SWEPT BY CYCLONE.

MANY PEOPLE KILLED

And Many Wounded—Thousands of Dollars Worth of Property Destroyed.

Gainesville, Ga., June 1.—A terrific force struck Gainesville this afternoon out of a clear sky, causing fearful loss of life in this city and New Holland and the surrounding country. It is not yet calculated at this hour the results are 85 men, women and children dead and perhaps more than 40 fatally injured, with a property loss of something like $300,000. The death list is yet imperfect, not all the bodies having been recovered and identified. Many of them were mangled beyond recognition, the only means of identification being the records of the two cotton mills in which most of the victims worked.

The death dealing storm appeared suddenly a little before 1 o'clock and within two minutes it had killed nearly 100 persons, torn two stories from the five-floor brick factory of the Gainesville Cotton mills, demolished 200 cottages, razed two brick stores to the ground and blown down innumerable outbuildings. By what appears to be a miracle; the tornado's fury was confined to the outskirts of the city, the main business and residence portion not being touched. Torrents of rain accompanied the wind, but within five minutes after its first onslaught the sun was shining upon a scene of fearful desolation.

The list of the dead is confined mainly to operatives of the Gainesville Cotton mills and the Pacolet Cotton mills, and two-thirds of them were women and children.

The tornado did its appalling work in such incredibly short time that it is difficult to get a coherent description of its character. It appears to have swept down from the southwest, striking the Gainesville mills with a roar like the report of artillery. After lifting two stories from this structure it swept on to the northward, leaving a trail of destruction along Summit street which is inhabited almost exclusively by negroes. Nearly 100 cottages of colored people on this street were leveled to the ground, but by a fortunate circumstance the tenants were all absent, having left the city in the morning to take part in a negro picnic.

The furious wind next descended on the plant of the Pacolet Cotton mills at New Holland, two miles from the Southern station. This is one of the largest cotton mills in the south, employing more than 600 hands. The storm spared the Pacolet factory, but entirely demolished 100 of its cottages, standing nearby and tenanted by its operatives. Here the fatalities were greatest, upwards of 35 persons being buried in the ruins of the cottages. Bodies were blown hundreds of yards and many of them when picked up bore no semblance to humanity. The trunk of one young man was found with the head decapitated as if by guillotine.

From New Holland the tornado swept onward to the east of White Sulphur, a town of about 100 persons. The extent of its destruction there cannot now be definitely told, but the reports so far received indicate considerable loss of life.

The bodies of most of the dead in the two cotton mills were fearfully torn and mangled; the skulls of many of them were crushed and the limbs broken; some were torn and crushed about the abdomen with the viscera visibly protruding. The local physicians who gave first aid to the injured say the sights were horrible beyond description. The death list is expected to be of much greater length by morning, as nearly all are believed to be hurt beyond hope of recovery.

His Last Hope Realized.

[From The Sentinel, Gebo, Mont.]
 In the first opening of Oklahoma to settlers in 1889, the editor of this paper was among the many seekers after fortune who made the big race one fine day in April. During his traveling about and afterwards his campaign upon his claim, he encountered much bad water, which, together with the severe heat, gave him a very severe diarrhoea which it seemed almost impossible to check, and along in June the case became so bad he expected to die. One day one of his neighbors brought him one small bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy as a last hope. A big dose was given him while he was rolling about on the ground in great agony, and in a few minutes the dose was repeated. The good effect of the medicine was soon noticed and within an hour the patient was taking his first good sleep for a fortnight. That one little bottle worked a complete cure, and he cannot help but feel grateful. The season for bowel disorders being at hand suggests this item. For sale by J. F. Mackey & Co., druggists.

We wish to say to our friends and former patrons that we intend to make this business very beneficial to the people of Lancaster and adjoining counties. We will sell for cash and make prices that will draw the cash trade. We will superintend this business personally. About one-half of our time will be spent here and you may depend on us to keep the ball rolling. Our manager, Mr. J. T. WYLIE, of Rock Hill, is a worthy young man, and knows how to push things along. He will carry out our methods of fair and just treatment to all. Next to Crawford Bros Drugstore. Yours to serve and to please.
