ex.
