Democratic Nominees.

- FOR PRESIDENT, STEPHEN GROVER CLEVELAND, OF New York. FOR VICE PRESIDENT, THOMAS A. HENDRICKS, OF Indiana. FOR GOVERNOR, HUGH S. THOMPSON, OF MISSISSIPPI...

HOW THEY STAND. We feel that a statement of the attitude of our candidates for the General Assembly towards the State University and the lien law, as already declared by themselves, will not prove uninteresting.

altered in this particular. He is in favor of the repeal of the lien law. We have not heard Mr. Hardy...

THE STATE HOUSE AND THE LEGISLATURE.

We wonder if our next Legislature will have the time and the will to take into consideration the completion of the State House. We think it about time for this matter to be acted upon...

In saying, last week, that the primary canvass in our county had not been managed at all, we meant no reflection upon the Executive Committee. It has not been regarded as one of the duties of that committee to manage the canvass.

If we had our way, and it is a fortunate thing that we have not, there would be only one box at each precinct, and all the officers would be voted for on one ticket.

Cleveland's letter of acceptance contains many elements of strength. It is marked by brevity, conciseness, clearness, and manliness. The sentences go straight to the mark, and the document does not at any point betray an inclination to dodge the leading issues of the day.

We state, as a matter of information, that the college in Columbia is not the South Carolina University, as some persons suppose. In 1878 the University was divided into two branches...

Cleveland is a great man. A Republican editor says that he buys his trousers by the acre. Blaine, too, is a great man. He buys his railroad stocks by the thousand...

Editor Crews, of Laurens, has come to the conclusion that the result of a primary election is as doubtful as the verdict of a petit jury.

The Greenville News very pointedly remarks on the attitude assumed by the negroes in Charleston, Sumter and other parts of the State, in relation to the killing of Prince Down and Mose Williams, by policemen while endeavoring to arrest them.

Mr. Pope, candidate for the House, would not be opposed to a real university, if the State could support one, but he will not vote an appropriation to the present "so-called" University. His view of the Constitutional provision is similar to that of Mr. Sligh.

He is in favor of the repeal of the lien law. He thinks that the law has, from the time of its enactment, been a curse to our people and a disgrace to our state books.

Mr. Schumpert, candidate for the House, will feel bound to vote an appropriation to the State University as long as the Constitution directs that the "General Assembly shall provide for its maintenance."

How was one of the most notorious bad negroes that ever outraged a community. All the States will elect presidential electors on Tuesday, November 4. The electors then chosen will meet in their respective State capitals on Wednesday, December 3, and cast their ballots for President and Vice President of the United States.

THE MAN OF THE PEOPLE.

GROVER CLEVELAND'S LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

A Cordial Endorsement of the Democratic Platform - A Masterly View of the Labor Question - An Honest, Simple and Plain Government the Need of the Country - One Term a Guarantee of Purer Administrations.

ALBANY, N. Y., August 19, 1884. The following letter was received to-day by Col. Lamont, Secretary to Governor Cleveland, who is at upper Saranac Falls, with instruction to make it public on its receipt:

ALBANY, N. Y., August 18, 1884. GENTLEMEN: I have received your communication dated July 18th, 1884, informing me of my nomination to the office of President of the National Democratic Convention lately assembled at Chicago. I accept the nomination with grateful appreciation of the supreme honor conferred and a solemn sense of the responsibility which in its acceptance I assume.

I have carefully considered the platform adopted by the Convention and cordially approve the same. So plain a statement of the Democratic faith and principles upon which that party appeals to the suffrages of the people needs no supplement or explanation. It should be remembered that the office of President is essentially executive in its nature.

When an election to office shall be held by the voters of any one of their number to assume for the time a public trust, instead of his dedication to a profession of policies, when the holder of the ballot, quickened by a sense of duty, shall avenge truth betrayed and pledges broken, and when the suffrage shall be free, untrammelled and uncorrupted, a full realization of government by the people will be attained.

