OUT AMONG THE PEOPLE

SAM BACK HOME

Our friend Sam C. Hiller of West End stopped in Saturday to say he was glad to note we were back in the newspaper game, and he backed up this sentiment with a years subscription. Sam was always a loyal "Herald" reader and we are glad to have him on the Sun list.

PROMINENT OR NOTORIOUS

A letter intended for us and simply addressed "Ott, Newberry, S. C." was duly received Saturday from Union and we haven't been able to figure out whether we are just that prominent or just notorious to that extent. The facetiously inclined Mr. George Goodman was the sender of the letter. George was former publisher of The Herald and is now sweating with the Union Times, a daily of some 20 years, capably edited by "Preacher" Rice who always says what he thinks thru the columns of the Times.

SUSPICIOUS, EH?

Newspaper Editors sometimes get into trouble through proof-reading errors. Publishing the following story caused an editor to leave town: "Mrs. John Breinlinger presented her husband with an eight pound baby girl on Thursday. The happy parents have the congratulations of all on this suspicious event."

RAMBLINGS OF THE CAT

Out and to the Davis Motor company where a roomful of pretty new Chevies are displayed and informed "Tince" Davis at the capital. Doctor Lominick hurrying down street but without speaking pleasantly. In to Bell's store where much trafficking was in progress amid a storeful of pretty Christmas things. Miss Louise Shealy to say many Newberry county boys were now in CCC camps in Oregon, four of them from the Little Mountain section. To the light plant and Clarence Werts stamping addresses on January bills with the aid of Tom Harmon and he to tell of cracking a torpedo under a friend's foot and then to the more serious matter of saying he enjoyed reading the Sun paper. Claude Sanders with the "awfulest" cold he ever enjoyed and covered with warm blankets beneficial and delectable. C. K. Fulmer of Little Mountain in to subscribe. Likewise Mrs. Alberta and J. B. Coward.

Christmas calls for the best in candy — and we have Whitman's

TURNER WANTS FEDERAL AID

"The most important advantage of a program of Federal support of our public schools is the equal educational opportunities that would be afforded children of all states," said B. R. Turner, newly elected supervisor of industrial education of the state department of education, in his address before the county teachers association meeting Thursday afternoon in the high school building.

In developing his talk on the subject, "Federal Aid For Public Schools" Mr. Turner told of how the unit of support of public schools had grown from township control to state management. "Since we have passed over the control of schools by local communities, cities, and states, we are turning to the nation to help finance our schools because the inequality between states is very great indeed," said Mr. Turner.

"I wonder if you have ever stopped to think what the Federal government is doing for education," continued Mr. Turner, as he pointed out that the government had, in the past, given lands from which the revenue was to be used for the support of education; has encouraged vocational teaching in the schools, and has always been interested in the extension work of schools and colleges. "Still it's not just what we want," he stated "because the great mass of people is not being reached. We want aid in our day schools for better educational facilities and better citizenship training."

"We may expect to give up certain individual and state's rights," continued Mr. Turner as he spoke of the dangers in getting a great deal of Federal aid. Stating that some states were wealthier than others, therefore provided means for better school facilities, the state educational officer remarked, "The government should collect the wealth where it is and spend it on the children where they are."

"We hope the Federal government is mindful of the evils of central control of schools, but are at the same time mindful of the benefits from actively taking over financing the school program," concluded the speaker.

G. A. Lindler, president of the association was presiding over the second gathering of the county teachers during this school year. After the principal address at the general meeting, a brief business session was held.

Mr. Turner spoke in place of Gov. Olin D. Johnston who was scheduled to speak, but was unable to do so on account of being detained in Columbia.

Preceding the general meeting at four o'clock, departmental meetings were held with W. H. Ward, head of the extension division at the University of South Carolina, addressing the high school teachers; Mrs. Mae Aull, county attendance officer who addressed intermediate teachers, and Prof. O. B. Cannon who addressed teachers of primary grades.

Senn States Economy Must Be The Keynote

Following is an interview with J. Claud Senn which appeared in the Columbia State Tuesday. Mr. Senn said the local delegation would in all probability hold another open meeting this year, perhaps the week after Christmas, to hear appeals or suggestions from the people. "I have not talked to the Senator about it" said Mr. Senn "But I am sure he favors the open meeting instituted last year as he was pleased with the results of the first meeting."

"Economy must be the guiding light" at the next session, asserted Representative J. Claud Senn.

A Newberry merchant, he said cotton growers in his county were "terribly hit" by hail early in the summer and later by the boll weevil.

Mr. Senn went further and said, "economy should be the first consideration in everything that comes up at the next session."

Farmers in Newberry County, he added, "simply won't be able to pay taxes."

"I can't speak for the other counties, but I believe that there are others that are just as bad off as ours. We will hear plenty of stories when the session starts. . . . Except for the cotton, things are not so bad, but cotton means so much to so many counties that it naturally will be felt when it is lost."

St. Philips News

Church Notes
Pastor J. A. Keisler, on Sunday afternoon preached his last sermon for us, there was a large crowd in attendance. It seemed he was very much touched, and regretted to leave us. The congregation seemed very sad. He will take up his work at Tom's Brook, Virginia, next Sunday. He has two churches about two and a half miles apart. We will have a live wire although he is only a supply until we are able to get a preacher, that is Dr. J. B. Hammon. His first sermon will be the fourth Sunday, which is the second Christmas day at 3:30 in the afternoon. I trust he will have a good attendance. I feel sure everyone will enjoy hearing him bring forth the message.

There has been some talk of building a parsonage, but talking does not amount to much unless it is put to use.

I would be anxious to see the people take action. The members of St. Philips are able to do the work.

