OUT AMONG THE PEOPLE

COLORFUL DICKERING

Observed: A humble and somewhat awed country negro dickerer with a pompous, well dressed and very black Negro preacher in front of the bus station over the price of a little chicken in the hands of the country Negro. "Do you have many of them?" inquired the parson. "Yas-ah, lots of them" was the reply. After inquiring where the chicken vender lived the parson returned his big cigar to his mouth and struck a pose of pious gravity, raising on his toes his hands crossed behind his back, gazing heavenward through a cloud of smoke. The spell he cast over the country Negro was both quick and complete for presently he was nestling the bird under his arm, and if he paid him anything it must have been something he can cash in on in the New Jerusalem for we saw no money pass hands.

A KNEADY EDITOR

This one is so old we have no idea who wrote it but assure you it is not original: It is reported that one of the fastidious newly married ladies of this town kneads bread with gloves on. This kind of housewife may be a little out of the ordinary but there are others who have peculiarities of their own. The editor of this paper needs bread with his shoes on, he needs bread with his pants on, and unless some of the delinquent subscribers to this "Old Rag of Freedom" pony up with coin of the realm before long he will need bread without a damn thing on, and this state is no Garden of Eden in the winter time.

FOR WOMEN ONLY

This scribbler is indebted to his young friend, Mrs. T. E. Epting, a fisherman than when these are more ardent nor skillful, for a generous piece of fine pound cake. The editorial tummy didn't know what was happening above when that delectable food began saying hello to it, but it withstood the shock and purred like a kitten at being relieved of the monotony of handling common grub so long. Through the goodness of the Lord and the kindness of our readers we are better than we perhaps deserve. The mention of cake always reminds me of one my first wife used to make. She had a way of starting at the bottom of the recipe and working up. First she baked the pan slowly for two hours, using a steel hat pin to keep her hat on; then she sifted three well beaten egg yolks and ran them through a clothes wringer, adding a handful of baking powder and a pinch of gold dust; next she folded in such fat as our meagre circumstances allowed, and put in another stick of wood; then she beat the three egg whites until she was blue in the face and the eggs completely wrecked, alternating with equal parts of milk and profanity, and probably a little flour. Lastly she added a cup of butter beaten to a frazzle and put the whole in the refrigerator to freeze to death. This was no cake for a weakling, but it was eating that brought to full bloom of fine manhood the rugged individual who now addresses you.

Peace to her culinary ashes!

SLIGHT MISUNDERSTANDING

A deaf old farmer appeared at a precinct meeting and asked who was running for the county offices. "Jones is running for sheriff," yelled a by-stander in the old man's ear. "Who's he?" Never heard tell of him," commented the farmer. "Oh, yes, you have," shouted the informant. "He's a son of a bishop." "Oh, well," quavered the ancient philosophically, that's what most of these politicians is."

POSTAL EMPLOYEES NOTE

When our friend Hayne Folk gets fretted over the state of the nation he comes in for refurbishing, and ordinarily it does not take us long to get him out of the doldrums. In Saturday with a bag of worries one of which was occasioned by his sending off good money for 200 sexed chickens which he never got and probably never will. We wish he would be more careful about where he buys his chickens. We can't eat the ones he doesn't get. Another of his worries was that he didn't get The Sun this week until Saturday. The Folk household just goes all to pieces without the Sun and he plead with us to promise him for dear pity's sake not to let it happen again. All we can do is put it in the postoffice and pay the man for delivering it but we here, and now call upon all postal employees between here and Pomaria to cooperate with us to keep our friend happy and enlightened.

MARRIED FRIDAY

Miss Mary Aleene Beech and Horace B. Williams were married in a simple but beautiful ceremony Friday at 3:00 P. M. at the home of Mrs. S. B. Beech of Savannah at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Webb. Mrs. Williams is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Beech of Savannah and Mr. Williams, the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Williams, Mayer Avenue. The newly wedded couple will visit here this weekend, arriving Friday evening and returning to their home in Savannah Monday.

SERVICE MUST BE DEPENDABLE

The statement of the superintendent of the light and water plant, stripped of technical terminology and reduced to simple words, means that the management of that branch of the municipality is anxious to be in position to keep the juice flowing through the wires at all times, and as we now have our cooking, sweeping, fanning, and a thousand other things with it, that position is sound and well taken. The housewife who puts her prize cake in the oven expects juice to be there to cook it and not cut off by the time it is half baked; the surgeon who cuts into your tummy under the strong blue-white lights can't take the risk of the lights going off when he is half finished; to be stuck between floors in an elevator is not a pleasant experience and elevators depend upon electricity. Electricity has become so important in our every day existence that we are asked when it is not there when we turn the switch.

BLUSHING BABIES

Mention here last week of "blushing like a spanked baby" brought an inquiry from a bachelor friend as to which end of a baby blushed when he was spanked. Anyone with so little imagination should get himself a baby and learn first hand.

LAUDABLE UNDERTAKING

"The Civic League has planned this big affair with only one idea in mind—to boost Newberry and to give all Newberry men and people living in Newberry county an opportunity to visit Newberry's beautiful park and pool." The quotation is from an article in this issue concerning the celebration at Margaret Hunter Park Friday, July 1st from six till eight-thirty. Indeed Newberry needs boosting and we have much to boost about. Newberry needs to make the people of the county feel that they are welcome to Newberry and to all that Newberry offers in the way of recreation. The money of all the people is invested in our beautiful park and pool; there is capacity to care for all comers and we hope to see an unusually large turnout from the rural section in the city Friday. School buses should be used to bring in the children; they will have a big time, and there is no cost. Let's go!