A true American sentiment recognizes the dignity of labor, and the fact that honest labor is an element of national prosperity. The ability to work constitutes the capital and the wages of labor is the income of a vast number of our population, and this interest should be sacredly protected. Our workmen are not asking unreasonable indulgence, but as intelligent and manly citizens they seek the same consideration which those demand who have other interests at stake.

As related to the subject of immigration, we should not discourage the immigration of those who come to acknowledge allegiance to our government and add to our citizen population, yet as a means of protection to our workmen, a different rule should prevail concerning those who, if they come, or are brought to our land, do not intend to become Americans but will injuriously compete with those justly entitled to our field of labor.

In the letter of acceptance of my nomination to the office of Governor of New York nearly two years ago I made the following statement to which I have steadily adhered: "The laboring classes constitute the main part of our population. They are entitled to protection in their efforts to gain a livelihood by their own labor, and their rights when endangered by aggregated capital, and all statutes on this subject should recognize the care of the State for honest toil and be framed with a view of improving the condition of the workingman."

In a free country the entrenchment of the absolute rights of individuals should only be such as is essential to the peace and good order of the community. The limit between the proper subjects of government at central and those which can be more fittingly imposed to the moral sense and self-imposed restraint of the citizen, should be carefully kept in view.

The commerce of the nation to a great extent determines its supremacy. Cheap and easy transportation should, therefore, be liberally fostered within the limits of the constitution. The general government should so intervene as to protect natural waterways and enable the producers of the country to reach a profitable market.

The people pay the wages of the public employes and they are entitled to the fair and honest work for which the money thus paid should command. It is the duty of those entrusted with the management of these affairs to see that such public service is forthcoming. The selection and retention of subordinates in the government employ should depend upon their ascertained fitness to do the work for which they should be expected not allowed to do questionable party service.

The opportunity of public labor and duty, with improved public employments, will be open to all who can demonstrate their fitness to enter it; unseasonably scramble for place under the government, with the consequent intimacy which embitters official life, will cease, and the public department will be filled with those who conceive it to be their first duty to add the party to which they owe their places, instead of rendering a patient and honest return to the people.

I believe that the voters of this State are entitled to the selection of a party which gives the best promise of administering the government in the honest, simple and plain manner which is consistent with its character and purposes. They have learned that my party are people who care only for the welfare of their affairs over tricks and betrayal. The statesmanship they require consists in honesty and frugality, a prompt response to the needs of the people as they arise, and a vigilant protection of all their varied interests.

If I should be called to the chief magistracy of the nation by the suffrages of my fellow-citizens, I will assume the duties of that high office with the solemn determination to deliberate with care, to do the country's work faithfully and honestly, and when the favor and support of that Supreme Being who I believe will always bless honest human endeavors in the conscientious discharge of public duty.

THE LANGLEY MILL SENDS GREETING TO THE NEWBERRY COTTON FACTORY.

Editors Newberry Herald: Your town will soon have a fine cotton factory in operation, and I do hope it will prove a success, with Mr. R. L. McLaughlin as President and Mr. Hollbrook as Superintendent.

Langley is a beautiful village of nine hundred people, situated in the South, about eight miles from Augusta, Ga. The Langley Mill is running full time, under the management of Mr. M. F. Foster.

HENDRICKS' LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE.

A MODEL OF BREVITY AND DIGNITY. From the Columbia Register.

The Journal of Education, a weekly published at Boston, contains in a recent number an interesting article by F. E. Bushnell, of Prosperity, S. C., on "Culture in the Cotton States." Mr. Bushnell has of late, in several readable articles, shown a commendable desire to advance the moral and intellectual interests of our people.

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., August 20, 1884. Gentlemen: I have the honor to acknowledge the receipt of your communication notifying me of my nomination by the Democratic Convention at Chicago as a candidate for the office of Vice-President of the United States.