I notice some of those having electric lights have already decorated their homes with them for Christmas.

It makes you think of Christmas when you see the tree with many colors of lights on it. I am proud to see this spirit beginning to grow in the hearts of the people. Christmas time is a joyous time. At least everyone should make it so. Not by having big dances and getting drunk, but by rejoicing in the day which is set aside for the birth of our Saviour.

Here's a nice gift you boys and girls can give to mother and dad. Go to the Sun office and give them a subscription for one year, this they will enjoy reading. How rapidly the year has gone by. It seems only a short while since last Christmas. I will write only one more time then Christmas will be here.

Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Keisler
The Community is very sorry and regret very much in giving up Rev. and Mrs. J. A. Keisler, Jr. moving from the community. During his stay here he has been an outstanding pastor. For the past two years and four months it has been our privilege to be associated with Rev. and Mrs. Keisler in their work at the St. Paul's Parish and we are sorely sorry to have them leave us. In the resignation of Rev. Keisler we feel that we have lost a sincere and faithful pastor and friend and shall miss their presence among us. We wish them great success in their new field of work.

A surprise to their many friends was the wedding of Miss Willie Mae Riche and Fred Richardson, which took place Saturday evening, December 11th, by the bride's pastor, Rev. J. S. Wessinger. Mrs. Richardson is the daughter of Mrs. Fannie Riche of Little Mountain. Mr. Richardson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Richardson. They will make their home with the bride's parents.

Rev. J. A. Keisler was a welcome visitor at the Jolly Street school Monday morning at the chapel period. He conducted the devotionals and gave a very worth while talk to the students and all that were present.

His address was very sad to us, because one would class it as being a fare-well address. But he left many worthwhile and profitable words for everyone to let his memory linger in their hearts for years to come.

Mrs. Eddie Dunn Richardson entertained at her home Saturday afternoon with a miscellaneous shower, honoring her sister-in-law, Miss Nancy Ruth Richardson a bride elect of December.

Bingo and contests were enjoyed throughout the afternoon.

Miss Ruth Boineast won the bingo prize. Others winning prizes were Miss Roralie Richardson and Miss Ruth Werts. Miss Richardson received many nice and useful gifts.

The hostess served delicious hot chocolate, sandwiches, cookies and buttered peacans.

MINISTER LAUDS CAPTAIN SANDERS

Final rites for Capt. J. Olin Sanders 61, slain Sunday morning by one of six desperate convicts in a futile effort were conducted at 12:30 Monday were conducted at 12:30 yesterday from the Dunbar Funeral home by the Rev. S. K. Phillips, pastor of Arsenal Hill Presbyterian church and prison chaplain.

High state officials and friends of Captain Sanders crowded the home for the services. A profusion of floral tributes filled to overflowing the room in which the body lay.

"I am the resurrection and the life. . . ." the Rev. Mr. Phillips began. He followed with the 23rd Psalm and verses from the 14th chapter of John and the seventh chapter of Revelations.

The Rev. Mr. Phillips paid tribute to the life of Captain Sanders and to the fearless way in which he faced death.

"When I was a student at Richmond university," the pastor said, "I knew Dr. George McDaniel pastor of the First Baptist church."

"He was from the Texas plains where men often took the law into their own hands. He told me once of a visit he had made to a home which had been struck by a double tragedy. Two prominent Texas judges, brothers, had been shot down by the lawless criminals. Their friends came to their home, heavily armed, and bitter feeling made a riot seem imminent."

"They were trying to control themselves, asking God's help, when suddenly the door opened. There in the other rooms were the caskets, side by side. The 12-year-old daughter of the eldest judge, dressed in white, knelt beside the caskets.

"O God," she prayed, "two wicked men have killed daddy and Uncle Jim, and broken up our home. O God, forgive those men and save their souls for Jesus' sake, amen."

"Friends that is high respects the mind to which the Lord calls us. May the spirit of that little girl be with us today."

"We are not worried about our friend. He was a brave man and never winced or quavered. He died in performance of his duty."

"Those representing the state pledge themselves afresh that the dignity of the law shall always be upheld and rigidly enforced."

"May the Lord comfort our hearts and help us carry on like our brother, who carried on faithfully to the end the duties he had assumed."

The Rev. W. M. Downs, pastor of the First Nazareth Baptist church and negro chaplain of the penitentiary sang "Unclouded Day."

WE THE PEOPLE SPEAK

Do you think the present business slump will soon spend itself?

Z. F. Wright, cotton manufacturer: "I think it is just temporary and I believe things will pick up about February or March."

L. A. Wilson, Contractor: "No, I don't think so."

Homer Schumpert, superintendent of lights and water: "I think so if the war situation clears up. Otherwise, I'm afraid not."

J. H. Clary, Merchant: "That is a hard question to answer. If people would stop talking about hard times so much, maybe times wouldn't be so hard. I've been through several depressions and this isn't as bad as people think. It just takes work to keep going."

J. N. Beard, merchant: "I think it is more or less a feeling of fear, and I believe after Christmas when people settle down to work again, business will go on as usual."

Sheriff Cannon G. Blease, Deputy Tom Campbell, and Mr. O. S. Goree, three big Red Men, went to Whitnire and enjoyed an oyster supper given by the Red Men at that place. A nationwide campaign to complete the enrollment of our force in conservation of our food supply is a duty of necessity, humanity and honor. As a free people we have elected to discharge this duty, not under autocratic decree, but without other restraint than the guidance of individual conscience.

President J. M. Davis' address before the meeting yesterday was greatly enjoyed by the large number of Association's members who were present at the session. The speaker's patriotic and eloquent remarks were frequently interrupted by applause.—Greenville News of Friday reporting the proceedings of the Southern Textile Assn.
