

OUT AMONG THE PEOPLE

SENTIMENTAL OR HUNGRY
We want The Sun to be known as a homey, folksy sort of newspaper. We want the aroma of the soil about it. In other words we want to be old fashioned; sort of horse and buggy like. So, a policy in this direction would be to swap our wares for those of our rural friends. Hams, potatoes butter, eggs, meat, will be given a warm and gracious reception at our sanctum. If you like the old system of trade and barter you'll find here a kindred soul. Bring on a ham and let's talk over the good old days when ham was a medium of exchange. Mayhaps we'll cry a little over the lost glories of the simple days we loved so well. Its always good form to water a trade a bit anyway.

THE PROFESSOR OPENS UP

Prof. Dude Epting cast so much flowery language at our first issue until we blushed like a 15 year old girl. Out of his vast reservoir the professor dished great handfuls of pleasing words and splashed them about with lavish hand. We can't begin to tell you all he said—we wouldn't know how to spell those great words, but he wound up with a language that we understood. "If I had a dollar" said he, superfluous sincerity registering on his highly intellectual features "I would give it to you for the paper." Thank you profusely professor. We wish more than anything that you had a dollar, and we hope The Sun will not have had many journeys across the inverted bowl of public scrutiny ("How're we doin'") ere you acquire a buck and join the ranks of those happy people who even now have let the little Sun-shine in.

JOE MISQUOTED

A long and persistent ring on number one found Attorney Joe Hiott on the other end of the line greatly agitated about our quoting him as saying Clemson would win the big game last Thursday. Joe says he told the inquiring reporter that Carolina would win "and as a matter of fact" he said "they did win in the first three minutes of play." Joe is a graduate of Carolina and has a brother at Clemson, so you see what a rickety we put him in. We trust Carolina men will deal kindly with Joe. It was all our fault.

LOSERS NO TIME

After a period of longing for the output of this individual, Mr. Hayne Folk rushed in Saturday and subscribed for a year and now looks forward to a life of happiness and contentment since we are back again to keep him informed and enlightened. He is here with Mrs. Richard Hipp, his daughter, on a shopping tour. "When I got back from the Fair Friday night and found your paper at home I was surprised and delighted," said Mr. Folk. And of course it makes us feel none the worse to have such

MOVES TO SISTER STATE

The old Herald and News Duplex press which has ground out thousands of papers and circulars in the past 20 or more years it has been in Newberry, left the city yesterday to take up residence in Newbern, N. C., about 300 miles distant. The old machine is said to have been made about 40 years ago.

It fell the lot of this writer to make what was by far the largest "run" ever made on the press—that of 75,000 6 page papers used in a political campaign. The late Colonel Aull purchased the press from one where in New Jersey as we recall, paying $1,500 for it. A mechanic charged the recent purchaser $175 to dismantle and erect it.

The old press would cut up occasionally just when needed most and it took many a cussin' from the force. Within the next few weeks a new sheet will be "put to be" on it but we wonder if it will ever feel right again without the Herald nestling on its bosom and the enduring words it took on the chin so many, many times. However, most printers are excellent cussers and chances are it will feel at home even before "30" is written on the first run.

DOCTOR TRABERT PLEASED

The publishers are deeply grateful for the encouraging remarks of Dr. Charles L. Trabert about our first issue. He backed up his remark with his subscription. Having been associated with the doctor in publication of the Herald his good wishes mean much.

SCURRY IN CHARGE

Clarence Summer who does a days work before breakfast, another after supper, with a couple sandwiched in between, has opened his hardware and plumbing supply store on Boyce street. B. M. (Boo) Scurry holds forth as manager. Boo is an old hardware man and knows his barbed wire. The place is very attractive. Shelves and display booths, work of Robert Epting, Jr., is fine and reveals Robert as a finished artisan. Like father, like son, Robert is a very industrious lad. He makes fine grades at the Citadel and puts in his summers at profitable employment. Mr. Summer invites you to visit his new store and we invite Mr. Summer to buy some advertising space and repeat the invitation.

Noted Evangelist To Start Meeting

The pastor of Aveleigh, the Rev. C. A. Calcote wishes to again give notice of the approaching date of the meeting and it is hoped that no conflict in Newberry events will be experienced at that time.

Tentative plans are to hold the morning services at Aveleigh church and, if necessary, hold the evening services at the high school auditorium.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE CUTS OIL BURNING STILL

"It was a beautiful outfit" said Deputy J. C. Neel in telling us about an oil burning still the sheriff's office captured the other day and his description convinced us it was just that. The still got its power from an arrangement of eight oil burners which were encased in sheet iron to support the boiling vats. The oil tank, according to Mr. Neel was made from an old Ford gasoline tank, cut down in size to hold just enough kerosene to operate a certain number of hours.

