Brief Paragraphs Giving Some of the Happenings of the World of Men.

Almost crazed from their sufferings, frostbitten and helpless, ten men were picked up by the schooner Manhasset Sunday, forty-five miles off Highland Light. Then for the first time it was learned that the schooner Frank A. Palmer and Lonise B. Cray had been in collision, and that they had been sunk off Thatcher's Island, on the New England coast on Wednesday evening. The survivors were landed Monday. Of the twenty-one men that made up the two crews six were carried down when the two vessels sank, four died during the terrible three days drift in Massachusetts Bay, and another became insane and jumped overboard. With no food or water, their clothes frozen in solid masses, and their boat being steadily driven before a bitter gale out into the Atlantic, it seemed remarkable that so many survived.

The flight from her home on the night of December 11, of the Crown Princess of Saxony, has created a tremendous sensation in Saxony. No trace of the whereabouts of the royal lady has been found, and it was only this week that the truth of the rumor that she had fled was learned by the public. The cause of the disappearance is not known.

The latest reports are to the effect that President Roosevelt may consent to act as arbitrator between Germany, Italy and England, on the one hand, and Venezuela on the other.

Six buildings were destroyed by fire in Knoxville Monday morning. The loss will reach a point between a half million and a million dollars.

The graded school and auditorium building at Pelzer, S. C., was destroyed by fire Monday morning. The building, valued at $10,000, was fully covered by insurance.

Germany is not behind in the matter of trusts. Two of the largest companies in that country have formed an electric trust, with a united capital of over one hundred million dollars, which, it is thought, will swallow all the other electric companies.

A PECULIAR FATHER.

Mr. Carnegie Does Not Believe in Bestowing Wealth Upon Children.

New York, Dec. 23.—The Evening Post prints the following:

"In our real estate columns yesterday in our reference to the sale by Mr. Carnegie to Mr. Burden of certain lots in the 'Highlands' of Fifth avenue we spoke of Mr. Carnegie's own house, which is to be a Christmas gift to his little daughter. This item had been printed before, and we took it to be an undisputed fact. We now learn that it has no foundation whatever and that nothing could be less in harmony with the ideas of Mr. and Mrs. Carnegie than that their daughter should now, or ever, be burdened with great wealth. Least of all is she to be taught while in youth that she has 'great expectations' or any expectations at all beyond a moderate competence. Neither of her parents deems great wealth a desirable present for morning life, or for any part of life, except as it may be employed for the advancement of the human race."

In speaking of Mrs. Leslie Carter's future, Mr. Bolasco recently said that on her return from Europe next year she would revive "Du Barry" for three weeks and would then make her first appearance in a Shakespearean role, playing "Lady Macbeth."

WILL DYE FOR YOU. YOU WILL learn some day that it pays you to let us dye that old suit for you or clean and press it. All work is guaranteed to be first class. Thousands of satisfied customers will tell you so. We are not playing for your dollars only; we are playing for the future too. Come and test the truth of our talk. The Newberry Laundry.

BRIDGE KEEPER FOULLY MURDERED.

W. F. Hudson Found Dead in His Room Near Camden With Gaping Wound in His Back.

[The State.]

Friday night one of the most shocking murders ever recorded in the criminal annals of South Carolina was committed on the outskirts of Camden. W. F. Hudson, a young man about 26 years of age, and the keeper of the toll bridge across the Wateree river on the road to Columbia was found lying dead across his bed with a gaping wound in his back. The murder had evidently been executed by means of a double barreled shot gun and the wound indicated that both barrels had been discharged.

No cause can be assigned for the crime. Mr. Hudson was a highly respected young man and was thought to have no enemies. It was rumored that he had become engaged in a difficulty with some gypsies who had been encamped near the town but this is improbable.

The crime was brutal in the extreme and speedy vengeance will be dealt the murderer if caught. At present every effort is being made to disclose his identity.

St. Paul's Items.

Our pastor, Rev. J. A. Sligh, has moved from his plantation at Slighs, S. C., to the parsonage. We are glad to have him in our midst.

There will be a Christmas tree at St. Paul's Christmas eve at nine o'clock. Everybody who wishes to can put on the tree anything they wish for their friends. After the contents of the tree have been distributed, the ladies of the missionary society will serve in the school-house hot oysters, and everything else that is good to eat. They will also have amusements such as grab bag, and come and see what all else. You'll be pleased. The net proceeds are for missions.

The officers of the church have let contract to build tenant house and to ceil cooking and dining hall at parsonage. All work has been completed.

Mr. T. A. Epting is fixing to keep warm while eating this winter. He is building a double fire-place chimney to his cooking and dining department.

Mr. Geo. Livingston is putting up a residence near the Margaret Kinard place.

Mr. G. B. Aull is preparing to build a tenant house.

Mr. George Richardson, near here, has moved to the Newberry cotton mill.

Pigs are in demand. I never saw such hustling around for pigs and shoats. They are scarce.

We have, for a while at least, stopped the odor of compound lard, mostly cotton seed oil. We are eating spare ribs, pudding and sausage.