MISS LOMINICK AND MR. ABRAMS WED

A wedding of much interest through the state took place at high noon Sunday when Miss Mildren Lominick became the wife of Malcolm Sehn Abrams in a ceremony at St. Philip's Lutheran Church. The Rev. Emmett R. Roper of the bride officiated.

The church was artistically decorated with fernery and floor baskets of white lilies, Queen Anne's lace, and gladioli which made a picturesque background for the wedding.

A program of nuptial music preceded the ceremony. Miss Ruby Axticia Ruff played "O Perfect Love" and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." Mrs. Mattie Lou Blackmon, accompanied by Miss Ruff, sang "I Love You Truly" and "O, Promise Me." The bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" was used as the professional and Mendelssohn's Wedding March as the recessional. The ceremony, which was officiated by the Rev. Emmett R. Roper, was a most beautiful affair.

The bride and groom were Rook County Commissioner Lominick, who was the best man, and Miss Ruff, who was the maid of honor. The bride and groom were accompanied by the bride's father, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Aull, sister and brother-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Aull were a heavy blue silk marquisette frock with pink accessories, her shoulder carriage being rosebuds and gladioli. The bride and groom entered and were met by the officiating minister. The bride was lovely in an elegant blue silk marquisette dress with heavy blue accessories. Her flowers were bride's roses and valley lilies.

First of Hustings Attracts But Few

The first, and only, campaign meeting for the 1938 primary was held in the court house Wednesday night. There were about 250 present, including a small sprinkling of women.

Chairman Neal W. Workman presided, presenting as the first speaker J. Kess Derrick of Little Mountain, offering for the House.

Dr. J. J. Dominick, seeking re-election to the House said he had served 6 years and summed up some of his work; stood and worked for getting full value for the tax dollar; did his best for labor and for the home and farm owner.

"I have always stood for practical, constructive legislation" he declared. Dr. Dominick reminded his hearers that it was not he who brought about a change in the method of collecting delinquent taxes, "which saved money for poor people, many of whom could not vote for me." The speaker said he did more than any member of the house toward securing for the counties an additional cent of the gasoline tax.

Dr. Dominick pointed out that all of his opponents now had a legislative record and that he was seeking to make one. He asked his hearers to look into the records of his opponents. Mr. Hatley said that he had served the county for years and intended to "live and die here" as this was his home. He sought votes on a fair basis and promised he knew in advance that he could not keep promised fair, honest representation to every class and every individual in the county, would not make the flat promise that he would go to Columbia and not taxes but would do his best as was the opinion that the reward for taxes was not to be taken into consideration.

Mr. Hatley made the race for the House two years ago. He is a member of the law firm of Hunter & Hatley.

Thomas H. Pope

Mr. Pope opened by recalling that he promised two years ago to vote and work against extra pay and that he had made good this promise. Cooperation with the delegation in cutting taxes 2 mills; worked for shorter sessions of the House; led the fight against the 5 mill levy, voted against the state appropriation bill because it was too high; supported the 40 hour bill for textile employees; voted against the supplementary appropriation bill; voted to retain workmen's standard exemption law and favors home rule.

Mr. Pope denounced extra pay and said it should be an issue in the campaign. He also opposed creating jobs to be filled out of the ranks of the legislature. Mr. Pope said that the up country should take its cue from the low country and send good men (asking aside that "good" be emphasized) to the legislature, and keep there. He was in line, he said, for a position which would reflect credit upon the county, apparently referring to the speakership; he presided over the house more than any other member and was on more committees (12) than any other member.

J. Claud Senn
Mr. Senn seeking re-election, thanked the voters for the past support and asked to be continued in the House on the strength of his record. The speaker said that he had never missed a meeting of the delegation and had been absent two days from the floor of the House in two years; had been loyal to labor; supported 8 months school law and favored better schools as he had seven children; all of school age; opposed retiring judges on pension; stood for diversion of gas tax and recalled that the county levy had been reduced 2 mills, since he came into office; Mr. Senn said that he went with a delegation to the governor and plead with him to veto the 2 mills state property tax levied on by the senate, which he did; favors homestead exemption and opposed a bill to put an extra tax on tobacco. The speaker thought the experience acquired during the past two years stood him in good stead to be seen better yet.

Bingo was played after the rock games and the following winners were presented lovely handkerchiefs: Gloria Sumner, Dorothy Webb, Evelyn Leavelle, Mrs. E. C. Clark, and Corneilia Clark.

The hostess also presented gifts to the honoree and a visitor, Mrs. Fred Gilbert. Dainty mints were served throughout the afternoon and after the games a salad, course and iced tea was enjoyed.

Ben F. Dawkins
Mr. Dawkins expressed thanks for past support, has been honest and fair, and feels he is now better equipped to fill the office of Magistrate at Newberry than two years ago when he was appointed. He promised to continue his best in fairness to all classes.

George O. Koon
Mr. Koon said he had served as Magistrate at Newberry for 6 years and sought election on his record during that time.

Paul Halle
Halle asked re-election as Commissioner from District 1 on May merits. He said that he now had more time to devote to the office and felt that with his 2 years' experience he was more capable of holding the office; still stands for full publicity of county expenditures; was the one that gave the delegation information leading to the removal of the Commissioner's office to the court house and the appointment of a new clerk and county attorney; petitioned the delegation to require all three members of the board to sign vouchers which petition was granted. The effect of this he said was to check buying without bids. The speaker said that he thought his actions in these matters demonstrated that he was not connected with any rive. Mr. Halle's opponents, Wallace Gilliam, and Whitmire, did not speak.

The play, "The Ghost Bird," has for its setting a lonely country home, a storm outside, inside a group of a super criminal, a ghostly murder, people each with a motive for murder, groans, laughter, and silence.