The still was found in an outhouse at the home of Boyd Oxner and was silently doing its work when officers broke in on it.

Officers at first were puzzled as to the location of the still but on searching about the premises Deputy Neel heard a noise as of something boiling in a little outhouse and broke down the door. The still was manufacturing the liquid fire right along without assistance, and we imagine Deputy Neel really hated to give the cute little booze mill the works.

WICKER IS WINNER BY THREE VOTE MARGIN

M. K. (Buck) Wicker, son of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Wicker was elected alderman for Ward 4 in the primary held Tuesday. He won by three votes over White Bullock. New council will be made up of Mayor J. W. Earhardt and councilmen Floyd, Wicker, Shealy, Whitaker and Clark. They take office in December. Personnel of council will be the same as heretofore except for Messrs. Floyd and Wicker.

JUDGE A JOURNALIST

Believe it or not Judge Blease was once a newspaper man. Back in 1897 he operated the Saluda Sentinel for about 6 months, his journalistic experience costing him about $200.

TRULY A GENTLEMEN

There is one Newberry man who pursues his unassuming way day in and day out with little public notice but who is one of the best men we have ever known. If he has any temper we have never seen him display it. He works hard to provide for the family which adores him. He is a kindly gentleman in every sense of the word and it gives us pleasure to say this little world for "Uncle Walt" Davis. This would be a less troublesome world if there were more like him.

Civic Leaguers Hear Dr. Ben Wyman

The Civic League held an enthusiastic meeting at the home of Mrs. Herman Wright Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. Dr. Ben Wyman from the State Department of Health was the guest speaker for the afternoon. He was accompanied by Dr. Grady Callison who is remembered in Newberry as a former county health director.

Dr. Wyman's message was one which all progressive Newberry citizens are most interested in—public health. Many counties of the state are enjoying a fine health program as directed by the State Board of Health. The time is opportune for Newberry city and county to combine the work now done by two separate units and give to the 1200 citizens of Newberry the same efficient health program which the men, women, and children of the county now enjoy.

Dr. Wyman reported at this meeting that another full time nurse will be added in the near future to assist Miss Leightsey in the health work in the county.

Hundreds of school children throughout the county will profit by periodic examinations and preventive measures relative to disease. While the county children derive this benefit, the city children are deprived of this extensive health program. The cooperative health program which all citizens of Newberry should concern themselves about will bring the same benefit to all city children and will assure the public that the Standard Milk Ordinance is being carried out to the letter of the law.

The new program will also assure proper inspection of meats and foods and the hope is that Newberry may have an abattoir in the near future.

One hundred public-spirited women of the Civic League pledged to the city officials in authority their efforts and support of any measure passed which has in mind a more progressive health program for Newberry city and county.

Mrs. J. H. Summer,
President of Civic League

Maintenance Shop To County Home

The Newberry county highway maintenance shop has been moved to the county home and is housed there in buildings designed for it by the supervisor's office.

The shop for a number of years has been located on lower Main street and Supervisor Holland Ruff brought to the attention of the new delegation at its first meeting the inconvenience and extra cost of the location over that of the county home. Mr. Ruff pointed out that all machines had to be brought to the city to be refueled or repaired, entailing expense which would be dispensed with if all county activities were centralized.

The delegation asked Attorney Clarkson to look into the matter of disposing of the old building with an eye to using the funds to erect buildings at the home. No one seemed to want the building and the supervisors office set about to erect buildings out of savings of funds on hand. A good job has been done which will result in considerable savings.

At the suggestion of Commissioner Paul Haile a new system of accounting has been installed at the shop. With this system anyone may tell at a glance just what each man and machine is doing; the cost of operating each machine, and the amount of scraping or hauling done each day. Requisitions and Purchase orders forms are provided for use in obtaining supplies and through the use of these responsibility for all material is fixed.

"Uncle Walt" Davis will occupy the old building with his auto repair shop.

Action was postponed as there were only four members of council present.

WE THE PEOPLE SPEAK---

Do you think the government should control production of crops?

Chalmers Brown—
"I'm heartily in favor of a control acreage plan."

Miss Maggie Thomasson—
"Something certainly should be done about the cotton crop. Of course the government controls some crops now, but it looks like they will have to go further."

B. M. Scurry—
"If the farmer can't take care of himself, the government will have to. I'm in favor of government control of crops."

Mrs. Hugh Boyd—
"I'm not much of a farmer, so I couldn't say. We don't have much this year to control."

C. A. Dufford—
"Yes, I think they should."
