OPERA HOUSE FRIDAY.

What would you do if----

You were the son of a millionaire and you had more money than you knew what to do with;

And all your friends were harddrinking, happy-go-lucky young people:

And if you went to a masquerade party and while four sheets in the wind you wished an engagement ring on the finger of a young lady millionairess;

And you afterwards went cavorting around town in the costume of a knight of old with more than he could hold, finally ending up in the police court;

And if, after all this, your hardhearted dad bailed you out and then Voluntary Lessons from the Bible on shipped you off to one of his construction camps down on the Tennessee River where a dam was in the process of |construction ?-- what, under | Topic-Importance of Mission Study such circumstances as these, would you do, especially when you found that the sister of the construction superintendent was a pippin of a girl Miss Allie Babb, Sect. who made your heart do a quick-step whenever you looked into her eyes?