Mrs. Push has pushed four large turkeys into a pen and is pushing food in to have them fat and plump for Xmas.

Mr. Thaddeus Epting expects to be home Christmas.

Mr. Editor, we are not going to quarrel, but we would like to know what became of our last scribbling to The Herald and News. We lost some time and a two-cent stamp. Trusting this won't share the same fate, I am the same.

[Sorry we can't tell you. It did not reach us.—Ed. H. & N.]

Resolutions of Thanks.

Resolved, 1st. That we hereby tender our sincere thanks and deep appreciation to our worthy and esteemed Bro. Rev. W. J. Snyder for his kindness and consideration.

Resolved, 2nd. That we hereby acknowledge the fact that the so very appropriate and fine sermon preached by him has not alone been appreciated by all present, but that we feel the great good that it has already accomplished to the Order, to every member, as well as to the entire community.

YOUR NEIGHBORS KNOW YOU can learn that the Newberry Steam Laundry will give you satisfaction in anything in their line. Why don't you patronize home people?

FOR WHICH WE RETURN THANKS.

The Newberry Herald and News deserves the very greatest praise for its very excellent daily gotten out during the conference in that city. The proceedings of a conference have never been handled better in any town in the State than they were in Newberry by the local paper. We hope that Brother Aull made a financial success of the enterprise.—Florence Times.

Col. E. H. Aull who, for some time past, had been publishing his paper, the Newberry Herald and News twice a week, issued his paper daily last week during the session of the Methodist Conference in that city, giving full and authentic reports. That was commendable newspaper enterprise—Laurinsville Herald.

The Newberry Herald and News did the handsome thing by the Methodist Conference, which met in that city during the past week, in publishing daily such interesting accounts of the proceedings of that body, and the portraits of so many of the earnest workers in that denomination—Union Progress.

THE POLICE DOGS OF GHEENT.

How they are Trained to the Duties of Town Constables.

(Science Siftings.)

Most people know how prominent a part is played by the dog in Belgium. But the Belgian dog has not stopped here. He is an ambitious creature. He is not content to do naught but slave. He has, in fact, aspired to the law with such good effect that he has become one of its limbs, and now plays the part of policeman, and with such good results, too, that crime in that particular district partrolled by him is said to have diminished two-thirds since his entry into the force. It is at Gheent that the dog has become a recognized member of the regular town constabulary. The dogs are taught by means of dummy figures made up as much as possible to represent the thieves and dangerous characters they may be likely to meet.

How much patience is needed by him who undertakes this particular form of education only those who have tried to train animals will properly appreciate. The dog must be taught to seek, to attack, to seize and to hold, without hurting seriously. The first step is to place the dummy in such a position that it shall represent a man endeavoring to conceal himself. The dog soon understands that it is an enemy that he must hunt, and enters into this part of his lessons "con amore," but it is not so easy to teach him not to injure it. The teacher lowers the figure to the ground, and the dog learns that, though he may not worry his prey, he must not allow his fallen foe to stir so much as a finger until the order is given. After the dummy a living model is used, and as this process obviously is not entirely without danger, the person chosen for this purpose is usually he who ministers to the pupil's creature comforts, and for whom the canine detective is sure to entertain a grateful affection. Nevertheless he is prevented at first by means of a muzzle from an exhibition of too much zeal. Afterward the experiment is tried on other members of the force, and in four months the dog's education as a policeman is considered complete, and he takes his place with the rest. The animals are also taught to swim, and to seize their prey in the water; to save life from drowning; to scale walls, and to overcome all obstacles; so that any enterprising burglar who goes "a-burgling" in Gheent has a lively time of it if he meets with one of these four-footed "bobbies."

There are at present in this old town sixteen of these accomplished animals. They all belong to the sheepdog breed, but besides Belgian there are also Russian and De la Brie dogs. In the day they take their well-earned rest in comfortable loose boxes attached to the head station of the police. But at 10 o'clock their duties begin, and scarcely has the hour chimed from the old belfry above their heads when they set up a deafening chorus of barks as if to show their eagerness to get to work. They are on duty till 6 the next morning, and do not seem at all fatigued by their long hours. Those who know how thoroughly a dog enters into sport of all kinds will quite appreciate the intense excitement the animal feels in his new profession. They wear a uniform consisting of a leather collar strongly bound with steel and armed with sharp points to repel those attacks which might be expected from the enemies of law and order and bearing the name of the dog and address, with the date of its birth. Just as the policeman has his mackintosh cape for bad weather so has his little four footed helper; a neat, serviceable waterproof coat being ready for him on stormy nights. The various chains, coats and collars all hang neatly on pegs beneath the room, where a kind madam is their admiring waiting maid. They are well looked after in every way, and their private medical man, the town "vet," calls frequently to inquire after their health. Each dog accompanies a policeman on his nightly rounds, and walks the regular beat with him. The dog is not only very fond of his own particular human comrade, but evinces a wonderful professional "esprit de corps."
