A TRAGEDY NEAR CLINTON.

Killing of J. L. Ramage by John G. Wham.

Special to News and Courier.

Clinton, July 9.—The town was thoroughly aroused to-day over the killing of J. Lafayette Ramage, residing near Laurens, by John G. Wham, a farmer living two miles west of Clinton, at 8 o'clock this morning, in Mr. Wham's back yard. The trouble arose regarding irregularities between a member of Mr. Tom Simpson's family, a nearby neighbor, and Mr. Wham, on Monday afternoon. It is understood that Mr. Simpson threatened the life of Mr. Wham and did go to Mr. Wham's house armed, but after having a talk returned without a difficulty. After telling the circumstances regarding his grievances, and with many advisers and others to help stir the sensation, he became futher incensed, but, influenced by others more conservative, delayed his action in the meantime, and this morning early Mrs. Wham, anxious to have the affair stopped without further trouble, went to the house of Mr. Ramage and asked him to come down and endeavor to quiet and pacify Mr. Simpson and many of his friends, who had by this time gathered at or near the residence of Mr. Wham. Mr. Ramage came at the request of Mrs. Wham, but some time after she had returned home, during which time Mr. Wham had armed himself and barricaded his house, feeling from the threats he had heard that his life was in danger. When Ramage arrived he stopped at or near Simpson's house, which is only a few hundred yards distant from Mr. Wham's, and where a crowd of Simpson's friends were gathered. Ramage and Reed Blakeley came down to Wham's house and asked to have a talk with him. Wham came out to the gate, spoke to and shook hands with Ramage. Ramage asked Wham to go with him over to Simpson's house, that they wanted to have a talk, and if possible a settlement of their grievances, and that Ramage would guarantee that Wham would not be hurt. Ramage asked Wham if he was armed. He said he was. Ramage asked him to disarm himself and come and go. Wham said: "Let me go in the house first," and turned to go in, when Mr. Reed, who was with Ramage at the gate, said: "You had better not let him go in the house." Whereupon Ramage asked him to stop, but Wham went on in to the house and Ramage walked around into the back yard, and just at this juncture Wham saw several men coming towards his house, and, not liking the movement of the crowd, ordered Reed and returned immediately, and started through his house towards the back. Finding Ramage there, he shot and killed him instantly and escaped to the woods. Mrs. Ramage entreated Ramage earnestly not to go back there; she fearing the result. There being no one else in the back yard, it was not known for two hours but what Wham was in the house still, and others feared to go to Mr. Ramage for all that while.

The house was finally searched and it was found that Wham had gone, which they presumed he did when he first shot Ramage. Wham used a 32-calibre Remington rifle, which was afterwards found buried in the sand not far from his house. Mr. Ramage fell face downward and had his pistol in his hand.

The sheriff was wired for and the governor asked for bloodhounds, which came to the scene at 2 o'clock, but could not follow the trail. There was much talk about lynching Wham at first, but after both sides had been considered, more conservative feelings prevailed. Under the circumstances many think Wham could not have done otherwise and others condemn him very severely.

Four or five hundred people went to the scene during the day. Wham came to his present home about five years ago from near Fountain Inn, S. C., and many of his friends from that place and Laurens came down today. He may be lynched if caught by Simpson's and Ramage's friends, but this is not likely. It is thought he will go to some place of safety and give himself up.

NEGROES IN INDIANAPOLIS.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 12.—Negro leaders in Indianapolis are taking steps to avert a race war. The Evansville riots and conflicts between the races in other cities have made them apprehensive of a similar outbreak here. An organization that is known as "The Negro Business League," has just been formed to rid the city of what the better element of the race calls the "Jim Crow" negro. The prime movers of this league are J. H. Lott, Dr. B. J. Morgan and A. E. Manning. Garley Brewer, editor of the World, the negro organ, who is supporting the movement, said today:

"It is very easy to determine who the shiftless, worthless negroes are. Agents of the Negro Business League will make inquiry concerning them, and those who will not work will be reported to the authorities with a request that they be driven out of town. This scheme of ridding the city of worthless negroes is both practical and sensible."

NEW STORY OF POPE'S ROOM.

Rome, July 12.—As many fantastic descriptions are in circulation regarding the room where Pope Leo lies, the representative of the Associated Press has taken some pains to secure an exact account from one of the Pope's nephews, who sees his uncle daily. The room is large, bright and airy. The walls are hung with pale green and gold silk damask. Entering it, with the sun pouring through the ample window, is like a taste of spring. A large curtain divides the room, and is generally drawn open, showing on the right the modest, narrow brass bed covered with a red damask coverlet. Even in his desperate condition, Pope Leo shows great daintiness with regard to his person, performing a full toilet whenever possible, and changing daily his fine white batiste night shirt. At the head of the bed is a good picture of the Madonna, beside a holy water font, while in the middle of the adjacent wall is an immense crucifix, reaching from floor to ceiling with an ivory figure of Christ. At the foot of the bed stands a very simple walnut writing desk, at which the Pope has written the best of his Latin poems. On the other side of the curtain stands the now famous arm chair, which is most comfortable; a small table, a few shelves with the Pope's preferred books and nothing more. The chamber gave the idea of extreme simplicity, luxuries being rigorously banished.

—The 17th annual meeting of the Tirzah Bible Society will be held at Tirzah church on Saturday, July 25th. The annual address will be delivered by Rev. T. C. Gulan of North Carolina.
