IT PAYS

To Exchange Seed

At the Oil Mill.

We are now taking Seed in exchange for Meal and Hulls to be delivered when our mill begins operating, on following basis:

100 lbs. Cotton Seed Meal equals 150 lbs. Seed

300 lbs. Loose Hulls equals 100 lbs. Seed.

At present prices of seed this gets a man his cotton seed meal at 97½ cents a sack of 100 pounds, and his hulls at 21½ cents a hundred. For cattle feeding purposes we give 1,500 lbs. Hulls equals 500 lbs. Seed.

300 " Meal " 450 " "

1,800 lbs. Cattle Food for 950 lbs. seed.

So therefore we give a cattle food of better proportion, more nourishing and more easily digested than cotton seed, and give near 2 pounds of food for 1 pound of seed.

This to wagons at the mill only.

Kershaw Oil Mill

Mrs. Marie W. Vitt, a resident of Baltimore, recently secured a divorce from her husband and a few evenings later celebrated the event by hiring a hall and giving a "divorce party" to a large number of her acquaintances. The congratulations showered upon her during the evening were so sweet that she has decided never to shatter the pleasant memory by venturing on another matrimonial trip. She has five children. The idea of giving a "divorce party" was doubtless suggested by a very bright story which recently appeared in "The Smart Set."

PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING.

Marrriage of Miss Addie Carter to Mr. Thomas Thomasson.

The Methodist Episcopal church South, of Lancaster, S. C., broke her record Wednesday afternoon, November 5, 1902, there being for the first time in her history a marriage celebrated at her altar. It was the nuptial occasion of Mr. Thomas Thomasson and Miss Addie Kershaw Carter, both of Lancaster.

When it was learned that Miss Arnie Witherspoon had the superintendence of the decorations everybody, with one consent, agreed that they would be a dream of artistic taste and beauty, and so they were.

The pretty little church had been thought ill constructed for very elaborate floral adornment but its possibilities had been underrated. The platform, chancel and surroundings were neatly covered with white. Back of the platform there were profusions of ferns, palms and other graceful foliage.

The railing was trimmed with vines, and the organ too was draped with trailing greenery, with a large cluster of chrysanthemums crowning the whole. Circling the folding doors, leading into the anteroom, were garlands of ivy interspersed with white chrysanthemums; and the stained glass, Gothic windows were curtained with trailing vines and forest leaves; the chandeliers were covered with softest rose pink shades, and delicate sprays of smilax, lending an indescribable charm to the scene, when lighted. Immediately before the bridal party arrived Mrs. S. W. Heath of Kershaw, S. C., whose fame as a musician, and especially for rendering wedding marches, has gone abroad, touched the opening bars of a low, sweet accompaniment, and Mrs. J. H. Boudge sang in subdued tones, and with fine effect, "I Would Not Live Without Thee."

At the close of the last strain Mendelsohn's wedding march, famous for its stately chords, sounded, and soon the first heralds of the coming pageantry walked with dignified tread down the middle aisle.

The order was thus: First came the ushers, Messrs. Marion Witherspoon, Will Williams, Will Reed and Glenmore Barron. They marched two and two to the chancel, divided, crossed, and stood on opposite sides of the platform. Then came Miss Florence Thomasson, sister of the groom, with Mr. Charles Carter. They also crossed at chancel and passed to opposite sides on platform. Then came Miss Wanda Mobley of Blackstock, S. C., with Mr. D. Reece Williams, Jr., they likewise crossing at chancel and mounting separate sides of platform, as did also Miss Una Poyseur and Mr. Church Carroll of Yorkville, S. C., and Miss Florence Brown and Mr. John Crawford.

The bridesmaids were attired in white organdie and pink sashes and carried pink roses. Their gowns were decolets. The groomsmen were dressed in full evening suits, and wore a white chrysanthemum on lapel, as did also the ushers.

Then came Mrs. Glenmore Barron, dame of honor. She wore a white organdie, white sash and carried white chrysanthemums. She crossed to opposite side of platform. Then came Mrs. Will Reed, dame of honor. She wore white organdie, pink sash and carried pink chrysanthemums. She crossed and stood opposite the other dame of honor. Then followed the little flower girls, Misses Annie Carter McCrorey and Perry Belle Bennett. The former was robed in white organdie over white satin, and the latter in pink organdie over pink satin. They carried dainty aprons filled with violets. Last came the bride leaning on the arm of her maid of honor, Miss Lucretia Mobley of Blackstock, who wore a hand some dress of white organdie over pink taffeta, and carried bouquet of American Beauty roses. The bride was composed, stylish and lovely. Her wedding costume was magnificent. The gown was of pure white duchess satin, trimmed in pearl and exquisite ruchings and lace and the court train swept several yards. The veil of most delicate tulle swept with train, and was caught on coiffure with sunburst of diamonds and pearls, gift of the groom. She carried brides' roses and lace-like ferns tied with long streamers of white satin ribbon. Seldom do we behold so queenly a bride as was Mrs. Thomas Thomasson, nee Miss Addie Carter, as she stood on the platform in her superb marriage paraphernalia. The groom was handsome and proud, and faultlessly attired in full evening suit. He met the bride-elect at the altar; the best man, Mr. Paul T. McNeel of Yorkville, S. C., attended him, and stood at his elbow, ready to assist in the ring ceremony. He was stately and calm and elegantly attired in evening suit.

The whole party faced the audience, which is an improvement upon the old-fashioned way of turning the back. The marriage ceremony was conducted by Rev. Dr. S. A. Weber of Yorkville, assisted by Rev. J. M. Steadman, pastor Lancaster M. E. church. It was ritualistic, beautiful and binding.

As the married couple quitted the church the tiny flower girls preceded them, strowing their pathway with flowers from their aprons. Upon leaving the church the entire party, with a few friends, were driven to the residence of Capt. McCrorey, where a reception was given.

Bridal couple left on evening train for Chester, en route to Washington and other points.

The presents were numerous, choice and costly.

The morning of their life is sweet with promises: may their evening show the full realization.

A Thanksgiving Dinner.

Heavy eating is usually the first cause of indigestion. Repeated attacks inflame the mucous membranes lining the stomach, exposes the nerves of the stomach producing a swelling after eating, heartburn, headache, sour risings and finally catarrh of the stomach. Kodol relieves the inflammation, protects the nerves and cures the catarrh. Kodol cures indigestion, dyspepsia, all stomach trouble by cleansing and sweetening the glands of the stomach. ### JOY IN AN ANDERSON HOME

After 26 Years of Waiting the Storks Come in Pairs.

Special to The State.

Anderson, Nov. 6.—The happiest man in Anderson county at the present writing is Mr. W. W. Moore, a prominent citizen of the Piedmont section. Mr. Moore was married in 1876—just 26 years ago. He and his wife have lived happily together ever since, but no children had ever come to bless his home. Mr. Moore is on the shady side of the half century mark and his wife is in the 50th year. He had about made up his mind that the fates had been unkind to him, and that he would remain childless, but it is a long lane that has no turning, and last Thursday night his wife presented him with twins—a boy and a girl. The mother and little ones are getting along nicely, and Mr. Moore himself is in good shape.

These facts are given by people of that community, and Mr. Moore himself was in the city today. He is naturally overjoyed on account of his great good fortune. "The people of the city of Anderson are building cotton mills and trolley lines," he said today, "but the Piedmont section of the county is not to be sneezed at. I wouldn't swap my fortune for all the cotton mills and trolley lines in the country."
